Ike Orders 7th Fleet To Aid In Shifting Troops

Chiang Consents After Wrangling Lasting A Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower today ordered the 7th Fleet and other U. S. forces to help evacuate Nationalist Chinese troops and civilians from the Communist - threatened Tachen Islands.

The State Department said the move was made at the request of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist leader.

The troops will be redeployed, but the State Department announcement gave no indication whether they would be pulled back to Formosa, 200 miles to the south, or stationed, at least in part, on some of the other coastal islands close to the Red Chinese mainland.

The President's action concluded a week of wrangling between the U.S. and Chinese Nationalist governments over a demand from Chiang that the United States publicly guarantee the security of the Quemoy and Matsu islands, which are near the mainland opposite Formosa.

This demand for a public commitment was turned down. The announcement merely said the United States will help defend "such related positions and territories" as it deems essential to the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores.

This wording left up to Eisenhower the decision whether to defend Quemoy and the Matsus. It is understood that for the present the United States probably would defend them in the belief that any big attack on them would be aimed at Formosa. But officials were reported unwilling to take the position that this would always be the case.

The Tachens move followed by about 12 hours the news that American Sabrejet fighters, covering the flight of a reconnaissance bomber over the Yellow Sea, had shot down two of eight Communist fighter planes which, the Air Force said, tried to attack the bomber.

The State Department announced that the government was investigating to determine the "nationality of the command" of

Nationalists Are Calm, Yet Tense Over Evacuation

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Feb. 6 (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek's island capital got the word before dawn today of announcement in Washington that the U. S. 7th Fleet has been ordered to evacuate the nationalist garrison from the Tachens.

There was no immediate official comment. Unofficially the majority thinking appeared to be that the Tachen evacuation would be the last giving up of territory and that the remainder of Chiang's offshore islands would be held whether or no the United States gave specific promises.

Newsmen here to report the evacuation were awakened early today by fleet orders for them to get aboard ship.

A dispatch from AP Correspondent Forrest Edwards aboard a carrier previously disclosed that part of the powerful fleet began moving nearer to the Tachens Saturday.

Despite the hour the word came, excitement quickly spread through Taipeh over the impending pullout of the Nationalist garrison in the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa and 20 miles off the Red China mainland.

Americans and Chinese in Taipeh seemed agreed that the decision was a fateful one, full of dangers and potentials that the next few days might develop. Once or twice in broadcasts the Communists have said they would attack any ships that tried to remove soldiers or civilians from the Tachens. But they have not greatly accented the threat.

West Feliciana Sheriff Enters Governor's Race

ST. FRANCISVILLE, Feb. 6 (Special) —T. H. Martin, West Feliciana parish sheriff, today announced his candidacy in the 1956 gubernatorial race with a statement that was highly critical of State Police Superintendent Francis Grevemberg and his invasion of parishes to enforce state laws against the will of the residents.

Martin did not mention Col. Grevemberg in his prepared statement announcing his candidacy, but he said here that "everyone knows I'm referrring to Grevemberg."

In the statement, he condemned the action of any appointed official "superceding an elected one, except upon a plain and explicit order for a serious neglect of duty."

"Why deprive you, the people, of the right of choice as to how your parish should be operated? It is the beginning of government by a single man, the undermining of your democratic form of government, and that must not happen," Martin said.

On the issue of segregation, Martin said that he is definitely opposed to the integration of the races, but "not opposed to the Negro race." "I think he should have opportunity to earn his living in peace, to happiness of his own choosing, to education, to a full life within this state."

Martin said, "I want the best in education for every child, both white and colored, as much as he can and will accept from well-trained, well-paid educators."

On the highway situation, he condemned the use of inferior materials, poor construction and neglect on the part of maintenance.

"There are other pledges and promises to be made and kept. One of the most important is the type of campaign a man wages for any position he desires. As a candidate for Governor I purpose to wage a clean, decent campaign, to engage in no personalities, to make no far-flung promises, but Silverstein, who is also chairman of the retail merchants' committee of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, extended an invitation of members of the local chamber to attend the association meeting.

The meeting will get underway at 10 a.m. Wednesday with a business session and a discussion of the state and national legislative problems which are now confronting retailers and proposals for a new legislative program.

Election of officers for the association will also be held at the 10 a.m. meeting, and committee reports heard, Silverstein said.

At 12:30 p.m., the convention luncheon will be held and Joseph F. Leopold, a Dallas, Tex., tax expert, will speak on the subject of "Big Business — No Income Taxes."

He has addressed business gatherings, chambers of commerce, and conventions throughout the United States, and has lectured in a number of universities. Leopold has specialized in the federal tax field for a period of years.

Following the luncheon, women attending will be taken on a tour of the local television station and then will attend a cocktail party and fashion show at the Rendezvous.

Feazels' Migraine Unit At Tulane Is Dedicated

BY MARGARET McDONALD
Shreveport Times Staff Writer

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 (Special) —Medical, Governmental and Educational leaders joined Friday in paying tribute to the W. C. Feazel family of West Monroe at the dedication of the laboratory their generosity made possible.

The ceremonies, held in the recently completed addition to the Hutchinson Memorial Medical Building of Tulane University, were high-lighted by the presentation of a $20,000 check from the Feazel's, who already had given $32,000 for the establishment and maintenance of the facility.

The laboratory will be known as the Feazel Laboratory for the study of cerebral circulation and migraine. It is integrated into the cardiovascular laboratories housed on the seventh and eighth floors of the Hutchinson Annex.

A Clinic for the treatment of persons suffering from migraine and research facilities for investigations into its causes are included in the laboratory setup.

The check included $10,000 from Miss Lallage Feazel, herself a victim of migraine headaches. And an equal amount from her parents, former U. S. Senator and Mrs. Feazel. Feazel is well known in Shreveport, where the oil operator maintains offices in the Commercial Building.

Action of the Feazel family brought assurances from U. S. Senator Russel B. Long and Congressman Hale Boggs of continued support for legislation aimed at obtaining matching federal funds for financing medical research programs. The two, speakers at the dedication rites, said they believe the federal government should provide more assistance for work directed toward finding cures for the diseases which plague mankind.

Sparks Says No New Taxes Needed To Build Roads

MONROE, La. Feb. 5—UP—State Senator James D. Sparks of Monroe, La, chairman of the joint House-Senate highway committee, said today the committee would vote no increase in taxes at the present time to finance a state road-building program

The Monroe legislator said the group favors use of part of the tidelands oil revenues for the financing of highway construction.

Public hearings are scheduled by the committee Thursday and Friday in Baton Rouge to sound out opinion on a proposed $500 million highway expansion plan. The proposal was made by Dr. William D. Ross of Louisiana State University, who conducted a financial analysis for the state legislative council.

Sparks said the total cost of a 10-year highway building program recommended by Ross would be $1,548,387,000 (B)—some $548 million over the amount now available.

He said $1 billion represented the amount which can be financed on the same basis as the last 10 years and would call for no actual increase in highway expenditures.

A New York investment firm has offered to advance $500 million for the highway program and arrange a 25-year bond program for its re-payment.

Sparks said this offer had no relation to the report of Dr. Ross which also arrives at a $500 million highway need figure.

Dr. Ross has recommended several adjustments in the tax structure—including a hike, from $3 to $7 in the state automobile license tax—to finance the total program on a 20-year basis.

Sparks said the committee favors using a portion of the tidelands funds and will study whether it can be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis or should be issued on a portion of the tidelands oil revenue.

"I personally favor the issuance of short term certificates of indebtedness, all callable, if a pay-as-you-go plan is not workable," he said.

President Coty Is Seeking New French Premier

Long Period Of Indecision May Be In Prospect

PARIS, Feb. 5 (AP)—President Rene Coty today plunged into a series of talks with political leaders aimed at finding as quickly as possible a Premier to replace Pierre Mendes-France. But Coty's chances for a speedy replacement appeared dim.

France was thrust into another Cabinet crisis when the National Assembly threw out the Mendes-France government by a 319-273 vote on a motion of confidence on North African policy. France's Western allies, mindful of the fate of German rearmament and other East-West issues in which French influence is felt, hoped for a new government in short order.

But there were factors working against Coty.

The parties which united against Mendes-France have little else in common and it will be difficult for any nominee of theirs to command strength. The decision appears to rest in the Popular Republican Movement (MRP). The independent Republicans, and the Socialists — that is, in the hands of the center-left, the center and the center-right. The President is expected to appeal to one of these three groups to propose a Premier.

Of these, the MRP and most of the independent Republicans opposed Mendes-France this morning, while the Socialists supported him. The 73 MRP votes comprised the largest single opposition bloc, except for the Communists, who threw 98 votes against him.

Recent constitutional amendments will make Coty's job of finding a successful candidate easier in one respect, more difficult in another. The next candidate will need only a majority of the votes cast, instead of the absolute majority of the Assembly's entire membership. But the candidate now must also present his Cabinet choices when he goes to ask for the Assembly's initial approval. This may put him at the mercy of disappointed office-seekers.

One other new factor in the situation is that the next Premier will have a chance to dissolve the Assembly and call new elections if he is overthrown within the next year and a half. This is because of a constitutional provision allowing this step if two governments are overthrown within an 18-month period.

Although technically this morning's vote was on Mendes-France's North African policy providing local self-rule in Tunisia, reforms in Algeria and a pledge of reform in Morocco, the decision was more on the Premier's general policies,

Says LSU Should Abandon Project For TV Station

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 5 (AP) — President Troy Middleton told the board of supervisors today Louisiana State University would be better off producing television shows instead of operating a TV station.

Reporting on prospects for educational television, Middleton reminded that such a station in Baton Rouge would reach only a limited area.

"What we should be interested in," he said, "is reaching all the people."

He suggested that LSU concentrate on producing educational programs that can be distributed across the state.

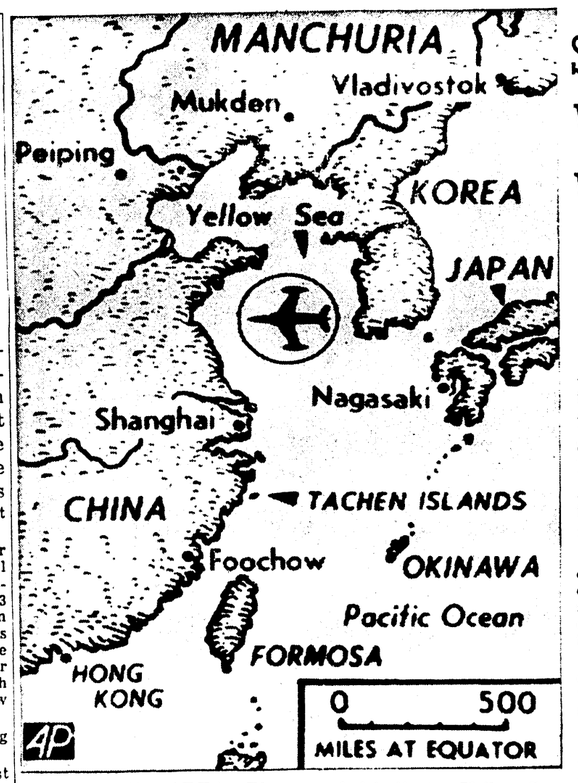

The board also:

1. Voted $35-50 monthly pension increases to retired faculty members and employes, depending on length of service.

2. Accepted $53,000 in gifts and grants.

3. Decided there will be no free tickets for such non-athletic events as rodeos, fairs and livestock shows.

4. Awarded a $777,707 contract to low bidders Farnsworth & Chambers to build a girls dormitory.

St. Francis Hospital To Be Dedicated Today With Impressive Ceremonies

All plans have been completed and all is in readiness for the dedication of the new St. Francis Hospital building today. During last week, additional equipment has been installed, and furniture placed in patients' rooms, waiting rooms, physicans and nurses' lounge rooms.

Blessing of the building by the Bishop will take place Sunday at 1:45 p. m. and the program will start at 2 p. m.

As previously announced, Dr. Alton Ochsner, of the Ochsner Medical Foundation in New Orleans, will be speaker of the occasion. His Excellency Bishop Charles P. Greco, bishop of Alexandria, will bless the building, prior to the dedication ceremonies, using the impressive ritual of the Catholic Church for such occasions. Governor Robert Kennon had been invited to attend but previous commitments will prevent his appearance here. In his absence he has designated Claude Harrison, well known Monroyan, as his representative at the exercises.

Plans have been made to have the ceremonies on the Oak street side of the hospital, where a speaker's platform will be placed, with loud speaker so that all may hear. There will be seats provided for all. If the weather is inclement, the program will be held indoors.

It is the wish of the sisters of the hospital that all interested be able to see all departments of the new building. After the formal program tours of the building will be conducted so that all can become familiar with the services that will be rendered. In all departments employes of each department will be on duty to explain the facilities. In surgery, especially, equipment will be displayed in the manner that it will be used in operations.

Assisting the hospital personnel in conducting visitors through the new facility will be members of the St. Francis Auxiliary; this organization is composed of ladies of the Twin Cities who are interested in the hospital and who devote a certain amount of their time weekly to hospital work and patient comfort and well being. The auxiliary also will operate a gift shop in the main lobby which has already been recipient of much commendation from those who have already made an inspection.

Many have expressed the thought that the new St. Francis Hospital, should be a source of great pride to the city and surrounding area. It will, it is assured, do much to make Monroe a greater than ever medical center for an extensive area in several states.

Russia Reported Very Anxious To Avoid New War

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—British diplomatic informants hinted strongly tonight Russia has joined with Britain and India in secret efforts to get an "unwritten" cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

The Soviets, admittedly fearful of a major war, were understood to be trying to stay Red China's triggers while at the same time maneuvering to get them concessions in the Formosa dispute.

Russia, Britain and India have exchanged views repeatedly about Formosa both before and after Peiping turned down the U.N. invitation to talk peace.

Tonight informants indicated Russia is ready to try to restrain Peiping while Britain and India impress upon the United States that a tight leash must also be retained on Chaing Kai-Shek.

Britain and India are in agreement with Russia that the Chinese Reds have legal rights to Chiang's offshore islands — the Quemoy, Matsu and Tachen groups. But Britain believes these islands should go to the Reds only as part of a cease-fire deal.

Sabrejets Clash With Red Craft West Of Korea

Six Enemy Ships Flee Scene After Couple Are Lost

TOKYO, Feb. 5 — UP — American F-86 Sabrejets in the biggest air battle since the Korean war Saturday shot down two Russian-built MIG-15s that attacked a U. S. Air Force reconnaissance patrol over the Yellow Sea west of Korea.

The Air Force announced that eight Communist je: fighters jumped an American RB-45 reconnaissance bomber and Sabrejets flying cover over the international waters.

It was not immediately disclosed whether the MIGs were from the Soviet or Red Chinese air force.

The Sabrejets returned the Communist fire and in the dog fight that followed two of the Communists planes were shot down. The other six turned tail and fled toward the Communist mainland, the Air Force said.

Four of the MIGs attacked the twin-jet 550-mile-per-hour bomber, the Air Force said, and the other four attacked the Sabrejets, from the Fourth Fighter - Interceptor Wing flying cover.

The American pilots "returned the attack and shot down two of the MIGs," the Air Force announcement said

The number of American planes involved in the air battle was not announced. The Air Force did not pinpoint the location of the attack but made it clear it was over international waters, beyond the legal limits of Red-held territory.

Fleet Is Alerted For Revenge Move By Red Chinese

TAIPEI, Sunday Feb. 6—UP—Chinese and American naval units began moving into position Sunday to evacuate the Nationalist-held Tachen Islands off the coast of the Red-controlled mainland.

The atmosphere was one of tension. Full security measures have been taken to guard against a surprise Communist attack and Red attempts to interfere.

All quarters were aware of the possibility of armed clashes and of war.

During the night, the Chinese air force paved the way for evacuation by pounding Communist positions and ship concentrations in the Tachen-Yikiangshan area.

Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, it ws announced earlier, has agreed formally to evacuate his military forces from Tachen Island, but has asked protection by U.S. forces.

The objects detected by the fleet's radar and sonic equipment very probably could be submarines

Of these, the MRP and most of the independent Republicans opposed Mendes-France this morning, while the Socialists supported him. The 73 MRP votes comprised the largest single opposition bloc, except for the Communists, who threw 98 votes against him.

Recent constitutional amendments will make Coty's job of finding a successful candidate easier in one respect, more difficult in another. The next candidate will need only a majority of the votes cast, instead of the absolute majority of the Assembly's entire membership. But the candidate now must also present his Cabinet choices when he goes to ask for the Assembly's initial approval. This may put him at the mercy of disappointed office-seekers.

One other new factor in the situation is that the next Premier will have a chance to dissolve the Assembly and call new elections if he is overthrown within the next year and a half. This is because of a constitutional provision allowing this step if two governments are overthrown within an 18-month period.

Although technically this morning's vote was on Mendes-France's North African policy providing local self-rule in Tunisia, reforms in Algeria and a pledge of reform in Morocco, the decision was more on the Premier's general policies,

Says LSU Should Abandon Project For TV Station

Reporting on prospects for educational television, Middleton reminded that such a station in Baton Rouge would reach only a limited area.

"What we should be interested in," he said, "is reaching all the people."

He suggested that LSU concentrate on producing educational programs that can be distributed across the state.

The board also:

1. Voted $35-50 monthly pension increases to retired faculty members and employes, depending on length of service.

2. Accepted $53,000 in gifts and grants.

3. Decided there will be no free tickets for such non-athletic events as rodeos, fairs and livestock shows.

4. Awarded a $777,707 contract to low bidders Farnsworth & Chambers to build a girls dormitory.

St. Francis Hospital To Be Dedicated Today With Impressive Ceremonies

All plans have been completed and all is in readiness for the dedication of the new St. Francis Hospital building today. During last week, additional equipment has been installed, and furniture placed in patients' rooms, waiting rooms, physicans and nurses' lounge rooms.

Blessing of the building by the bishop will take place Sunday at 1:45 p. m. and the program will start at 2 p. m.

As previously announced, Dr. Alton Ochsner, of the Ochsner Medical Foundation in New Orleans, will be speaker of the occasion. His Excellency Bishop Charles P. Greco, bishop of Alexandria, will bless the building, prior to the dedication ceremonies, using the impressive ritual of the Catholic Church for such occasions. Governor Robert Kennon had been invited to attend but previous commitments will prevent his appearance here. In his absence he has designated Claude Harrison, well known Monroyan, as his representative at the exercises.

Plans have been made to have the ceremonies on the Oak street side of the hospital, where a speaker's platform will be placed, with loud speaker so that all may hear. There will be seats provided for all. If the weather is inclement, the program will be held indoors.

It is the wish of the sisters of the hospital that all interested be able to see all departments of the new building. After the formal program tours of the building will be conducted so that all can become familiar with the services that will be rendered. In all departments employes of each department will be on duty to explain the facilities. In surgery, especially, equipment will be displayed in the manner that it will be used in operations.

Assisting the hospital personnel, in conducting visitors through the new facility will be members of the St. Francis Auxiliary; this organization is composed of ladies of the Twin Cities who are interested in the hospital and who devote a certain amount of their time weekly to hospital work and patient comfort and well being. The auxiliary also will operate a gift shop in the main lobby which has already been recipient of much commendation from those who have already made an inspection.

Many have expressed the thought that the new St. Francis Hospital, should be a source of great pride to the city and surrounding area. It will, it is assured, do much to make Monroe a greater than ever medical center for an extensive area in several states.

Russia Reported Very Anxious To Avoid New War

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—British diplomatic informants hinted strongly tonight Russia has joined with Britain and India in secret efforts to get an "unwritten" cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

The Soviets, admittedly fearful of a major war, were understood to be trying to stay Red China's triggers while at the same time maneuvering to get them concessions in the Formosa dispute.

Russia, Britain and India have exchanged views repeatedly about Formosa both before and after Peiping turned down the U.N. invitation to talk peace.

Tonight informants indicated Russia is ready to try to restrain Peiping while Britain and India impress upon the United States that a tight leash must also be retained on Chaing Kai-Shek.

Britain and India are in agreement with Russia that the Chinese Reds have legal rights to Chiang's offshore islands — the Quemoy, Matsu and Tachen groups. But Britain believes these islands should go to the Reds only as part of a cease-fire deal.

Britain and India argue that

Arkansas is expected to be cloudy and cool today with rain in the southeast portion. Clearing skies and lower temperatures are forecast for tonight and Monday.

The high recorded in Monroe yesterday was 50 degrees, while the low was 47 degrees.

Six Enemy Ships Flee Scene After Couple Are Lost

TOKYO, Feb. 5 — UP — American F-86 Sabrejets in the biggest air battle since the Korean war Saturday shot down two Russian-built MIG-15s that attacked a U. S. Air Force reconnaissance patrol over the Yellow Sea west of Korea.

The Air Force announced that eight Communist jet fighters jumped an American RB-45 reconnaissance bomber and Sabrejets flying cover over the international waters.

It was not immediately disclosed whether the MIGs were from the Soviet or Red Chinese air force.

The Sabrejets returned the Communist fire and in the dog fight that followed two of the Communists planes were shot down. The other six turned tail and fled toward the Communist mainland, the Air Force said.

Four of the MIGs attacked the twin-jet 550-mile-per-hour bomber, the Air Force said, and the other four attacked the Sabrejets, from the Fourth Fighter - Interceptor Wing flying cover.

The American pilots "returned the attack and shot down two of the MIGs," the Air Force announcement said

The number of American planes involved in the air battle was not announced. The Air Force did not pinpoint the location of the attack but made it clear it was over international waters, beyond the legal limits of Red-held territory.

American planes were ordered to fight back after a long series of Communist attacks on American reconnaissance planes in Europe and Asia.

It was the second time since the

Fleet Is Alerted For Revenge Move By Red Chinese

TAIPEI, Sunday Feb. 6—UP—Chinese and American naval units began moving into position Sunday to evacuate the Nationalist-held Tachen Islands off the coast of the Red-controlled mainland.

The atmosphere was one of tension. Full security measures have been taken to guard against a surprise Communist attack and Red attempts to interfere.

All quarters were aware of the possibility of armed clashes and of war.

During the night, the Chinese air force paved the way for evacuation by pounding Communist positions and ship concentrations in the Tachen-Yikiangshan area.

Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, it ws announced earlier, has agreed formally to evacuate his military forces from Tachen Island, but has asked protection by U.S. forces.

The objects detected by the fleet's radar and sonic equipment very probably could be submarines

BY MARGARET McDONALD
Shreveport Times Staff Writer

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 (Special) —Medical, Governmental and Educational leaders joined Friday in paying tribute to the W. C. Feazel family of West Monroe at the dedication of the laboratory their generosity made possible.

The ceremonies, held in the recently completed addition to the Hutchinson Memorial Medical Building of Tulane University, were high-lighted by the presentation of a $20,000 check from the Feazel's, who already had given $32,000 for the establishment and maintenance of the facility.

The laboratory will be known as the Feazel Laboratory for the study of cerebral circulation and migraine. It is integrated into the cardiovascular laboratories housed on the seventh and eighth floors of the Hutchinson Annex.

A Clinic for the treatment of persons suffering from migraine and research facilities for investigations into its causes are included in the laboratory setup.

The check included $10,000 from Miss Lallage Feazel, herself a victim of migraine headaches. And an equal amount from her parents, former U. S. Senator and Mrs. Feazel. Feazel is well known in Shreveport, where the oil operator maintains offices in the Commercial Building.

Action of the Feazel family brought assurances from U. S. Senator Russel B. Long and Congressman Hale Boggs of continued support for legislation aimed at obtaining matching federal funds for financing medical research programs. The two, speakers at the dedication rites, said they believe the federal government should provide more assistance for work directed toward finding cures for the diseases which plague mankind.

20 Per Cent Tax Boost In 9 Categories Holds Mississippi Spotlight

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 5 (AP)—A 20 per cent boost in nine taxes is expected to take the spotlight in the House as the Mississippi Legislature enters the fifth week of its special session Monday.

Rep. Hilton Watts of Washington County, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said the surtax bill would reach the House floor early in the week.

Because of its broad coverage, the surtax is bound to draw heavy fire. Gov. Hugh White said he isn't "sold on the idea at all" and suggested raising gasoline taxes instead.

The tax-raising program was designed to provide funds to equalize Negro and white schools to keep segregation.

But after four weeks of the special session, only two bills neared the governor's desk—a cigarette tax increase and an extra $3 appropriation per Negro child for school construction.

In 1953, the Legislature enacted a 120 million-dollar four-range building program calling for about 20 million dollars extra a year for the next 20 years.

The cigarette tax increase, from four to five cents a pack, will bring in an extra $1,450,000 a year and the extra $3 will help channel the money into the areas where it is most needed.

Thursday, the House passed a gigantic sales tax increase from two to three per cent but left it gutted by 4½ million dollars a year.

The original bill would have produced more than 18 million dollars a year but the House kept several exemptions in the present law, reducing the income in "new money" to about 14 millions.

The bill still faces Senate action, probably Wednesday morning.

The "$3" bill would boost to $15 the amount of money counties would receive per Negro child per year for construction. Under present law, counties would receive $12 per child, white or Negro.

Because the House removed a sentence, the bill must return to the Senate for expected concurrence.

Schools in counties with heavy Negro populations generally are extremely sub-par. Since Negro schools must be improved before white schools can be constructed, the lawmakers felt they could speed up the process by giving more money to "black" counties.

Included in the cigarette tax bill is a proposal to levy one half cent tax on each nickel's worth of snuff and chewing tobacco and a penny tax on smoking tobacco.

The Senate added the smoking tobacco tax and cut in half a House proposal to levy a penny tax on snuff and chewing tobacco.

The half cent tax on snuff and chewing tobacco would place Mississippi prices more in line with surrounding states and the House is expected to concur in the Senate change.

The sales tax increase bill includes what many lawmakers call the first step toward "legalizing whisky" in this "dry" state.

Billy May Wants To Thank All Who Gave For TV Set

A money order for fifteen dollars was mailed Saturday to C. E. Thompson, school bus driver in Chatham, to complete payment on the TV set that has been purchased for Billy Ray May, 18, of Chatham, a polio victim for four years, unable to leave his wheel chair.

He had expressed a desire to have a TV set and Mr. Thompson, a loyal friend, gave a story for the News-Star — World which resulted in securing enough money with the fifteen dollars just mailed to Mr. Thompson, to pay for the set in full.

The money for mail order was raised thus: $10, was donated through efforts of Mrs. Mamie Harrison and her associates in the annex of the Palace store; three dollars were mailed in from Winnsboro, no name being given and two more to make fifteen dollars was from a News-Star employe, name not given.

On behalf of Billy May, Mr. Thompson wants to thank everyone who contributed money. Money was sent to him from Newellton and other towns and all seemed delighted to aid an unfortunate boy. Billy says he doesn't know how he lived without one and wants to thank each and everyone who aided him to get his new TV set.

Plush Establishment Spilled Over Line From Louisiana

Gov. White Orders Crackdown On Gaming Palace

PEARLINGTON, Miss. Feb. 5 —(UP)— A flourishing gambling casino just inside the Mississippi boundary was ordered closed tonight by Gov. Hugh White if the operators "want to save face."

State Adj. Gen. William P. Wilson, with orders to smash the gaming equipment if the operators are defiant, delivered White's ultimatum that the place, The Oasis, must not reopen tomorrow night.

White said the club, a squat concrete block building bulging with gambling devices, was run by a "bad gang" chased out of Louisiana. It opened New Year's Eve, complete with a shuttle bus service out of New Orleans for patrons.

"It's pretty nervy on their part that they think they can operate in Mississippi," White said in disclosing his unprecedented ultimatum.

"We are not raiding the place immediately," White said, "but it will not be allowed to open Sunday night."

Gen. Wilson, who has directed dozens of axe-swinging crackdowns on illegal gambling and whisky operations along the Gulf Coast, declined to name the "operators" of the Oasis, which is just 250 yards inside the Mississippi boundary in Hancock county.

Wilson said he arranged the "meeting" with the operators through Hancock Sheriff John Egloff.

"These people are going to get out and stay out," Wilson said.

Wilson was told by White to order National Guardsmen to shatter the gambling equipment if the owners open the place tomorrow night.

Wilson disclosed that an investigation of the club had been underway, even as a recent series of articles in the New Orleans Item outlined the operation.

Special busses out of New Orleans shuttled patrons from Louisiana to the club on U. S. 90, the gulf coast highway. A bar and restaurant was available to customers along with the gambling setup, which included a keno game for 1,000 players.

About 25 persons were believed running the games. Some manned "walkie-talkie" radios to speed up the keno play. Three dice tables, five roulette wheels and two black jack games were in operation.

Wilson said all of the games were jammed into a room 60 by 80 feet, with wall to wall carpeting.

Gov. White said the gamblers moved in "in the face of warnings" not to try to establish foothold in Mississippi after a crackdown in Louisiana.

"I want this to be a warning to all others who operate or plan to operate such places that they cannot flaunt our laws," White said in ordering Wilson to issue the ultimatum to the operators of The Oasis.

White's action today was unusual in that previously National Guardsmen swooped down on places violating the prohibition and gambling laws, smashing equipment and supplies without warning.

"If these operators want to save face, they'd better get out, and take their equipment," White said.

American Production At Near-Record Levels, With Car Industry Pace-Setter

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The nation's industrial machine moved along at a faster clip this week with production in many lines at or near record levels.

Pacesetter was the auto industry which turned out 164,295 new passenger cars—only three-tenths of one per cent less than in the record week of June 24, 1950.

All-time records were set in consumption of electric power, which passed 10 billion kilowatt hours for the first time, and in manufacture of petroleum products.

Steel output, estimated at 85.4 per cent of capacity, was the highest since November 1953.

The construction industry continued to show amazing strength. Heavy engineering contract awards for the first five weeks of 1955 were running 64 per cent ahead of year-ago levels; the fir plywood industry, stockpiling for an anticipated building boom this spring, boasted its heaviest backlog of orders in 50 years. The Federal Home Loan Board predicted 1,200,000 new homes would be started this year—100,000 more than in 1954.

No one could say for sure, of course, how long the upturn would last.

The National City Bank of New York cautioned that automobile production, the main support of the present business recovery, must "eventually" slow down—either because of factory strikes or overstocking of dealers. Roy L. Reierson, economist for the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, said there is "real danger" that the upturn "may develop into an unsound boom."

But there were others who said the biggest danger lies in too much restraint on the economy rather than too little. Harvard economist Alvin H. Hansen told a congressional committee that government officials are so preoccupied with preventing inflation that the nation has become satisfied with a rate of economic growth far short of what it could be. And Herbert Stein, associate director of the Committee ior Economic Development, declared: "I hope the administration will not now be drawn into a crusade against inflation when there is no inflation."

The American Federation of Labor forecast a higher level of wages in 1955—but also a rise of about one million in unemployment.

The stock market showed some hesitancy but by week's end it had apparently resumed its upward climb. Meanwhile Sen. Fulbright's (D-Ark) investigating committee sent out questionnaires to brokers and others in an effort to find out if the market rise of the past few months held any dangers to the economy.

Apprehension over developments in the Far East continued to boost demand for some commodities and materials, but it was Mr. and Mrs. Average Consumer who still held the key to future trends in employment and production.

The Commerce Department noted that Americans had more income and more spending money last year than ever before, despite several months of recession and rising unemployment. Personal income in December was at an annual rate of 291 billion dollars—well above the boom peak of 1953. Wages were down about 2½ billion in 1954 but higher stock dividends, interest rates, and unemployment compensation checks took up the slack.

Shoppers continued to spend freely throughout January. Department store sales for the four weeks ended Jan. 29, were a good 10 per cent ahead of year-ago sales. Sears Roebuck & Co. said its January business, nearly 213 million, was the highest on record for that month and up almost 19 per cent from January last year.

Big question mark this week was the outlook for consumer buying of new automobiles. While manufacturers issued glowing reports of booming production, dealers complained of price discounting, high trade-ins and shrinking profits. Frederick J. Bell, executive vice president of the National Automobile Dealers Assn., accused manufacturers of "indifference and arrogance" and said they were "coercing" retailers to accept more cars than they could sell. "We are almost at the point of no return," he added.

President Harlow H. Curtice of General Motors denied published reports that the big auto maker was stockpiling cars against the possibility of a midyear strike, after contracts with the CIO United Auto Workers expire.

Formosa Treaty To Be Approved Knowland Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—UP—Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland predicted Saturday the Formosa mutual defense treaty will be given Senate approval by an overwhelming vote.

He also told reporters President Eisenhower wants the treaty ratified as soon as possible, even while efforts are being made toward cease-fire negotiations in the Chinese crisis.

The treaty was negotiated last year with the Chinese Nationalist government, based on Formosa. It commits the United States to help defend Formosa and the neighboring Pescadores from Communist attack.

Senate consideration of the pact was delayed for two weeks by Mr. Eisenhower's request that congress vote him unlimited authority to defend Nationalist-held Islands off the Red China mainland.

Noting that the Senate ratified the Southeast Asia treaty this week with less than a day of debate, Knowland suggested the Formosa pact may come to a vote before next weekend. If not, it will be delayed 10 days or more because the Senate will conduct only routine business the following week while Republicans are away for their annual Lincoln week speeches.

Knowland foresaw no trouble for the treaty although the fight-if-necessary resolution kicked up much debate before the Senate passed it by an 85 to 3 vote.

American Production At Near-Record Levels, With Car Industry Pace-Setter

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The nation's industrial machine moved along at a faster clip this week with production in many lines at or near record levels.

Pacesetter was the auto industry which turned out 164,295 new passenger cars—only three-tenths of one per cent less than in the record week of June 24, 1950.

All-time records were set in consumption of electric power, which passed 10 billion kilowatt hours for the first time, and in manufacture of petroleum products.

Steel output, estimated at 85.4 per cent of capacity, was the highest since November 1953.

The construction industry continued to show amazing strength. Heavy engineering contract awards for the first five weeks of 1955 were running 64 per cent ahead of year-ago levels; the fir plywood industry, stockpiling for an anticipated building boom this spring, boasted its heaviest backlog of orders in 50 years. The Federal Home Loan Board predicted 1,200,000 new homes would be started this year—100,000 more than in 1954.

No one could say for sure, of course, how long the upturn would last.

The National City Bank of New York cautioned that automobile production, the main support of the present business recovery, must "eventually" slow down—either because of factory strikes or overstocking of dealers. Roy L. Reierson, economist for the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, said there is "real danger" that the upturn "may develop into an unsound boom."

But there were others who said the biggest danger lies in too much restraint on the economy rather than too little. Harvard economist Alvin H. Hansen told a congressional committee that government officials are so preoccupied with preventing inflation that the nation has become satisfied with a rate of economic growth far short of what it could be. And Herbert Stein, associate director of the Committee ior Economic Development, declared: "I hope the administration will not now be drawn into a crusade against inflation when there is no inflation."

The American Federation of Labor forecast a higher level of wages in 1955—but also a rise of about one million in unemployment.

The stock market showed some hesitancy but by week's end it had apparently resumed its upward climb. Meanwhile Sen. Fulbright's (D-Ark) investigating committee sent out questionnaires to brokers and others in an effort to find out if the market rise of the past few months held any dangers to the economy.

Apprehension over developments in the Far East continued to boost demand for some commodities and materials, but it was Mr. and Mrs. Average Consumer who still held the key to future trends in employment and production.

The Commerce Department noted that Americans had more income and more spending money last year than ever before, despite several months of recession and rising unemployment. Personal income in December was at an annual rate of 291 billion dollars—well above the boom peak of 1953. Wages were down about 2½ billion in 1954 but higher stock dividends, interest rates, and unemployment compensation checks took up the slack.

Shoppers continued to spend freely throughout January. Department store sales for the four weeks ended Jan. 29, were a good 10 per cent ahead of year-ago sales. Sears Roebuck & Co. said its January business, nearly 213 million, was the highest on record for that month and up almost 19 per cent from January last year.

Big question mark this week was the outlook for consumer buying of new automobiles. While manufacturers issued glowing reports of booming production, dealers complained of price discounting, high trade-ins and shrinking profits. Frederick J. Bell, executive vice president of the National Automobile Dealers Assn., accused manufacturers of "indifference and arrogance" and said they were "coercing" retailers to accept more cars than they could sell. "We are almost at the point of no return," he added.

President Harlow H. Curtice of General Motors denied published reports that the big auto maker was stockpiling cars against the possibility of a midyear strike, after contracts with the CIO United Auto Workers expire.

Call For Bids On Reconstruction Local Homestead

Bids for the proposed reconstruction of the People's Homestead and Savings building, DeSiard and Catalpa streets, will be opened February 24 in the architectural offices of Johns and Nell, Suite 11, Amman building.

It is expected that the cost of the reconstruction will run as high as $100,000.

Already a number of builders have secured plans and specifications and will undoubtedly enter bids. They are to date: W. C. Salley, Monroe; Gilbert Bros., Monroe; E. H. Eiland, Tallulah; R. J. Jones & Sons, Alexandria; and J. A. Harper, Crowville.

The reconstruction will occasion the creation of the main entrance on Catalpa Street, rather than on DeSiard, and numerous other changes are proposed.

Solons Reject Nudist's Bid To Give Testimony

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 5—UP—A request from a Missouri nudist to appear before a legislative committee as a masked witness was rejected, it was learned Friday.

The nudist — identified only as a woman from the Joplin area—asked to testify at a committee hearing here next Tuesday night on a bill proposing to outlaw nudist camps and literature.

Rep. Thomas A. Graham, Jefferson City Democrat who is chairman of the House Judiciary committee which will conduct the hearing, said he understood the woman wanted to wear a heavy veil or a mask to avoid publicity.

Graham said the request was rejected. He pointed out that Missouri legislative committees have never resorted to the "secret witness" procedure.

The committee chairman said he had to switch his hearing to the House chamber after a flood of telephone calls from local residents who wanted to watch the proceedings. The chamber, including galleries and sidelines, will seat over 300 persons.

Normally, the judiciary committee meets in the House lounge which has a seating capacity of only 50.

Graham said he had received notice from two nudist groups, the National Nudist Council in Chicago, and the American Sunbathers Association in New Jersey, that they would have representatives present. He said he also understood that Mrs. Maria Parks of Newton, Kan., who bills herself as the queen of Midwest Nudists, would be a witness.

Appearing in support of the bill will be Rev. Braxton B. Sawyer of Fort Smith, Ark., who sponsored similar proposals in Oklahoma and Kansas legislatures. A House committee in Oklahoma City killed an anti-nudist bill earlier this week.

Rubinstein Held $15 Million In Aircraft Shares

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—UP—Draft dodger Serge Rubinstein controlled about 200,000 shares of Boeing Airplane Co. stock worth $15 million when he was slain by a mysterious assassin last week, it was reported Friday.

Rubinstein's holding in the defense-vital airplane firm were described in a copyrighted article in Barron's Week magazine, which said he acquired them through [illegible] friend and banker [illegible] who secured the stock in exchange for [illegible] between 1947 and 1948. At that time Rubinstein was in a federal prison serving 30 months on draft dodging.

Shelton was not available for comment but police said he had asked Friday for permission to carry a gun to protect himself. Detectives said the broker claimed he was not afraid of Rubinstein's sister but felt he needed protection. He was told he had to make application for a permit.

Boeing spokesmen said it had no record of Rubinstein as a stockholder and he could have held the stock through a broker.

Boeing holds a number of important defense contracts including production of the B-47 atomic bomber and the jet B-52 heavy bomber. The KC-97 military transport plane and top-secret guided missile products. The company also has a contract to help develop an atomic-powered aircraft in connection with Pratt & Whitney.

Morehouse Will Organize D. A. R. Children's Group

BASTROP, Feb. 5 (Special)—Initial steps have been taken for the organization of a chapter of the Children of the American Revolution in the Bear parish.

Mrs. J. D. Barham, senior organizer's president said her committee, Mrs. Joseph Davenport and Mrs. I. A. Allen are asking that parents and grandparents of children [illegible] contact them.

The middle of April has been set as organization time. Mrs. J. B. Strachan, membership chairman, and Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, regent, Ahoskie Morehouse chapter D. A. R., are working with the genealogical details.

URGE COOPERATION IN READING FESTIVAL—Mrs. B. W. Biedenharn, left, chairman of the board of control for the Ouachita parish public library, and Miss Frances Flanders, right, parish librarian, are shown with the mayors of Monroe and West Monroe, John Coon and J. Allan Norris, who urged the cooperation with parish libraries in furthering the Louisiana Reading Festival, being held this month through April. (Staff photo by John Oldenburg.)

Reading Festival To Be Observed

All individuals and organizations in Ouachita parish are being asked to cooperate in the local celebration of a state-wide Louisiana Reading Festival, Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, has announced.

"We want our parish to take a real part in this Reading Festival", Miss Flanders said. "We are eager for all our citizens to discover that reading is the keenest, the cheapest and the most lasting of pleasures. Why not make this springtime a reading time and visit the library, fill out a card if one is not already on file," the librarian asked.

Miss Flanders suggested that all organized groups might feature books and reading on at least one program during February, March or April. She said that material for such programs was available at the parish library.

Door Wide Open For Any Kind Of Proposed Law In Texas During This Week

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Legislature's door is wide open next week for citizens to have their say on almost any type of proposed new law in Texas.

For instance, should a candidate's kinfolk help count the votes on election night? If you want to speak up on that, a bill that says they shouldn't will be heard by the Senate Committee on Elections Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Should Texas try to hold down lawless tendencies of its youngsters by outlawing corruptive comic books? The House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee will hear a bill on that Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Should it be lawful to trail a wounded deer with dogs in Fort Bend and 49 other counties? House Game and Fish Committee Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Should your membership in a union on strike bar you from receiving jobless pay benefits? See the Senate State Affairs Committee Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Should the waiting period in divorce cases be increased from 30 to 90 days as a legal clog to the mounting divorce rate? Senate Civil Jurisprudence Committee Monday afternoon.

Those are typical of the dozens of bills up for hearing as the Legislature goes into its fifth week with little major business on its calendar. Most of the work just ahead is in committee.

The Senate has one controversial bill ready for debate. The House had one that might create a limited stir under argument when it joined the Senate in a long week-end recess Thursday.

The Senate measure is the first labor-regulatory bill of the session to win committee approval. It would prohibit organizational picketing by a union that does not represent a majority of the employees involved.

This bill is along the lines of labor laws suggested by Gov. Shivers to curb strikes such as those at Port Arthur. Foes said the bill was aimed at stopping union expansion.

Postponed until Monday in the House for further debate was a measure regulating naturopathic medicine. The bill is a vastly detailed measure saying just what naturopathic physicians may and may not do. They are a school of physicians who emphasize use of such natural curative agents as herbs.

House and Senate committees have mapped hearings on major measures, such as 11 statewide water control bills set for Monday night in the Senate's Water Committee.

Several insurance measures are scheduled. The Senate committee looking at the embroiled veteran's land program goes back to work Monday at 8 a.m. and the House committee Thursday at 2:30 p.m.

St. Francis Hospital Opens

Starting humbly back in 1913, St. Francis sanitarium now emerges as one of the state's largest and best equipped institutions for the care of the sick to be found anywhere in this state or other states of the South. With the expansion of the institution, which occupies an entire block from Wood to Oak streets, and with seven towering stories, it has changed its more modest name into St. Francis hospital.

This institution now possesses 300 beds, and to make possible this large increased number, in a down-to-the minute hospital equipped with the latest that medical science can provide, it was necessary to expend virtually two million dollars in the construction of a building second to none of the kind. After that, the facilities of such an institution and the furnishings will total probably as much as $500,000, additionally it is stated by Everett Burgoyne, business manager of the hospital.

This vast expenditure of money is to meet the rapidly expanding population of the Twin Cities and of the Fifth district with its 14 ever-growing parishes.

The opening of this great institution will create in the Twin Cities a medical center second to none in the state. It will serve people who have met with illness that requires expert and immediate attention. In all probability the opening of this new hospital will bring many here from not only the Fifth district but from other parts of the state as the word is passed out that we have here an institution that a city of a quarter of a million could well boast.

Monroe and West Monroe can be justly proud of this greatly expanded hospital. It has long been needed and only through foresight has it been made possible to supply an ever increasing need.

In years past, hospitals were not regarded as vital essentials. If one went to a hospital, the entire family and friends of the patient were assured that life was about to come to an end. But with mounting accidents in this modern world, greater skill of physicians and surgeons, and the increasing insuring of the public to meet bills suddenly thrust on the sick, the hospital loomed as a friend most urgently needed. Today far more people go to a hospital and are able to resume normal life than are those whose lives end inside hospital walls.

All Monroyans and West Monroyans as well as the entire area of northeast Louisiana should welcome having these new facilities. It is a step forward and is vitally needed for the far larger city that will loom on this site in the next few years. All who planned and invested in this great expansion deserve the hearty praise and approval of the local public.

Mayors Of The Past

In the Twin Cities during the week just ended the pages of time were reopened and re-scanned for a brief period. Quite strangely, almost at the same hour Thursday morning, deaths of two prominent persons, whose lives had been linked to past events, occurred.

Former Mayor H. H. Benoit, who served several terms in the capacity of the city's chief executive up to 1948, succumbed to long continued illness. Almost at the same time Miss Louise Endom, daughter of the city's first mayor at the close of the War Between the States, also died. This caused many to inquire as to the identity of that early official.

Mr. Benoit surprised his many friends when he assumed the office of Mayor of Monroe. He had been recognized as a successful businessman but not as one who had ever held public office.

But those responsible for placing him in that responsible position were at no time disappointed. He served fairly and well. To be sure, there were many intricate and deeply involved problems to be adjusted but he proceeded manfully and justly to do what he regarded as right.

He will be remembered as a successful mayor of Monroe, and his passing will be cause for genuine regret.

Very old timers can relate that the Endom Transfer company and livery stable was a well-known and prosperous company in horse and buggy days. It was operated from a site immediately west of and adjoining the present Ouachita National Bank.

Mr. Endom, as head of an old and prosperous business, was chosen as the man to lead the fortunes of Monroe in the trying days when carpetbaggers flourished. He served with no salary, for the treasury was empty and also it is questioned whether or not he was actually elected as mayor. It is reported by others that friends informally set him up in that office. Later, however, he proved so successful that he was elected, as it is understood, in full legal manner.

Miss Louise Endom, like her father, was large-hearted with her means, which were ample, and she aided in many charities and with her golden voice, which was at the service of any and all good causes. She also possessed some of the skill of her father in business.

'Thou Shalt Not Kill'

There should be a rising concern throughout society over the alarming increase in murder. There was a time when the nation showed alarm over gang killings.

The 1920s sprouted murders among members of rival gangs. Such killings have become rare in recent months, to be replaced by other types. Murder has become the resort of many classes of society, a situation which is even more alarming than gang warfare.

Husbands kill wives, parents kill children, friends murder friends. News columns are full of these reports. Human life is held in actual contempt by those who resort to murder, often for no reason at all. There are definite signs of the moral degeneration of a presumably Christian people.

The Sixth Commandment is the shortest of the ten. "Thou shalt not kill." Just four simple words. There are no exceptions. No conditions under which murder is justified. This is God's law, set down to be obeyed. It has never been repealed. Humanity will do well to remember this.

Watered Vodka

Representative Daniel J. Flood, Pennsylvania Democrat, proposes that Congress sponsor the preparation of a textbook containing "the true facts on Communism."

That's a good idea, but what are the true facts?

They've just ordered it rewritten.

You see, this Marx never did a lick of work in his life except to write propaganda. He admits it in his own book. And what's more, he couldn't even make his writings pay, much less his theories.

Yet certain fog - bound brains in this country are arguing that we ought to make "Das Kapital" a textbook.

Which "Das Kapital"? Every time they have a new face in the front office over there, they rewrite this handbook for free loaders.

And they have quite a turnover.

In 28 years, nine of 11 Russian Cabinet Members have been shot. Five out of seven presidents of the Central Executive committee, likewise. Forty - three of the 53 secretaries of the Communist Party Central Organization have been executed. Fifteen of the 27 top Communists who drafted the '36 Constitution have met the firing squad. Seventy out of 80 members of the Soviet War Council, executed. And every member of Lenin's first Politburo, except Stalin, was executed. And three out of every five Marshals in the Soviet Army.

That's what our youngsters should be studying! Not Marxism in theory, but communism in practice.

"Das Kapital" was written by both Lenin and Stalin. And now the Central Committee of the Communist Party has ordered it rewritten again to suit Mr. Malenkov.

I don't know what changes they'll make, but I can guess some.

Marx's ideas about cooperative farming didn't pan out too well. So, as production diminished, incentives were employed to bring it up again.

And it's getting more and more difficult for the peasants to reconcile the preachments of "Das Kapital" . . . about divvying up everything with everybody . . . when they see those fat plutocrats strutting around the Kremlin entertaining in an orgy of extravagance like nothing since Nero

Yes, I can see where they'd want to amend Marx. Put some new words in his mouth. Rewrite the rule book, before too many peasants start asking questions.

In 1927, Will Rogers wrote, "You could take those 600,000 Communists over in Russia and take 600,000 rich Americans, and you could put them all together and make the Americans divide up with them equally and in six months the 600,000 Communists wouldn't have anything left but some long hair and a scheme to try to get back the half that the Americans were smart enough to take from them."

Yet, in the midst of the only country in the world where people have to worry about "How can I reduce?" and "Where can I park?" we still have a masochistic minority blubbering about "the evils of the capitalist system."

Well, when people start waiting to get out of this country instead of waiting to get in, then we can start worrying about our system.

THE MAKING OF A GOOD AMERICAN

Public Forum—Voice Of All The People

Against The Sword

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Our high command is right, Formosa must be defended. In case the Reds would take it, they go right on and grab the rest of Asia, piece by piece. They are on the march for world conquest, and are using the sword again, they have to be stopped before it's too late, a line has to be drawn on their further approaches on the free world.

The president should be given the right of way now, in any way he sees fit to save the rest of the world. You can't preach appeasement, against the sword, fire must be met with fire to stop the Reds. If they take Asia, America would be their next target.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Leadership

Mer Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The great sin of this writer was not so much as disagreeing with "me and the editor" and "me and the floor leader" as it was in disagreeing with "me."

Mr. Morgan, in a fulsome way, asked me to point out just one thing that the U. N. has done that benefitted the U. S.

The answer to that runs parallel to the answer Mr. Morgan gave me in a personal letter, a copy of which is enclosed.

I suggest he write Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, member of the U. S. Delegates, and Mr. Lodge who is the top man of the U. S. Delegates.

I do not see eye to eye with Mrs. Roosevelt, but there has been nothing in my reading about the woman that even hinted that she is a liar. Mrs. Roosevelt says the U. N. has done good. Likewise, Mr. Lodge backs that contention. I would rather follow the leadership of Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Lodge than someone who has a billy goat's tendency to advertise.

I do not care to see "the original letter that I wrote him (the editor) August 22." That is why I did not react to his suggestion. Neither do I think the editor treated me shabbily when he deleted "almost half of my letter in the paper."

The empty wagon is still making the most noise.

Dear Old England

De Ridder, La.

Editor, Morning World:

You can read the hand-writing on the wall, Nationalist China will be sold out again, the Reds appeased, because dear old England says so. How much longer are we going to allow England to dictate our policies. Every time our leaders listen to England, we lose a little, the Reds gain a little.

Are we, the American people, going to sit quiet, while "union now" Rhodes scholars like Kefauver and Fulbright turn us back to England, which our forefathers rebelled against to be free?

Are we going to sit by and let the fuzzy - minded, power hungry, "one worlders" sell us out to world dictatorship through the U. N. and N. A. T. O.?

Do we want our children to be children without a country, slaves to a world dictator, who may be Red, Chinese or Jap.

Do we want our standards of living lowered to the depth of the most lowly nation on earth? Our freedom and all we hold dear lost, maybe forever?

Wake up pro - Americans, we need you now. Tomorrow may be too late.

Editor, Morning World:

I wish to help clear up a matter I saw in your paper last Sunday in reference to a letter written about a speeder, the one who was fined in Jennings, La., for $75.

Having lived in Jennings almost all of my life, I think Mr. Whitton better think twice before he writes again about the laws of our state concerning speeding. Mr. Foster said that he was driving at a speed of 75 miles an hour on our highway, well, the laws say the speed imited is 65 and that is plenty fast. Also stated he stopped at the first stop light he came to, well, let's see, from Jennings, going west on highway 90 is the town of Welsh and the town has two stop lights, and it is impossible to hit both of them green unless you are traveling at a high rate of speed. Now, if he was traveling west on 190, the town of Elton is only 18 miles away, has three stop lights, and I don't think he could pass through there at a high rate of speed. If he was going east he would go as far as Estherwood and hit another light, that is only ten miles from Jennings, that is on U. S. 90. I really cannot figure him out. Another thing is that there are three Louisiana state troopers headquarters within the radius of 50 miles from Jennings, Lake Charles, 32 miles, Lafayette, 40 miles, and Opelousas 50 miles. Besides that, there are cities which are larger in size than Jennings in the so-called 45 miles he was forced back too, to pay the fine as Crowley, Lake Charles, Eunice, and Lafayette. So I think he better realize that our T. V. T. is something not to laugh at or to forget about, thanks to them for helping to rid our highways of speed devils as the rest of us like to live awhile longer and enjoy safe riding on our highways, again thanks to the men who make it possible to do that thing which we will not forget toward the future of safety on the highways of Louisiana.

More Russian Treachery

Ruston, La.

Editor:

Recently Georgi Malenkov promised Britain's Anthony Eden he would "use his influence with Red China to prevent another World War over Formosa." This is more, nothing but, Soviet treachery and it is astonishing to see how the free world swallows it. Russia is the instigator of it all.

There is no more any China; it's now part of the Soviet Empire. It has been that way ever since Mao Tse-tung chased Chiang Kai-shek onto Formosa. It was Molotov, not Mao, who took over China. Molotov's first big move was to send a million Chinese into north Korea during the Korean War. Russia now has a "Little Kremlin" established in Peiping. Manchuria is stocked with Russian guns, tanks and planes, all pointing toward Peiping. Yugoslavia is the only Communist country to escape the tentacles, shackles, of the Soviets and this nation may fall to the Soviet's after Tito's death.

No, Georgi Malenkov is not trying to stop the battle over Formosa and he does not intend to stop until Formosa becomes a Russian satellite. The followers of Karl Marx expect to gain control of this world through treachery. There will never be peace on this earth until the fourteen stooges of Satan in the Kremlin have been blasted from this earth. If there were only three men on earth and one were a Communist he would start a fight between the other two, then grab all their worldly possessions.

Red China's Dope Peddling

Los Angeles, Calif.

Editor, Morning World:

In the February issue of Reader's Digest is an article entitled, "Red China, The World's Biggest Dope Peddler." Many, many months ago, in, I think, The Freeman Magazine, was a similar and more detailed and frightening article. This menace then is nothing new, and neither is the knowledge of it.

The strange thing, and to me, incomprehensible thing, is that so little has been done about it. Oh, sure, our narcotic squads are being enlarged and are working miracles, miracles that might have been effective in dealing with isolated sources of supply. But today we are dealing (or rather failing to deal) with a government as the supplier.

That makes the old methods of detection and prevention obsolete.

There is, however, a better method available, if we had the moral stamina to use it. There are two of the largest and best trained and best equipped armies in Asia, both of them straining at the leash, eager to strike at the source of this traffic — Red China.

Considering that this dope peddling, big as it is, contributing as it does to a moral delinquency which is already threatening the very vitals of our western civilization, and, even so, considering that it is but one of a many pronged threat to the west, it is utterly incomprehensible that we refuse to use the one most potent, and the cheapest weapon for our protection — those armies of Chiang and Rhee.

Instead, we and the U. N. talk another "cease fire," which of course, they well know there is no chance of getting, but that's only camouflage anyway. What really counts is the evacuation of the Tachens.

We say they are not defensible save at too great a cost, and probably they are not if the invasion were carried to them. But, I've always read that the best defense is a strong offensive movement, just such a movement as both Chiang and Rhee have for months and even years been begging to mount.

They have all the manpower needed. They have the will. About all they need is landing craft, some of the bombs and bombers we have been destroying deliberately in target practice on the deserts here at home.

And, much more important, not one general, not one military man really schooled in things Asiatic agrees with the One - World opponents who claim that an invasion of Continental China would result in a general world war.

China couldn't mount such a war if she wanted to. Russia cannot supply her with the materials to sustain a war even on the Chinese mainland. And Russia dare not mount a war either east or west. She dare not trust even her own people, and certainly she dare not trust her captive peoples.

Yet, with all this dope flowing into the western countries, with the certainty that both Communist Russia and Communist China need only time to build the means with which they think they could win by a sudden, all embrasive knockout blow before plunging the world into war, we supply them that time. And Tachens is part of it.

It doesn't make sense.

If we really want to stop this dope traffic, if we really want to avoid what will actually be a global World War III, why under the sun don't we simply take the wraps off both Chiang and Rhee and say go to it boys?

The question is — do we really want to avoid W. W. III? I think we do. But, I also think that we hope some way will be found which will not, at the same time, curtail or make unnecessary the multi - billion defense spending which keeps going this surge of "unprecedented prosperity and economic expansion."

We should, however, remember the "certain rich man" of the Bible whose economic expansion outstripped his humanity. God said: "Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee. Then whose shall these things be."

Stock Market

Since everybody likes prosperity except the Communists, the senate inquiry into stock markets, beginning on Feb. 21, will not be the sort of grilling which leading financial interests received in the Pecora investigation, more than 20 years ago, but can bring to light more real facts.

The new inquiry will be under direction of Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.) the new chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, which made a similar probe in 1933-34, highlighted by such an absurdity as the planting of a female midget on the lap of J. P. Morgan the younger, then the nation's leading financier, by a circus press agent for a publicity stunt.

Morgan was not harmed by that incident, but some other leading figures in the banking world received such a fervid going over from Ferdinand Pecora, the New York prosecutor, later a member of the highest court in New York, that they never appeared to advantage on Wall Street again.

Now with the prices of stocks riding high, Senator Fulbright's committee can make a judicious inquiry into prices whether they seem to go too high, how they seem to be with respect to corporation earnings or the size of dividends being distributed. That is in decided contrast to the Pecora investigation, which began at a time when the prices of stocks were riding very low and stayed that way most of the time the investigation was in progress, though they began to soar afterward.

Congress has kept its hand off the market every since, and some senators reputedly have done moderately well in the market. But now there is some uneasiness that if, by some unforeseen circumstance, stock prices should skid rather badly, a great many investors would cry "What's the matttr with those dumbells down —or up — in Washington?"

The first answer is that Washington nowadays has very little to do with, and therefore cannot assume much responsibility for, the prices of stocks on the several exchanges.

It used to be charged that tips to senators enabled their friends to make a lot of money in cotton and the other commodity exchanges, but the same factors do not apply on industrials.

There will be no Pecora on hand this time to force the equivalent of the late J. P. Morgan — if there were such — and his partners, including George Whitney to admit that they had paid no income taxes during the depression because their losses equalled their gains.

There will be no Albert Wiggin to tell how he, as former president of the Chase National Bank, followed his own hunches on the market in making decisions which affected the bank, nor a Charles Mitchell, as a former president of the National City Co. to concede that the big stock brokerage outfit used a door to door sales policy to pedal its stocks to thousands of stockholders who later lost their shirts.

But there will be a highly regarded, youngish man named Robert Asa Wallace, erstwhile legislative assistant to Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.-Ill.) who will be the committee's staff director. He expects about two weeks of public hearings. But you never can tell. The 1932-34 hearings, which began under the Hoover administration, turned out such valuable political ammunition for the Democrats that they forced the hearings to continue as one reporter said at the time, "almost ad infinitum."

Senator Fulbright has said he plans a "friendly investigation" which does not mean that it will be a back stroking affair. For example, the committee wants to know why the market has risen so rapidly since September 1953 and more notably since November 1954 as to create a new crop of millionaires, and make more money for many people than they have ever had before.

The previous investigations brought about the securities and exchange law, drafted by those versatile new dealers, Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohen who are said to have drafted it in one evening on a single sheet of paper. But SEC has been of value in checking "cats and dogs," "boiler shop selling" and some other abuses of the old days.

But the question most frequently asked around town about the Fulbright stock market investigation is "What will they do about those uranium stock promotions?"

St. Francis Hospital Opens

Starting humbly back in 1913, St. Francis sanitarium now emerges as one of the state's largest and best equipped institutions for the care of the sick to be found anywhere in this state or other states of the South. With the expansion of the institution, which occupies an entire block from Wood to Oak streets, and with seven towering stories, it has changed its more modest name into St. Francis hospital.

This institution now possesses 300 beds, and to make possible this large increased number, in a down-to-the minute hospital equipped with the latest that medical science can provide, it was necessary to expend virtually two million dollars in the construction of a building second to none of the kind. After that, the facilities of such an institution and the furnishings will total probably as much as $500,000, additionally it is stated by Everett Burgoyne, business manager of the hospital.

This vast expenditure of money is to meet the rapidly expanding population of the Twin Cities and of the Fifth district with its 14 ever-growing parishes.

The opening of this great institution will create in the Twin Cities a medical center second to none in the state. It will serve people who have met with illness that requires expert and immediate attention. In all probability the opening of this new hospital will bring many here from not only the Fifth district but from other parts of the state as the word is passed out that we have here an institution that a city of a quarter of a million could well boast.

Monroe and West Monroe can be justly proud of this greatly expanded hospital. It has long been needed and only through foresight has it been made possible to supply an ever increasing need.

In years past, hospitals were not regarded as vital essentials. If one went to a hospital, the entire family and friends of the patient were assured that life was about to come to an end. But with mounting accidents in this modern world, greater skill of physicians and surgeons, and the increasing insuring of the public to meet bills suddenly thrust on the sick, the hospital loomed as a friend most urgently needed. Today far more people go to a hospital and are able to resume normal life than are those whose lives end inside hospital walls.

All Monroyans and West Monroyans as well as the entire area of northeast Louisiana should welcome having these new facilities. It is a step forward and is vitally needed for the far larger city that will loom on this site in the next few years. All who planned and invested in this great expansion deserve the hearty praise and approval of the local public.

That's what our youngsters should be studying! Not Marxism in theory, but communism in practice.

"Das Kapital" was rewritten by both Lenin and Stalin. And now the Central Committee of the Communist Party has ordered it rewritten again to suit Mr. Malenkov.

I don't know what changes they'll make, but I can guess some.

Marx's ideas about cooperative farming didn't pan out too well. So, as production diminished, incentives were employed to bring it up again.

And it's getting more and more difficult for the peasants to reconcile the preachments of "Das Kapital" . . . about divvying up everything with everybody . . . when they see those fat plutocrats strutting around the Kremlin entertaining in an orgy of extravagance like nothing since Nero

Yes, I can see where they'd want to amend Marx. Put some new words in his mouth. Rewrite the rule book, before too many peasants start asking questions.

In 1927, Will Rogers wrote, "You could take those 600,000 Communists over in Russia and take 600,000 rich Americans and you could put them all together and make the Americans divide up with them equally and in six months the 600,000 Communists wouldn't have anything left but some long hair and a scheme to try to get back the half that the Americans were smart enough to take from them."

Yet, in the midst of the only country in the world where people have to worry about "How can I reduce?" and "Where can I park?" we still have a masochistic minority blubbering about "the evils of the capitalist system."

Well, when people start waiting to get out of this country instead of waiting to get in, then we can start worrying about our system.

THE MAKING OF A GOOD AMERICAN

Public Forum—Voice Of All The People

Against The Sword

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Our high command is right, Formosa must be defended. In case the Reds would take it, they go right on and grab the rest of Asia, piece by piece. They are on the march for world conquest, and are using the sword again, they have to be stopped before it's too late, a line has to be drawn on their further approaches on the free world.

The president should be given the right of way now, in any way he sees fit to save the rest of the world. You can't preach appeasement, against the sword, fire must be met with fire to stop the Reds. If they take Asia, America would be their next target.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Leadership

Mer Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The great sin of this writer was not so much as disagreeing with "me and the editor" and "me and the floor leader" as it was in disagreeing with "me."

Mr. Morgan, in a fulsome way, asked me to point out just one thing that the U. N. has done that benefitted the U. S.

The answer to that runs parallel to the answer Mr. Morgan gave me in a personal letter, a copy of which is enclosed.

I suggest he write Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, member of the U. S. Delegates, and Mr. Lodge who is the top man of the U. S. Delegates.

I do not see eye to eye with Mrs. Roosevelt, but there has been nothing in my reading about the woman that even hinted that she is a liar. Mrs. Roosevelt says the U. N. has done good. Likewise, Mr. Lodge backs that contention. I would rather follow the leadership of Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Lodge than someone who has a billy goat's tendency to advertise.

I do not care to see "the original letter that I wrote him (the editor) August 22." That is why I did not react to his suggestion. Neither do I think the editor treated me shabbily when he deleted "almost half of my letter in the paper."

The empty wagon is still making the most noise.

Dear Old England

De Ridder, La.

Editor, Morning World:

You can read the hand-writing on the wall, Nationalist China will be sold out again, the Reds appeased, because dear old England says so. How much longer are we going to allow England to dictate our policies. Every time our leaders listen to England, we lose a little, the Reds gain a little.

Are we, the American people, going to sit quiet, while "union now" Rhodes scholars like Kefauver and Fulbright turn us back to England, which our forefathers rebelled against to be free?

Are we going to sit by and let the fuzzy - minded, power hungry, "one worlders" sell us out to world dictatorship through the U. N. and N. A. T. O.?

Do we want our children to be children without a country, slaves to a world dictator, who may be Red, Chinese or Jap.

Do we want our standards of living lowered to the depth of the most lowly nation on earth? Our freedom and all we hold dear lost, maybe forever?

Wake up pro - Americans, we need you now. Tomorrow may be too late.

Editor, Morning World:

I wish to help clear up a matter I saw in your paper last Sunday in reference to a letter written about a speeder, the one who was fined in Jennings, La., for $75.

Having lived in Jennings almost all of my life, I think Mr. Whitton better think twice before he writes again about the laws of our state concerning speeding. Mr. Foster said that he was driving at a speed of 75 miles an hour on our highway, well, the laws say the speed imited is 65 and that is plenty fast. Also stated he stopped at the first stop light he came to, well, let's see, from Jennings, going west on highway 90 is the town of Welsh and the town has two stop lights, and it is impossible to hit both of them green unless you are traveling at a high rate of speed. Now, if he was traveling west on 190, the town of Elton is only 18 miles away, has three stop lights, and I don't think he could pass through there at a high rate of speed. If he was going east he would go as far as Esterwood and hit another light, that is only ten miles from Jennings, that is on U. S. 90. I really cannot figure him out. Another thing is that there are three Louisiana state troopers headquarters within the radius of 50 miles from Jennings, Lake Charles, 32 miles, Lafayette, 40 miles, and Opelousas 50 miles. Besides that, there are cities which are larger in size than Jennings in the so-called 45 miles he was forced back too, to pay the fine as Crowley, Lake Charles, Eunice, and Lafayette. So I think he better realize that our T. V. T. is something not to laugh at or to forget about, thanks to them for helping to rid our highways of speed devils as the rest of us like to live awhile longer and enjoy safe riding on our highways, again thanks to the men who make it possible to do that thing which we will not forget toward the future of safety on the highways of Louisiana.

More Russian Treachery

Ruston, La.

Editor:

Recently Georgi Malenkov promised Britain's Anthony Eden he would "use his influence with Red China to prevent another World War over Formosa." This is more, nothing but, Soviet treachery and it is astonishing to see how the free world swallows it. Russia is the instigator of it all.

There is no more any China; it's now part of the Soviet Empire. It has been that way ever since Mao Tse-tung chased Chiang Kai-shek onto Formosa. It was Molotov, not Mao, who took over China. Molotov's first big move was to send a million Chinese into north Korea during the Korean War. Russia now has a "Little Kremlin" established in Peiping. Manchuria is stocked with Russian guns, tanks and planes, all pointing toward Peiping. Yugoslavia is the only Communist country to escape the tentacles, shackles, of the Soviets and this nation may fall to the Soviet's after Tito's death.

No, Georgi Malenkov is not trying to stop the battle over Formosa and he does not intend to stop until Formosa becomes a Russian satellite. The followers of Karl Marx expect to gain control of this world through treachery. There will never be peace on this earth until the fourteen stooges of Satan in the Kremlin have been blasted from this earth. If there were only three men on earth and one were a Communist he would start a fight between the other two, then grab all their worldly possessions.

THOMAS A. HILTON

Red China's Dope Peddling

Editor, Morning World:

In the February issue of Reader's Digest is an article entitled, "Red China, The World's Biggest Dope Peddler." Many, many months ago, in, I think, The Freeman Magazine, was a similar and more detailed and frightening article. This menace then is nothing new, and neither is the knowledge of it.

The strange thing, and to me, incomprehensible thing, is that so little has been done about it. Oh, sure, our narcotic squads are being enlarged and are working miracles, miracles that might have been effective in dealing with isolated sources of supply. But today we are dealing (or rather failing to deal) with a government as the supplier.

That makes the old methods of detection and prevention obsolete.

There is, however, a better method available, if we had the moral stamina to use it. There are two of the largest and best trained and best equipped armies in Asia, both of them straining at the leash, eager to strike at the source of this traffic — Red China.

Considering that this dope peddling, big as it is, contributing as it does to a moral delinquency which is already threatening the very vitals of our western civilization, and, even so, considering that it is but one of a many pronged threat to the west, it is utterly incomprehensible that we refuse to use the one most potent, and the cheapest weapon for our protection — those armies of Chiang and Rhee.

Instead, we and the U. N. talk another "cease fire," which of course, they well know there is no chance of getting, but that's only camouflage anyway. What really counts is the evacuation of the Tachens.

We say they are not defensible save at too great a cost, and probably they are not if the invasion were carried to them. But, I've always read that the best defense is a strong offensive movement, just such a movement as both Chiang and Rhee have for months and even years been begging to mount.

They have all the manpower needed. They have the will. About all they need is landing craft, some of the bombs and bombers we have been destroying deliberately in target practice on the deserts here at home.

And, much more important, not one general, not one military man really schooled in things Asiatic agrees with the One - World opponents who claim that an invasion of Continental China would result in a general world war.

China couldn't mount such a war if she wanted to. Russia cannot supply her with the materials to sustain a war even on the Chinese mainland. And Russia dare not mount a war either east or west. She dare not trust even her own people, and certainly she dare not trust her captive peoples.

Yet, with all this dope flowing into the western countries, with the certainty that both Communist Russia and Communist China need only time to build the means with which they think they could win by a sudden, all embrasive knockout blow before plunging the world into war, we supply them that time. And Tachens is part of it.

It doesn't make sense.

If we really want to stop this dope traffic, if we really want to avoid what will actually be a global World War III, why under the sun don't we simply take the wraps off both Chiang and Rhee and say go to it boys?

The question is — do we really want to avoid W. W. III? I think we do. But, I also think that we hope some way will be found which will not, at the same time, curtail or make unnecessary the multi - billion defense spending which keeps going this surge of "unprecedented prosperity and economimic expansion."

We should, however, remember the "certain rich man" of the Bible whose economic expansion outstripped his humanity. God said: "Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee. Then whose shall these things be."

Stock Market

Since everybody likes prosperity except the Communists, the senate inquiry into stock markets, beginning on Feb. 21, will not be the sort of grilling which leading financial interests received in the Pecora investigation, more than 20 years ago, but can bring to light more real facts.

The new inquiry will be under direction of Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.) the new chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, which made a similar probe in 1933-34, highlighted by such an absurdity as the planting of a female midget on the lap of J. P. Morgan the younger, then the nation's leading financier, by a circus press agent for a publicity stunt.

Morgan was not harmed by that incident, but some other leading figures in the banking world received such a fervid going over from Ferdinand Pecora, the New York prosecutor, later a member of the highest court in New York, that they never appeared to advantage on Wall Street again.

Now with the prices of stocks riding high, Senator Fulbright's committee can make a judicious inquiry into prices whether they seem to go too high, how they seem to be with respect to corporation earnings or the size of dividends being distributed. That is in decided contrast to the Pecora investigation, which began at a time when the prices of stocks were riding very low and stayed that way most of the time the investigation was in progress, though they began to soar afterward.

Congress has kept its hand off the market every since, and some senators reputedly have done moderately well in the market. But now there is some uneasiness that if, by some unforeseen circumstance, stock prices should skid rather badly, a great many investors would cry "What's the matttr with those dumbells down —or up — in Washington?"

The first answer is that Washington nowadays has very little to do with, and therefore cannot assume much responsibility for, the prices of stocks on the several exchanges.

It used to be charged that tips to senators enabled their friends to make a lot of money in cotton and the other commodity exchanges, but the same factors do not apply on industrials.

There will be no Pecora on hand this time to force the equivalent of the late J. P. Morgan — if there were such — and his partners, including George Whitney to admit that they had paid no income taxes during the depression because their losses equalled their gains.

There will be no Albert Wiggin to tell how he, as former president of the Chase National Bank, followed his own hunches on the market in making decisions which affected the bank, nor a Charles Mitchell, as a former president of the National City Co. to concede that the big stock brokerage outfit used a door to door sales policy to pedal its stocks to thousands of stockholders who later lost their shirts.

But there will be a highly regarded, youngish man named Robert Asa Wallace, erstwhile legislative assistant to Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.-Ill.) who will be the committee's staff director. He expects about two weeks of public hearings. But you never can tell. The 1932-34 hearings, which began under the Hoover administration, turned out such valuable political ammunition for the Democrats that they forced the hearings to continue as one reporter said at the time, "almost ad infinitum."

Senator Fulbright has said he plans a "friendly investigation" which does not mean that it will be a back stroking affair. For example, the committee wants to know why the market has risen so rapidly since September 1953 and more notably since November 1954 as to create a new crop of millionaires, and make more money for many people than they have ever had before.

The previous investigations brought about the securities and exchange law, drafted by those versatile new dealers, Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohen who are said to have drafted it in one evening on a single sheet of paper. But SEC has been of value in checking "cats and dogs," "boiler shop selling" and some other abuses of the old days.

But the question most frequently asked around town about the Fulbright stock market investigation is "What will they do about those uranium stock promotions?"

lurking around the fringes of Vice Admiral Alfred M. Pride's reinforced fleet, one officer said. And he added they probably are Russian.

American military adviers have been returned to Tachen and the Nationalist defenders of the island some 200 miles north of Formosa also have been alerted for possible Red sneak attacks before the evacuation of the island can be carried out.

Pilots of the U.S. Fifth Air Force "the task force" based in Okinawa flew patrols Sunday with planes from Seventh Fleet carriers just east of the Tachens. Sunday was the second joint patrol. Saturday the Okinawa based jets and carrier-fighters flew to within about 15 to 20 miles of the invasion-threatened outpost.

Maj. Gen. William Chase, chief of the U.S. military advisory group told a press conference in Taipei Saturday that Americans evacuated from Tachen recently under Red gunfire had been returned to the islands "a few days ago."

Asked if he had enough officers and men there to "hold the islands" Chase replied, "we are here to help. We would help."

One Shot Down in 1954

In the 1954 attack one MIG was shot down without any American losses. During the Korean war the American Sabrejets outclassed the Soviet-built jets and earned the nickname of "MIG killers."

Following the recent Air Force re-deployment of its bombers and fighter - interceptors to forward bases in Korea and Formosa it was revealed that Sabrejet fighter pilots had been ordered to "pour it on" any attacker. It was believed the same order applied to other American aircraft—such as the reconnaissance bomber.

(Authoritative sources said the Communists threatening Formosa would not have the advantage of a "privileged sanctuary" as Communist pilots did in Korea, when they could retreat into Manchuria.)

Crucial Stage In AFL-CIO Merger Talks Is Reached

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 5 (AP)—AFL and CIO officials are about to enter a crucial stage in negotiations aimed at merging their union groups into a single powerful labor federation.

CIO President Walter Reuther is to lead a group of his union chiefs down to this winter resort where AFL President George Meany and top AFL officials have been holding strategy sessions.

Meany and Reuther, in the two years since becoming the major leaders of organized labor, have made steady progress toward their announced goal of combining their federations into a single 15-million-member union organization.

However, the unity talks have reached the stage at which all prior merger efforts floundered and the guessing is still 50-50 whether any merger will be accomplished.

Outwardly and apparently genuinely hopeful that they will go through with the amalgamation, three-man subcommittees representing the AFL and CIO will go into a huddle at the Roney Plaza Hotel here Tuesday to try to hammer out a written merger agreement. This will be subject to review by two 10-man committees at another meeting Wednesday. Any pact would have to be ratified later at the AFL and CIO conventions.

The union leaders say that by combining forces under a single banner they can build greater political power for organized labor, tougher economic strength against employers and more efficient drives to sell unionism to unorganized workers.

Standing in the way of achieving the merger are the jealousies and rivalries between various labor leaders and their unions for prestige and worker organizing rights.

However, Meany and Reuther say they plan to bring all AFL and CIO unions under the same tent on a status quo basis and let them fight out any differences once the merger takes place. It has been 20 years since the CIO was formed by a group of unions splintering away from the AFL.

Meany is expected to emerge as head of the combined setup with Reuther bowing out and sticking to his other job as president of the million-member auto workers union, possibly with added political responsibility as an aide to Meany.

For employers, a labor merger would likely mean tougher union bargaining and more concentrated union organizing efforts against nonunion plants.

Ike Orders 7th

the Red jets and where they came from. American officials said they did not know whether the planes were operating under orders of Red China, Soviet Russia or North Korea.

They said the clash occurred over international waters between Korea and Red China.

The State Department gave a sharp reminder that American planes in the Far East have standing orders to fight if attacked and that the Yellow Sea incident shows "these orders are being carried out and will be carried out in the current situation."

Earlier in the day Eisenhower talked for an hour with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations. They discussed further moves which may be made toward the Formosa cease-fire talks now that Red China has rejected a bid to send representatives to the U.N. Security Council. Lodge said some announcement on the next move could be made next week.

Informants said that Red China, North Korea and Russia all fly fighter planes of the type seen in the Yellow Sea dash. They said that one thing Washington would like to know was what kind of markings the planes had. Henry Suydam, State Department press officer, declined to say how the investigation was being conducted and whether it involved any diplomatic notes to Moscow or elsewhere.

Suydam reported that the incident occurred over international waters west of Korea; that the MIGs attacked; that the American Sabres were part of air units recently deployed in forward bases because of the Formosan crisis.

The brief but deadly air clash deepened the Far Eastern crisis, injecting a new element of uncertainty into efforts to arrange a Formosa cease-fire with Red China.

President Eisenhower spent an hour with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., discussing the Formosa problem and seeking some new way to get the Chinese Communists to end the hostilities. Lodge told newsmen that the steps probably would be announced next week but that meanwhile "it is best to keep the other fellow guessing."

Secretary of State Duiles is due back from vacation Sunday night. There were indications that the President did not want to make any further decisions until he talks with Dulles early in the week.

Diplomats said Red China would undoubtedly use the air battle as evidence of its propaganda charge that the United States is looking for war in the Far East. Officials realize that when the Reds have an axe to grind they may make very effective use of incidents by twisting and distorting the facts to suit their immediate purposes.

So far no one is entirely sure about Red China's immediate purpose—whether it is eventually to end the hostilities or to engage in a series of probing operations to see how determined the United States is and where it has drawn a defense line.

The announcement of the air clash over the Yellow Sea caused neither alarm nor excitement in official quarters here. Lodge would not say whether the incident had been discussed by the President at their breakfast meeting.

The capital noted that unlike many such clashes in the past the planes shot down were Red fighters instead of American aircraft. The United States has lost several reconnaissance planes over the past several years along the frontiers of the Communist world.

Some officials said the U. S. fighter reaction to the Red attack might have a sobering impact upon Chinese Communist thinking.

Grand Jury To Sift Statements In Weaver Case

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—A dark-haired girl wrestler, an ex-convict and a couple of come-on artists have told bizarre tales of death plots and extortion plans in the bomb slaying "by mistake" of a wealthy West Texas ranchwoman.

A grand jury in this West Texas sheep ranching center next week will sift the stories swirling about the Jan. 19 murder of Mrs. Harry E. Weaver, socialite and well-well-known Texas cattle raiser.

"I know I'm innocent of the damn thing," said Harry L. Washburn, a former son-in-law of Mrs. Weaver. Washburn is jailed here on a charge of murder.

Washburn is named in the written statements of "Nature Girl," the wrestler whose real name is Mrs. Adela Heninger; John McKinnis and Ray Fife.

McKinnis and Fife told police they took money and guns from Washburn but never intended to go through with a bargain they said they made to "do a job" on Mrs. Weaver's husband, Harry, a prominent architect.

The ex-convict, Andrew H. Nelson, 45, has never made a written statement but has told police of buying dynamite and watching a friend he bought it for make a test explosion of it by hooking wires to an automobile generator.

Nelson said this friend exclaimed, "I killed the wrong person."

Nelson told police he knew Washburn.

The slaying of Mrs. Weaver took place at 8:30 a.m. here in front of the home of her mother, Mrs. Ralph Harris. A bomb exploded as she pressed the starter of her husband's automobile.

"Nature Girl" said in her statement that Washburn offered her $10,000 to kill Weaver.

She said Washburn told her:

"Weaver is a hard touch. Mrs. Weaver is an easy touch. If I can get rid of Weaver, his wife would pay off to keep her family from harm."

The wrestler, who sometimes works as a Dallas barmaid, said Washburn planned to get an initial payment of $20,000 and eventually a total of $100,000.

His plan for her, she said, was to contact Weaver, interest herself in Weaver's gun collection and appear to accidentally shoot him.

She said she refused.

Washburn contends he was in Houston when Mrs. Weaver was killed.

In an interview in his cell, Washburn said, "I'm confident there's going to be a hell of a lot of straightening out."

Percy Foreman, noted criminal lawyer, announced he was pulling out as defense attorney after a brief conversation with Washburn.

Washburn had said he wanted to give Foreman "important information" about the case.

Police have carried Washburn's picture about San Angelo, seeking someone who saw him in San Angelo the night immediately preceding the slaving, but no one so far has recognized him.

Rose As National Flower Opposed; Not Indigenous

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Is the Rose un-American? Some people seem to think so.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) and Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio) have been getting some letters suggesting this.

The ladies last month asked Congress to pass a law making the rose the national flower.

But though the large bulk of the mailed reaction has been favorable, some dissenters say the rose is a poor choice, because:

(1) It is the British national flower, and (2) it comes from the Orient.

"For heaven's sake," he wrote, "let us choose an indigenous flower."

He suggested the goldenrod. In another letter, a woman in New Castle, Pa. insisted the goldenrod already is the national flower.

"How about the geranium?" inquired a woman in San Francisco. "Or perhaps the clematis? Both represent the American home, are familiar to all, and loved by rich and poor alike."

This same woman also objected that the American Beauty rose already is the emblem of the District of Columbia.

The wild rose, she said, is the state flower of New York, North Dakota and Iowa.

One of the strongest complaints came from a Massachusetts woman. She called the rose "the worst possible choice."

She wrote: "The rose is a tender hybrid that must be constantly pampered if it is to make satisfactory growth. That characteristic is not typical of our nation.

"I would suggest the laurel. It is native to every state in the Union. There is a star shape to the blossoms, and two of our national colors are found in its blossoms—red and white."

Even so, most of the votes from the country are favoring the rose.

One man in Mount Vernon, N.Y., sent Sen. Smith an unpublished song called "A Rose is a Song to Me." A woman in Fordyce, Ark., sent in a verse to the flower.

It's too early to tell whether a law will be passed.

On Thursday, pupils and teachers at the cerebral palsy school took time out to celebrate the ninth birthday of little Darlene Williams.

Each child was given a souvenir balloon and served punch and individual cup cakes decorated with a lighted candle. The honoree was presented with gifts and well wishes by all the other children attending.

A similar happy occasion is observed whenever a child in the school has a birthday and the event is planned and anticipated by the children in delight in the opportunity to share in the celebration of a classmate's birthday.

Ann Mickel, secretary of the UPCA of Northeast Louisiana, invites the public to visit this school and observe the progress made.

The Rev. and Mrs. James T. Harris of Monroe are included in the 140 Methodist ministers and laymen of forty states who will leave here February 8 for Cuba for a ten - day evangelistic crusade.

His selection was announced by Methodist Bishop John Branscomb of Jacksonville, Fla. When wives accompany their husbands, they too will participate in the mission campaign.

The American evangelists will team up with Cuban pastors to preach in churches, schools, hospitals and mission stations, and they will also conduct an extensive house-to-house visitation, through the 800 mile long island.

The group is to report later in the month in Havana on the results that have been attained.

Our own Henry Ray, when on a business trip to Cedar Rapids, Ia. found a folder used in a club there that stated: "Down in Monroe, La., folks have found a good way to use the municipal pool in fall and winter. They put fish in it for the kids to catch, and no adults are allowed except to bait hooks and clean fish."

The Ouachita Parish Society for Crippled Children has opened a business office on Louisville avenue, it is announced by Chairman A. F. Canizaro. Office hours are from 9 to 4 p.m. with an hour out at noon for luncheon.

Mrs. Wayne Huckaby is office manager but will welcome help from volunteers.

All supplies, materials and all correspondence should be sent to the new address.

Thinking it was about time he received a pension, a 72-year-old man visited the Social Security administration office in San Antonio, Tex.

Office personnel checked records and agreed he was covered and eligible, but first there was the job of the establishment of his correct age.

In the years long gone by there were no such things as birth certificates. He admitted the family Bible had no record. And he had no record with the police that covered his age.

"Do you have any close relative who might know?" he was asked.

"Why, sure," he replied, "my pappy."

The man, name not disclosed, was located. His own age was estimated at 100 years, and he was sure about the age of his offspring.

Formosa and the Pescadores should remain in Chiang's hands and their ultimate future be decided later around a conference table.

The hope here is that the Russians in their anxiety to douse the Formosan powder keg might accept this, so long as it is not spelled out on paper. But Russia was understood to be insisting on complete and immediate surrender by Chiang of the offshore islands.

Both the British Foreign Office and Indian government officials here refused official comment about their continuing exchanges with Russia on Formosa.

Prime Minister Churchill's government now has turned to top secret diplomacy as the best available means of trying to ease tensions and forestall a big Far Eastern war.

The British were shocked and angered by the outcome of Western efforts in open diplomacy. Open maneuvering brought Red Premier Chou En-lai's toughly worded refusal to talk about a cease-fire with Nationalist China in the U.N. Security Council.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred in private this morning with Premiers Nehru of India and Louis St. Laurent of Canada. They discussed Formosa but no details of the conversation were disclosed.

Their talk came after Molotov called in Sir William Hayter, British ambassador to Moscow, and P. N. Kaul, Indian charge d'affaires, for separate talks on Formosa yesterday. Hayter sent the Foreign Office a full, coded report on the discussions and Kaul filled in Nehru.

Nehru and St. Laurent are in London for a conference of British Commonwealth prime ministers. The conference adjourned for the weekend last night but the prime ministers kept in touch with each other on Formosa developments.

Coast Guard Seeks Disabled Vessel

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—A plane from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard base was trying today to pinpoint a Tampa shrimp boat reported helplessly adrift in the Gulf of Mexico, about 250 miles southwest of Fort Myers.

The Coast Guard cutter Ariadne left Key West to take the 74-foot Prince Charming in tow.

The Coast Guard reported the vessel developel engine trouble Thursday off the Campeche banks of Mexico. Two other Tampa vessels, the Ethel Walling and the Walling III, took it in tow, but had to give up the towing attempt today because of high seas.

The MRP, a slightly left-of-center Roman Catholic group, has publicly supported a liberal attitude toward North Africa. But the MRP leadership never forgave Mendes-France for letting the European army treaty die and consistently opposed him on every issue.

Socialist Leader Christian Pineau, who conferred with Coty on behalf of his party group, told newsmen later the Socialists would not support a nominee unless he continues the Mendes-France policies in North Africa, in Indochina, and on social and economic issues.

Coty conferred with the leaders of each group, including Jacques Duclos, floor leader for the Communists. Coty's choice of a candidate is not likely to be made public before Monday.

Mendes-France's fate was all but sealed when Rene Mayer, a fellow member of the Radical Socialist (Moderate) party, split with the Premier on Mendes-France's desire to grant the Tunisians home rule. Mayer is a deputy from the Constantine district of Algeria. His defection took about 20 votes away from Mendes-France. Some deputies of the Gaullist party, also a part of the Mendes-France coalition, split with their leadership, too.

The Premier's downfall stalled a series of international negotiations affecting the Western world and France's place in it.

lurking around the fringes of Vice Admiral Alfred M. Pride's reinforced fleet, one officer said. And he added they probably are Russian.

American military adviers have been returned to Tachen and the Nationalist defenders of the island some 200 miles north of Formosa also have been alerted for possible Red sneak attacks before the evacuation of the island can be carried out.

Pilots of the U.S. Fifth Air Force "the task force" based in Okinawa flew patrols Sunday with planes from Seventh Fleet carriers just east of the Tachens. Sunday was the second joint patrol. Saturday the Okinawa based jets and carrier-fighters flew to within about 15 to 20 miles of the invasion-threatened outpost.

Maj. Gen. William Chase, chief of the U.S. military advisory group told a press conference in Taipei Saturday that Americans evacuated from Tachen recently under Red gunfire had been returned to the islands "a few days ago."

Asked if he had enough officers and men there to "hold the islands" Chase replied, "we are here to help. We would help."

One Shot Down in 1954

In the 1954 attack one MIG was shot down without any American losses. During the Korean war the American Sabrejets outclassed the Soviet-built jets and earned the nickname of "MIG killers."

Following the recent Air Force re-deployment of its bombers and fighter - interceptors to forward bases in Korea and Formosa it was revealed that Sabrejet fighter pilots had been ordered to "pour it on" any attacker. It was believed the same order applied to other American aircraft—such as the reconnaissance bomber.

(Authoritative sources said the Communists threatening Formosa would not have the advantage of a "privileged sanctuary" as Communist pilots did in Korea, when they could retreat into Manchuria.)

Crucial Stage In AFL-CIO Merger Talks Is Reached

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 5 (AP)—AFL and CIO officials are about to enter a crucial stage in negotiations aimed at merging their union groups into a single powerful labor federation.

CIO President Walter Reuther is to lead a group of his union chiefs down to this winter resort where AFL President George Meany and top AFL officials have been holding strategy sessions.

Meany and Reuther, in the two years since becoming the major leaders of organized labor, have made steady progress toward their announced goal of combining their federations into a single 15-million-member union organization.

However, the unity talks have reached the stage at which all prior merger efforts floundered and the guessing is still 50-50 whether any merger will be accomplished.

Outwardly and apparently genuinely hopeful that they will go through with the amalgamation, three-man subcommittees representing the AFL and CIO will go into a huddle at the Roney Plaza Hotel here Tuesday to try to hammer out a written merger agreement. This will be subject to review by two 10-man committees at another meeting Wednesday. Any pact would have to be ratified later at the AFL and CIO conventions.

The union leaders say that by combining forces under a single banner they can build greater political power for organized labor, tougher economic strength against employers and more efficient drives to sell unionism to unorganized workers.

Standing in the way of achieving the merger are the jealousies and rivalries between various labor leaders and their unions for prestige and worker organizing rights.

However, Meany and Reuther say they plan to bring all AFL and CIO unions under the same tent on a status quo basis and let them fight out any differences once the merger takes place. It has been 20 years since the CIO was formed by a group of unions splintering away from the AFL.

Meany is expected to emerge as head of the combined setup with Reuther bowing out and sticking to his other job as president of the million-member auto workers union, possibly with added political responsibility as an aide to Meany.

For employers, a labor merger would likely mean tougher union bargaining and more concentrated union organizing efforts against nonunion plants.

Ike Orders 7th

the Red jets and where they came from. American officials said they did not know whether the planes were operating under orders of Red China, Soviet Russia or North Korea.

They said the clash occurred over international waters between Korea and Red China.

The State Department gave a sharp reminder that American planes in the Far East have standing orders to fight if attacked and that the Yellow Sea incident shows "these orders are being carried out and will be carried out in the current situation."

Earlier in the day Eisenhower talked for an hour with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations. They discussed further moves which may be made toward the Formosa cease-fire talks now that Red China has rejected a bid to send representatives to the U.N. Security Council. Lodge said some announcement on the next move could be made next week.

Informants said that Red China, North Korea and Russia all fly fighter planes of the type seen in the Yellow Sea dash. They said that one thing Washington would like to know was what kind of markings the planes had. Henry Suydam, State Department press officer, declined to say how the investigation was being conducted and whether it involved any diplomatic notes to Moscow or elsewhere.

Suydam reported that the incident occurred over international waters west of Korea; that the MIGs attacked; that the American Sabres were part of air units recently deployed in forward bases because of the Formosan crisis.

The brief but deadly air clash deepened the Far Eastern crisis, injecting a new element of uncertainty into efforts to arrange a Formosa cease-fire with Red China.

President Eisenhower spent an hour with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., discussing the Formosa problem and seeking some new way to get the Chinese Communists to end the hostilities. Lodge told newsmen that the steps probably would be announced next week but that meanwhile "it is best to keep the other fellow guessing."

Secretary of State Duiles is due back from vacation Sunday night. There were indications that the President did not want to make any further decisions until he talks with Dulles early in the week.

Diplomats said Red China would undoubtedly use the air battle as evidence of its propaganda charge that the United States is looking for war in the Far East. Officials realize that when the Reds have an axe to grind they may make very effective use of incidents by twisting and distorting the facts to suit their immediate purposes.

So far no one is entirely sure about Red China's immediate purpose—whether it is eventually to end the hostilities or to engage in a series of probing operations to see how determined the United States is and where it has drawn a defense line.

The announcement of the air clash over the Yellow Sea caused neither alarm nor excitement in official quarters here. Lodge would not say whether the incident had been discussed by the President at their breakfast meeting.

The capital noted that unlike many such clashes in the past the planes shot down were Red fighters instead of American aircraft. The United States has lost several reconnaissance planes over the past several years along the frontiers of the Communist world.

Some officials said the U. S. fighter reaction to the Red attack might have a sobering impact upon Chinese Communist thinking.

Grand Jury To Sift Statements In Weaver Case

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—A dark-haired girl wrestler, an ex-convict and a couple of come-on artists have told bizarre tales of death plots and extortion plans in the bomb slaying "by mistake" of a wealthy West Texas ranchwoman.

A grand jury in this West Texas sheep ranching center next week will sift the stories swirling about the Jan. 19 murder of Mrs. Harry E. Weaver, socialite and well-known Texas cattle raiser.

"I know I'm innocent of the damn thing," said Harry L. Washburn, a former son-in-law of Mrs. Weaver. Washburn is jailed here on a charge of murder.

Washburn is named in the written statements of "Nature Girl," the wrestler whose real name is Mrs. Adela Heninger; John McKinnis and Ray Fife.

Right-To-Work Law Seen By State Labor Leaders As Political Advantage

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Labor leaders in industrial booming Louisiana are convinced the new and bitterly-fought right-to-work law will forge union workers and their families into a political factor for the first time in the coming gubernatorial campaign.

Experienced politicians will tell you union voting strength in this state never has weighed much because the working man votes as he sees fit.

After its greatest rough and tumble fight in years, the Legislature in 1954 adopted the right-to-work law banning compulsory union membership and automatic dues checkoff.

Religious leaders, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, joined opponents in denouncing it as a blow at wages and working conditions.

Proponents countered it would return Democracy to the working man and cut into union racketeering.

In the Senate alone, the bill stormed through 22-14 after a record breaking 28 hours of hearings strung out over a whole week and more than six hours of turbulent floor debate. It cleared the House 58-41 after a shorter but no less torrid debate.

Rep. John Garrett, a right-to-work floor general, told the House:

"If this doesn't prove to be the best for the working man, and proves to be a hardship, you are looking at one of the first men in the state who will ask for it to be repealed."

To head off the bill, labor formed the United Labor Organization in the summer of 1954, headed by President E. H. (Lige) Williams of the State Federation of Labor (AFL). Labor lost the struggle.

Since then, the issue has been more or less marking time.

Williams said organized labor leaders are expected to meet in February to chart the next step.

"I'm convinced," he said, "that labor is more together in Louisiana and more concerned about its future welfare than ever before and will certainly be in there pitching to protect its interests."

Previously, Williams said, "our members have not taken the interest in political matters that they have now, with the right-to-work law. Most likely they will do a better job."

While labor leaders aren't saying now exactly what's in the wind, Williams commented, "We're not going to sit idly by and fail to protect our interests."

The United Labor Organization is still intact.

Williams claimed there is "more labor unrest in Louisiana since the act was passed than at any previous time I can recall in my 22 years as the federation president.

"In the construction business, there is turmoil throughout the state. And in many instances, when union contracts are up for renewal, labor-management relations are not as good as they were before.

Whether labor leaders can muster a new attack on the right-to-work law remains a hazy part of the future.

Right to work opponents did not fare too well in recent elections, although the bill was not directly at issue and it is difficult to assess what part it played in victory or defeat.

Sen. John Hunter of Alexandria, one of the main opponents in Senate debate, was defeated for district attorney in Rapides Parish. A like fate was vited on Rep. Bryon J. Lehmann Jr., of St. Charles Parish, who spoke and voted against the bill.

In East Baton Rouge Parish, J. St. Clair Favrot was re-elected.

Right-to-work as an issue was injected into the Shreveport mayoralty race at the last minute when unions endorsed Jim Reilly. Rep. James Gardner, who voted for the bill but did not take part in debate, won handily.

Marine Division To Hold Reunion

The Second Marine Division association, composed of more than 4,000 former, active and reserve marines, will hold its sixth annual reunion in the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans July 15-17, Merlin J. Jahraus, of Covington, announced yesterday.

Jahraus, chairman of membership of entertainment for the reunion, also announced that a membership drive for the organization is now in progress and anyone eligible to join may do so by contacting him at post office box 694 in Covington.

The organization is also sponsoring a scholarship fund through the membership and proceeds of the sale of two novels, Robert Sherrod's "Tarawa" and Leon Uris' "Battle Cry."

The fund will sponsor a family member of a dead Second Marine Division marine to a college scholarship.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTERS—Above, upper photo, State Forester James E. Mixon is shown studying his fire situation map at Baton Rouge headquarters during the peak fire season last year. Each symbol on the map represents a forest fire, with various ornaments indicating such information as to the number of firefighting units on the fire, what time the fire started and other facts vital to efficient operation by the state forester. In the lower photo, Chief Investigator V. E. Smith, left, shows his arson squad a standard fingerprint kit to be used in forest fire enforcement work. Next to him, in order, are J. R. McFerrin, Coushatta; T. Horace Bienvenue, DeRidder; Ben Hyde, Amite, and John Thompson, Homer.

War On Woods Burners Gains Throughout State

Louisiana's war against woods burners has netted 58 convictions since a five-man arson squad began its operations in the state last August, State Forester James E. Mixon disclosed in his annual report today.

"All but 14 of our arrests have resulted in convictions so far," Mixon reported, "which is very encouraging." In addition, he said, more convictions are expected from the many cases still pending.

During 1954, the state piled up the worst fire occurrence record in 20 years, with 12,000 separate blazes being reported. A total of 500,000 acres went up in smoke—about 25 acres per fire, indicating a good record of control by the forestry department.

"This acreage loss may seem bad at first glance," Mixon said, "but our fire-fighters remember when the loss per fire exceeded 60 acres. With modern equipment and trained men, we've cut acreage loss in this state 50 per cent during the past 10 years."

Over 99 per cent of the fires were started by careless citizens, with less than one per cent getting under way from natural causes. Some of the fires were malicious.

In northeast Louisiana, hunting and land-clearing for agricultural purposes caused most of the fires, Mixon pointed out that although drouth conditions have become progressively worse during the last three years, citizens themselves are to blame for the major portion of the losses.

Drouth was the enemy of forest landowners for more reasons than from the fire standpoint. The state forester explained. Pine tree planters of the state suffered 50 per cent casualties on their pine tree plantations due to lack of water, according to the report, resulting in a loss of about $250,000 of investment. Only 35 million seedlings were grown at the state tree nurseries due to water supply failure at the Commission's northwest nursery.

The Commission led the way in development of fire-fighting equipment during the year, Mixon pointed out, by perfecting use of two-way radios on tractors. Last year, television on forest fire towers enabled one man to cover several areas by remote control. Another experiment was that of planting 3,000 acres of land by direct seeding of long-leaf pine.

The latest experimentation deals with attempts at preservation of seedlings for several years in "deep freeze," to keep them from dry years to wet years.

Family Savings In America Now At Record Peak

CHICAGO, Feb 5—UP—American families have more money "salted" away than at any time in the nation's history, the United States Savings and Loan League reported Saturday.

The league said the total in all savings media reached a record high of $231.3 billion at the end of 1954, an increase of an estimated $14.9 billion during the year.

In contrast, savings increased by $12.5 billion in 1953, by $11.7 billion in 1952, and by only $7.4 billion in 1951.

The league said that the total 1954 savings figure of $231.3 billion represented a 255 per cent increase over savings of $65.2 billion at the start of World War II.

J. Howard Edgerton, president of the league, said savings association and co-operative banks made the biggest gains, percentagewise, of all organizations handling savings during 1954.

The savings associations showed a gain of 18 per cent over savings in 1953, while commercial banks gained 8.3 per cent, mutual savings banks 7.8 per cent, life insurance companies 7.5 per cent and savings bonds 0.9 per cent.

Edgerton said only postal savings lost ground in 1954, recording an 8.3 per cent decline.

Business Briefs

Maurice E. Hartzler, manager of the Monroe district of Life Insurance Company of Georgia, said he had been informed by W. Sheffield Owen, agency vice-president of the company, his district had won a handsome silver cup as the outstanding unit of the company's entire field organization in eleven Southern states.

The Monroe group won out over 125 other agency groups to win the company's J. N. McEachern trophy.

Besides Hartzler, other personel in the district are: Staff managers, Harold E. Shrell and G. D. Smith. Agents include H. B. DeFee, James Mabry, Billy R. Pepper, Thomas R. Lynch, Sylvester Torres, J. R. Hudson, E. L. Brossett, W. F. Page, W. B. Thompson, B. K. Fluker and Cashier Mrs. Billie L. Gaston.

Barr Typewriter Co., announced today, the big Salesmobile bus of R. C. Allen will be in front of its place of business Monday with a special display of Allen business machines.

Soviets Set Off Four Unreported Nuclear Blasts

PARIS, Feb. 5—UP—The Soviet Union set off four atomic explosions last autumn that have remained unannounced until now, a French government spokesman claimed Saturday.

A spokesman for Henri Longchambon, French secretary of state for scientific research, discussed the explosions in a copyrighted interview with the Paris newspaper France-Soir.

He said the blasts occurred between September and November. Including two explosions, on Aug. 22 and Aug. 26, the Russians set off a total of six nuclear devices over a four-month period, he said.

The Soviet news agency Tass was quoted in dispatches from Moscow last Sept. 17, as saying that an atomic weapon had just been exploded, including one hydrogen device. That brought to six the separate occasions on which the Soviets were known by the West to have set off nuclear explosions.

On Oct. 26, the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission disclosed in Washington that the Soviet Union had been conducting a series of nuclear tests since mid-September. The AEC did not give the number or type of the tests.

The first Soviet atomic explosion was disclosed on Sept. 23, 1949 by President Truman. It never was confirmed by Moscow. A second atomic explosion was reported Oct. 3, 1951, and was confirmed by the Soviet government a year later.

The White House announced on Oct. 22, 1951, that a third atomic explosion had been set off in the Soviet Union. The AEC reported on Aug. 20, 1953, that both an A-bomb and an H-bomb had been set off in the Soviet Union Aug. 12 and Moscow later announced it had a hydrogen device. On Aug. 31, 1953, the AEC reported another explosion had taken place in Russia the week before.

AFL Urges Fight By All Americans Against Commies

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 5—UP—The American Federation of Labor called Saturday for the "highest effort by all freedom-loving peoples" to build their strength and join in fighting Communist military aggression.

"If the free peoples should yield piece-meal to the Communist aggressors...then only catastrophe awaits the free world," the AFL's executive council said in a foreign policy statement released at its annual mid-winter meeting here.

The AFL said it endorsed President Eisenhower's action on the Formosa dispute.

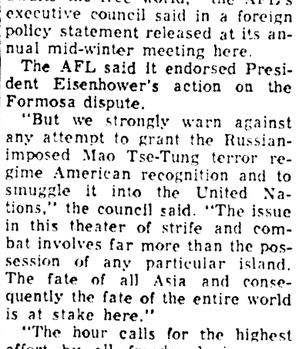

"But we strongly warn against any attempt to grant the Russian-imposed Mao Tse-Tung terror regime American recognition and to smuggle it into the United Nations," the council said. "The issue in this theater of strife and combat involves far more than the possession of any particular island. The fate of all Asia and consequently the fate of the entire world is at stake here."

"The hour calls for the highest effort by all freedom-loving peoples to increase their military, economic and political strength and join action in order to deter and, if need be, defeat Moscow-Peiping military aggression."

Sen. Eastland New Chairman Of Security Group

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The chairmanship of the Senate's Red-hunting Internal Security subcommittee passed today from Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) to Sen. Eastland (D-Miss).

Eastland, senior Democrat on the subcommittee, said he had been notified of his appointment by Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa), chairman of the parent Senate Judiciary Committee.

New members named to the subcommittee are Sens. Hennings (D-Mo) and Daniel (D-Tex). They replace the late Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) and former Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) on the nine-member subcommittee.

The Democrats were entitled to fill both vacancies, giving them a 5-4 edge, since they are the majority party in the present Congress.

Formal announcement of the subcommittee's reorganization is expected to be made Monday, along with the appointment of other subcommittees, after a closed meeting of the full Judiciary Committee.

Selected to be chief counsel of the Internal Security subcommittee subject to approval of the other members, is J. G. Sourwine, a close associate of the late Sen. McCarran.

Sourwine, already on the job, has been associate counsel of the subcommittee as well as counsel to the full Judiciary Committee. He will drop the latter job.

As counsel for the subcommittee, Sourwine succeeds Alva C. Carpenter, a former member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff in Tokyo who was appointel by Jenner.

Carpenter is slated to be named an associate counsel. So is Richard C. Arens, who has been staff director of the Immigration subcommittee.

Adenauer Set To Push Rearmament Plan In Germany

BONN, Germany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said tonight he will press unswervingly for ratification of the Paris treaties to free and rearm West Germany despite the fall of the French government of Pierre Mendes-France.

"This is the only path leading to the pacification of the world and to the reunification of Germany in peace and freedom," the Chancelor said in an address to the National Committee of his Christian Democratic party (CDU).

The new French government crisis, however, has given a shot in the arm to the campaign of German Socialists and labor unions to scuttle the Paris treaties which would make West Germany a full partner in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. On the other hand, leaders in Adenauer's government confess they are dismayed.

Adenauer said communism is "an aggressive power of the first order" which was "only waiting for the West to become soft."

"It is all the more important that we continue the present policy of uniting the Western world," he added.

The 79-year-old Chancellor had summoned the CDU committee to an all-day meeting to chart a vigorous nationwide campaign to combat the growing antirearmament drive by the Socialists. CDU Cabinet members and state leaders also attended.

BLOOD CASES are measured by the Van Slyke apparatus which Dr. J. C. S. Patterson seated, is demonstrating to W. C. Feazel, left, Mrs. Feazel, center, and their daughter, Miss Lollage Feazel, in the new Feazel Laboratory for the study of cerebral circulation and migraine. The Laboratory is included in the Cardiovascular laboratories located in the new addition to the Hutchinson Memorial Medical Building of the School of Medicine, Tulane University, New Orleans. Contributions from the Feazel family, of West Monroe, were largely responsible for the establishment of the new laboratory.

UNEXPECTED SURPRISE for Dr. Rufus Harris, president of Tulane University, was the presentation of a $20,000 check to finance operation of the Feazel Laboratory for the study of cerebral circulation and migraine in the university's school of medicine. The check, which included $10,000 from Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Feazel of West Monroe and $10,000 from their daughter, Miss Lallage Feazel, was presented to Dr. Harris, left, by Dr. W. L. Bendel, center, of Monroe, the Feazel family physican. Dean M. E. Lapham of the Tulane School of Medicine stands at the right. The Feazel family also financed establishment of the Laboratory.

Feazels' Migraine

presented the $20,000 to Dr. Rufus Harris, President of Tulane, on behalf of the donors, who attended the ceremonies.

Speakers, in addition to Long and Boggs, included Mayor DeLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans, Dean M. E. Lapham of Tulane School of Medicine, President Joseph Jones of the Tulane Board of Administrators and Dr. J. C. S. Paterson, who will be in charge of the research phase of the Feazel Laboratory's operation.

The Rev. B. K. Smith of the new Orleans Baptist Seminary gave the invocation, opening the 3 p.m. ceremonies in the auditorium of the Cardiovascular Laboratories.

Dr. Bendel, a graduate of Tulane, observed that little is known about migraine despite the fact that the ailment is mentioned in medical records dating back as far as 2,000 years. He estimated that from 5 to 8 percent of the population in the United States suffers from the disease. Treatment thus far has been merely palliative, rather than curative, he said, and therefore is not completely satisfactory.

"Knowing this," he said, "the Feazels wanted to do something about it, and they gave in excess of $32,000 to do something to help migraine sufferers. Today, Mr. Feazel and Miss Lallage Feazel gave me a check for $20,000 more to continue the work. We have done a great deal in polio, cancer and heart disease work. Now let us see if we cannot make similar progress in our study of migraine and its causes and cures."

Dr. Harris accepted the check on behalf of Tulane, remarking that "it is a source of great pleasure to accept this further manifestation of the great generosity of the Feazel family" and expressing both his personal gratitude and that of the staff of the university.

Mayor Morrison, a member of the Tulane Board of Administrators, also expressed appreciation to Feazel and his daughter and pride in the medical center.

"This money will make our medical facilities even finer," Mayor Morrison declared. "Every dollar spent on research represents a return of at least $100 in the benefits it brings. Tulane and the city of New Orleans are extremely grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Feazel and Miss Feazel."

Jones, speaking for the board of administrators, said that "it is a particularly happy circumstance for Tulane to be recipient of this magnificent gift."

"For a century and a quarter," he said, "the Tulane Medical School has served this area, and for many of those years it carried the full responsibility. It has a distinguished and important past, and its future appears to be completely assured. The future holds great promise when generous acts like those of the Feazel family make it possible for Tulane to carry on and expand its program."

Senator Long said that, since 1946, the life span of the average person has been extended by five years with medical research being almost solely responsible for this extension.

"Louisiana stands 14th in the nation in such research," he said, "and much of the reasons for this high ranking is due to the work done here at Tulane. The fact that Tulane had people like the Feazels, who were willing to give generously, has helped a great deal."

The Senator observed that the federal government is helping and currently is spending approximately $50,000,000 a year to finance work directed toward discovering cures for many diseases.

Boggs said he could only echo the expressions already made by other speakers concerning the magnificent work being done at the Tulane Medical School.

"This institution has contributed immeasurably to the relief from suffering, and I stand ready to help secure matching federal funds for this and other such institutions in the United States," Boggs asserted.

Dean Lapham observed that "any school worth its name must not only train students but must also do investigative work aimed at relieving suffering."

"The emphasis, of course, is on the training of students," he said," but we cannot separate this from the research work. The two go hand in hand. The students benefits from exposure to research and emerges with much better training than would otherwise be possible.'

Expressing thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Feazel and Miss Feazel, Dean Lapham added that he was "very pleased but certainly not surprised" at the fact that officials of the City, Senate and House should be so deeply aware of the value of medical research and so heartily in favor of supporting it financially.

Albert Wolf of New Orleans, who was a member of the heart council of the Heart Institute at Bethesda, Md., when the U. S. Public Health Service made the original grant for establishment of the Cardiovascular Laboratories, also spoke briefly, praising the generosity of the Feazel family.

Dr. Paterson explained the work of the Feazel Laboratory noting that the clinic will be operated on a referral basis with cases to come from Physicians and from the Charity Hospital located nearby.

"A medical investigator, like a politician, cannot commit himself too much in advance," Dr. Paterson quipped. "A headache is subjective, and that's what makes it difficult to study. The observer cannot see or feel the pain of the victim, hence he cannot measure it. We plan to concentrate, at least for the next year, on study of the phenomena accompanying migraine, particularly the disturbance of water metabolism that almost invariably accompanies migraine. Perhaps in another year, I can be more specific and can tell you of the progress we have made."

Following the dedication ceremonies, the guests were conducted on a tour of the two-floor Cardiovascular Laboratories and the Feazel Laboratory, which consists of three rooms on the seventh floor of the Hutchinson annex.

A reception was held for guests at the dedication in the Feazel Laboratory following the dedication and tour. Guests, in addition to the officials who participated in the ceremonies, included Drs. Bendel, Monroe; Fred Bennett, Jr. West Monroe, a medical student at Tulane and friend of the Feazel family; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Anderson, Shreveport, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Feazel, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stern, New Orleans philanthropists. Stern also is a member of the Tulane Board of Administrators. Members of the Tulane medical staff also attended the ceremonies.

Meteorologist Charges Louisiana Coast Lacks Hurricane Warnings

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5—UP—A consulting meteorologist released figures today showing that the western area of the Gulf Coast area was getting less hurricane-warning protection since a government radio station was transferred from the New Orleans area to Miami, Fla.

The meteorologist, A. H. Glenn, said that since the Louisiana station closed last Aug. 10, and Miami took over the responsibility, reports had been lost, garbled or delayed in receipt.

The Louisiana station had receivers at Slidell and transmitters at Lacombe, La. It had been a nerve center for all weather reports received from Mexico and Latin America.

The civil aeronautics administration moved the station as an economy measure.

Glenn said he made a survey at the request of the offshore operators committee, composed of members of the oil industry. He said the oil companies were particularly concerned about the danger to their offshore oil operation investments.

The meteorologist said he believed the use of a Coast Guard weather ship in the Central Gulf of Mexico area would augment present government facilities.

He called the Louisiana coast "the least adequately served coastal area of the United States where government weather facilities are concerned."

Glenn said very few ships travel through the southwest Gulf and that left meteorologists with almost no way of forecasting severe storms which brew in that area.

He said he kept a log of the relative efficiencies of the Louisiana and Miami Overseas and Foreign Aeronautical Communication Stations. He explained that the log contained receipt of certain daily weather messages in July 1954 from Slidell and from Aug. 10 through Sept. 9 in Miami.

Glenn said that out of nine types of messages logged, only one showed a slightly better performance by the Miami station. That one, he said, was an hourly weather report from airports in Mexico.

He said that the Miami station experienced frequent delays in the receipt of messages from airports in Mexico, there were frequent message garblings and there were several periods when it could not establish contact with Mexico City for periods up to 12 hours.

Glenn submitted several messages dated during August and September to back up this observation.

The survey also showed a deterioration of 22.6 per cent after Miami took over receipt of messages giving detailed, six-hour weather reports from Mexican government weather stations.

It further showed a falling off of 25.9 per cent in the receipt of messages regarding upper atmosphere soundings from four Mexican stations.

Former Lake Providence Mayor Sees Water Need

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Feb. 5 (Special) — In a recent address by J. L. Johnson, former mayor of Lake Providence, an opinion was expressed that "in the near future if the people of this area fail to realize just what the water situation is and what it means, this country will be as dry and bare as Texas."

Johnson, for the past three years, has actively spoken before a large number of civic clubs and different groups on the water situation.

"For the past several years our rain fall has been less and our water tables have been steadily dropping until it has become so bad in some parts of our state that some of the towns and cities that are so geographically located near some body of water that is usable have abandoned the deep well system and have installed treating plants for their water supply. But by far the majority of the towns are not so located, and even if they were the price is prohibitive.

"It is true the cities and towns are by far the largest consumers of our deep well waters, and no doubt, due to the great expansion of our sewerage and water system throughout the state has had some bearing on our water tables, plus the many new industries that have moved in, who are also large consumers.

"It was only a few years back that when a new industry wanted to locate in our state in some town the first question they would ask was what is your water supply and in a few cases they located in another town due to the lack of water supply.

"I do not know what the answer will eventually be on the deep well system, but I am reliably informed that both the National Government and 80 per cent of the states are very much alarmed and they are making a thorough study of the issue.

"I would like to talk to you about what is known to us as surface water, which in my opinion we can do something about. This water we depend on for our crops, our cattle and many other uses. It was only a short time ago that when we had a heavy rain in our parishes. Approximately 70 per cent of the rain that fell would soak into our farm land and 30 per cent would find its way into sloughs and ditches, but today when that same rain falls it has reversed the picture and approximately 30 per cent stays on our farms and ditches and 70 per cent in a very few hours is on its way down the Mississippi past New Orleans and into the Gulf and becomes dead water. Of course, the reason for this change is due to the drainage system that has been installed throughout the state. For they have cut large canals, large ditches, little canals and near rivers to take this water away.

"I am of the opinion that we are doing the same thing today to our water supply that a few years back we let happen to our timbers. We finally woke up and took steps to stop the destruction of one of the state's largest assets but not before we had destroyed millions of dollars worth of timber without protection.

"Today we are spending millions of dollars in this state for drainage through taxation to destroy water when 85 per cent of the other states in the union are spending millions to secure. Now in the past when we spoke of our lower parishes as a marshy part of the state we only thought of water and murk, but even that is not the case today. For the same thing has happened to them, and I know of two of the lower Marsh Parishes that are now pumping water out of the Mississippi River into their canals trying to restore their muskrat trade and I have information that the muskrat revenues in our state have dropped from 12 million annually down to 2 million in the past six years and mostly due to the lack of water.

"We all know that the reason we have rich and fertile land in our state today is because of water. We also know the reason we have a good timber supply is water—so let's keep it green. Now, I hope no one thinks I am foolish enough to be against drainage, but I do say that drainage without control is worse than no drainage at all except maybe the old ways, and if these years continue to stay dry and hot as they have the past several years, I believe we will see it that way.

"Our timbers are dying, our pastures and crops are burning up each year. Yet what water that does fall — by far the largest portion is destroyed. Some of our political leaders have put forth a great effort to get these many drainage programs through (all in good faith) but yet today they are asking the U. S. government to lend money to buy a water system so you might have water on your farms and of course at your expense.

"I am no engineer, nor do I claim to be an authority on water, but I do know you can't destroy your water and have it too.

"In my judgment the only thing left is to get controls on all of our canals and other streams throughout the state.

MAKES HONOR ROLL

Robert S. Barnes, son of Major and Mrs. Fred L. Barnes, 1107 North Fifth street, Monroe, was one of the cadets at Marion Institute at Marion, Ala., who made the academic honor roll at the school for the winter semester. The announcement was made this week by Lt. Col. R. J. McDonald of the school. Cadets who earn this scholastic honor are automatically granted one privilege grade for the month of February, 1955.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By MARION FISHER

Hello there — The Little Theatre of Monroe was a bee hive of activity this past week end. Taking top priority on the agenda was the major effort directed toward the completion of the setting.

Among the many details completed was the papering of the backing areas, hanging of the masking curtain for sight lines, leather upholstery of the bar and bench, and the tricky application and treatment of the paper forming the glass wall.

For the first time in a week and a half, the complete cast was together for rehearsal of "Affairs of State" on Friday night. As previously reported the epidemic flue has taken toll of our cast members, and Beth Breese, Alice Magouirk, and Shady Wall have been forced to miss rehearsals. We feel that the whole cast should be commended for their willingness to sacrifice their Sunday afternoon, to get in an extra workout, to make up for time lost by their individual absences . . . To a casual visitor, looking in on Friday night's rehearsal, progress might have appeared relatively slow. However, considering the step by step process followed in building characterization, story and idea, and viewing the rehearsal as compared to the earlier rehearsals, a great deal of progfess has been made.

In order to judge a play, at this stage, progress can only be evaluated by the subtle changes from one work session to the next. We predict a highly successful run for this hard working cast, under the direction of Thom Feuerstein, when "Affairs of State" opens Feb. 15. It is a very amusing, sophisticated, and entertaining piece of drama, which will undoubtedly receive a warm reception by Monroe Little Theatre audiences.

Personal notes — Thanks to Jackie Masur for being the first to call in, with the address of Merlyn Watkins, requested in a recent column . . . Board of Directors member, Julius Cahn, has earned the gratitude of the cast and crew, by his very thoughtful loan of a large fan. It serves to help circulate the heat, on these chilly nights, in our playhouse. No more cold feet, thanks to Julius.

Mrs. Pauline McCrary, who has been critically ill for some time, has been removed from a local hospital, to the clinic in Rayville, where she can be near her daughter, Mrs. Allen Buie, of that city. Our best wishes go with you, Mrs. Mac. Mrs. Tom Keller reports that a letter she received from Lavern Butz, who recently moved to Detroit, states that so much snow and ice was encountered en route, that she felt that she had gone to Little America . . .

And speaking of climate, how about Jerry and Tavie Kenny, whose car was so hopelessly stuck in the mud at Little Theatre, Friday night, that they had to go home and leave it, to be rescued from the mire the next day? . . . Those flu bugs are no respectors of persons. The latest victim, we hear, is past president of Little Theater, Gilbert Faulk. Take it easy, Gilbert, and here's hoping you'll be on your feet by opening night. . .

Frances and Elizabeth Langford have, as their house guests, this week end, Mrs. Ruth Travis and Mrs. Grace Cook, of Baton Rouge . . . Albert Ringo will do the make - up for the cast of "Affairs of State." This will include the cutting and styling of the hair of our two leading ladies, Beth Breese and Alice Magouirk. We are at a loss as to whom to congratulate — the girls, or "Doc" for having such good "material," with which to work.

'Mercy Plane' Braves Storm To Save Child

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 5 (AP)—An Air Force plane on a "mercy flight" from Havre, Mont., flew blind through snow-filled skies today rather than go above the storm where the altitude would make it more difficult for 20-month-old Lynda Tietema to breathe.

Critically ill with an undiagnosed respiratory ailment, the baby was flown here to be examined at University of Minnesota hospitals. Accompanying the child were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tietema of Havre, and a nurse.

Air Force Capts. Paul Coke and Myron Forbes, pilot and copilot, kept the C47 no higher than 1,000 feet so that the child could breathe as well as possible. Visibility was zero. Only the altimeter told the pilots how close the ship was to ground.

"We didn't even see land until we reached Alexandria, Minn.," Forbes said.

Coke and Forbes turned off the heat in the pilots' compartment so that it would be warmer in the main part of the plane, when Lynda was in a portable oxygen tent.

Former Lake Providence Mayor Sees Water Need

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Feb. 5 (Special) — In a recent address by J. L. Johnson, former mayor of Lake Providence, an opinion was expressed that "in the near future if the people of this area fail to realize just what the water situation is and what it means, this country will be as dry and bare as Texas."

Johnson, for the past three years, has actively spoken before a large number of civic clubs and different groups on the water situation.

"For the past several years our rain fall has been less and our water tables have been steadily dropping until it has become so bad in some parts of our state that some of the towns and cities that are so geography located that are so geography located near some body of water that is usable have abandoned the deep well system and have installed treating plants for their water supply. But by far the majority of the towns are not so located, and even if they were the price is prohibitive.

"It is true the cities and towns are by far the largest consumers of our deep well waters, and no doubt, due to the great expansion of our sewerage and water system throughout the state has had some bearing on our water tables, plus the many new industries that have moved in, who are also large consumers.

"It was only a few years back that when a new industry wanted to locate in our state in some town the first question they would ask was what is your water supply and in a few cases they located in another town due to the lack of water supply.

"I do not know what the answer will eventually be on the deep well system, but I am reliably informed that both the National Government and 80 per cent of the states are very much alarmed and they are making a thorough study of the issue.

"I would like to talk to you about what is known to us as surface water, which in my opinion we can do something about. This water we depend on for our crops, our cattle and many other uses. It was only a short time ago that when we had a heavy rain in our parishes. Approximately 70 per cent of the rain that fell would soak into our farm land and 30 per cent would find its way into sloughs and ditches; but today when that same rain falls it has reversed the picture and approximately 30 per cent stays on our farms and ditches and 70 per cent in a very few hours is on its way down the Mississippi past New Orleans and into the Gulf and becomes dead water. Of course, the reason for this change is due to the drainage system that has been installed throughout the state. For they have cut large canals, large ditches, little canals and near rivers to take this water away.

"I am of the opinion that we are doing the same thing today to our water supply that a few years back we let happen to our timbers. We finally woke up and took steps to stop the destruction of one of the state's largest assets but not before we had destroyed millions of dollars worth of timber without protection.

"Today we are spending millions of dollars in this state for drainage through taxation to destroy water when 85 per cent of the other states in the union are spending millions to secure. Now in the past when we spoke of our lower parishes as a marshy part of the state we only thought of water and murk, but even that is not the case today. For the same thing has happened to them, and I know of two of the lower Marsh Parishes that are now pumping water out of the Mississippi River into their canals trying to restore their muskrat trade and I have information that the muskrat revenues in our state have dropped from 12 million annually down to 2 million in the past six years and mostly due to the lack of water.

Rehabilitation Keynote Set In Veterans' Clinic

Legion men and all others interested in the rehabilitation of veterans are urged to attend the rehabilitation work clinic here on February 16.

In a joint statement announcing the date of the local clinic Fifth District Commander Robert E. Busch and the Monroe post Commander Bert Root issued a blanket invitation to everyone desiring to acquaint themselves with the functions and benefits of the American Legion Rehabilitation program.

The sessions, under the directorship of Percy A. Lemoine, Legion state rehabilitation chairman, are free to the public and will be staged at the Legion Home starting at 7:30 p.m.

The clinics, inaugurated two years ago under sponsorship of the Louisiana department, American Legion, proved so successful and beneficial that it was decided to make the program an annual event.

This year's sessions are scheduled in seven Louisiana cities, Springhill (February 15), Monroe) February 16), Alexandria (February 17), Jennings (February 18), Metairie (March 16), Thibodaux (March 17), and Gonzales (March 18).

Chief purpose of these clinics, according to Legion officials, is "to spotlight the rehabilitation program in Louisiana as the No. 1 cardinal purpose of The American Legion."

Speakers and instructors at these clinics will include representatives from the Department of Veterans Affairs, Vets Administration and other rehabilitation agencies, in addition to Legionnaires well versed on veterans benefits and privileges.

L. B. Faulk Post To Meet On Monday

The regular meeting of the L. B. Faulk Post, No. 13, will be held in the memorial home, Monday at 8 p.m.

Plans for the rehabilitation clinic will be considered. It will be held here February 16.

All members are urged to attend the Monday meeting.

West Ross Bayou Field Shows Good Production

By PETE DOSHER

JONESVILLE, Feb. 5 (Special) —The record for the recently discovered West Ross Bayou oil field south of Jonesville is "three hits and a miss," with the announcement recently that the McGee-Knight well is a "dry hole."

This well, drilled to a depth of 6,000 feet by the E. C. Wentworth company of Natchez, has been abandoned.

It is located in the northwest corner of the northwest corner of section seven, township 6, north range 7E. Two other producing wells are located in section 7 and the McGee-Knight drilling operation has an offset well.

Three producers in the area include the Rhone No. 1 and Rhone No. 2 wells in section seven and the Mrs. Stella Calhoun well in section six. All three of these wells were drilled to a depth of about 5,000 feet.

Expanded drilled operations are expected in the area south of Jonesville throughout this year, oil officials predict.

Another indication of oil activity in the parish was the recent announcement that permits have been given the Shell Oil Company to make geophysical surveys in Beauregard, Vernon, Natchitoches, Winn, LaSalle, Catahoula, Concordia, Tensas, Madison and East Carroll parishes.

The state mineral board spokesman said these surveys are apparently the largest geophysical exploration campaigns undertaken in the interior areas of the state by any oil company in recent year.

Young Trumpeter Hits Jackpot In Wildcat Venture

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—When a young trumpeter in Horace Heidt's band decided to go into the oil business, veteran petroleum men laughed. The musician discovered a new oil pool and may become a millionaire if the bonanza lasts.

The veteran oil men have wiped the grins off their faces and are trying to cash in too on one of the wildest booms Southern California has seen in years.

But trumpeter Jack Crawford, 24, is leading the pack. He now has nine producing wells and is drilling more. He reported his latest well came in this week flowing at the rate of 1,100 to 1,200 barrels a day.

Just a few days ago Crawford, who lives in nearby Long Beach, quit the Heidt television band. The oil boom is keeping him too busy for rehearsals and shows. For several years Crawford has also played first trumpet with the Long Beach Philharmonic Orchestra and in 1949 he was with Freddy Martin's television band.

Crawford's oil strike is more than luck. He majored in petroleum geology at Southern California and was graduated in 1953. Then he took a course in geology field work at Texas A&M and came back to Southern California a year ago.

The new oil pool Crawford discovered is in a residential district on the southeast side of Huntington Beach, near the ocean. This is in the opposite end of town from an older field, where directional wells extend from land sites under the ocean floor and make Huntington Beach California's top producer of offshore oil.

Crawford's father, Walter, said his son got oil with his first well, at 5,300 feet. It was on the fourth well, brought in flowing Jan. 1, that a new pool, in what is known as "Jones Sand," was discovered at 3,700 to 3,900 feet. It is this zone that has created a frenzied oil boom in Huntington Beach.

As of this week, there were about 30 rigs drilling in an area of 6 square city blocks and that about 25 other wells already are producing.

Ford-Chevrolet Battle For Top Place Sizzling

DETROIT, Feb. 5—UP—The Ford-Chevrolet battle to claim leadership as the No. 1 choice of car buyers in 1954 has turned into a real war of nerves while the two wait for the final figures.

Ford went into the month of December with a 9,000 lead in new car registrations. But the first two states to report for December have narrowed the gap to 4,000.

The final figures for 1954 sales now being added up by the R. L. Polk Co. in Cincinnati. They should be released in the next two or three weeks. The figures are computed by adding all the new car registrations for each make in all 48 states.

Chevrolet, since 1935, has been the winner each year. But Ford, after its postwar reorganization, took out after Chevrolet in earnest last year. The battle has been nip and tuck.

The winner will receive the chance to spend thousands of dollars advertising "we won." But the automobile companies believe there are enough car buyers who like to get on the "bandwagon" of the winner that the privilege of spending all that money for advertising is well worth it.

Both sides express confidence they won.

Ford supporters point to figures announced for retail sales by various other divisions of General Motors as an indication Ford will be the winner.

They've added up the 423,808 cars which Oldsmobile said it sold, the 517,291 which Buick said it sold and the 120,120 which Cadillac said it sold in 1954. They subtract this from the 2,769,639 cars which Harlow Curtice said all of General Motors sold in 1954.

Then they subtract the 318,019 Pontiacs registered for the first 11 months of 1954. That leaves only 1,390,401 cars for Chevrolet for the 12 months even if Pontiac didn't sell any in December.

New Orleans Lashed By Heavy Winds And Rain; Property Losses Heavy

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 —UP— A severe thunderstorm, accompanied by winds up to 61 miles an hour which was possibly a twister lashed the New Orleans area today flooding homes and streets and causing extensive damage.

The weather bureau said nearly four inches of rain was dumped on the city within a 45-minute period, the winds, described by some residents as a small twister, ripped off roofs, blew down trees and limbs onto houses and shattered plate glass windows.

Telephone service and electric power were knocked out in many sections. Residents in some areas said the wind "roared like a dozen freight trains."

Hardest hit section was the Gentilly-Pontchartrain lake section where scores of homes were damaged and dozens of trees uprooted.

A roof of a double garage was picked up and lifted some 80 feet into the yard of another home in the area. At least a half dozen garages were reported to have crumbled.

Flying lumber from garage roofs porches and doors punched out windows in scores of homes, while some homes were heavily damaged.

Winds there also blew in the sheet metal protection for the front of a restaurant and the merry-go-round building.

Mrs. James Roussel, a resident of the Gentilly area, told police that the wind had a "terrifying noise.

"We thought we were gone," she said. "You should have heard the noise. We believe it was a small twister."

Many sections of the New Orleans area were flooded by as much as three to five feet of water.

A number of underpasses in the city had to be closed to traffic and trolley and street car schedules were delayed. Many automobiles were stalled in the flooded streets and manhole covers were blasted off in several areas as water rushed through the overtaxed facilities.

State police described the Airline highway, the main road northwest to Baton Rouge, as a bayou and said traffic was practically stalled for several hours.

The weather bureau said 3.68 inches of rain fell on the city within a 45-minute period. Hail stones, described as the size of marbles, fell on some areas.

The blinding rain and wind was part of a squall line that swept through the state last night and today.

At Alexandria, the city reported its biggest rain in nearly two years. The Alexandria Air Force base reported nearly four inches of rain fell on the city last night and early today, and flooded many sections of the city.

Winds up to 35 miles per hour also were reported. Delta airlines reported some delays in flights, but none was cancelled.

Operations at Moisant International airport near New Orleans were also suspended temporarily during the thunderstorm.

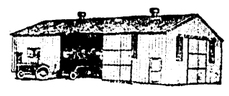

Heavy rains also were reported elsewhere in the state last night and early today. Lafayette in West Louisiana recorded 3.18 inches, Baton Rouge, 2.25; Monroe, 1.60, and Shreveport, 1.80.

Rehabilitation Keynote Set In Veterans' Clinic

Legion men and all others interested in the rehabilitation of veterans are urged to attend the rehabilitation work clinic here on February 16.

In a joint statement announcing the date of the local clinic Fifth District Commander Robert E. Busch and the Monroe post Commander Bert Root issued a blanket invitation to everyone desiring to acquaint themselves with the functions and benefits of the American Legion Rehabilitation program.

The sessions, under the directorship of Percy A. Lemoine, Legion state rehabilitation chairman, are free to the public and will be staged at the Legion Home starting at 7:30 p.m.

The clinics, inaugurated two years ago under sponsorship of the Louisiana department, American Legion, proved so successful and beneficial that it was decided to make the program an annual event.

This year's sessions are scheduled in seven Louisiana cities, Springhill (February 15), Monroe (February 16), Alexandria (February 17), Jennings (February 18), Metairie (March 16), Thibodaux (March 17), and Gonzales (March 18).

Chief purpose of these clinics, according to Legion officials, is "to spotlight the rehabilitation program in Louisiana as the No. 1 cardinal purpose of The American Legion."

Speakers and instructors at these clinics will include representatives from the Department of Veterans Affairs, Vets Administration and other rehabilitation agencies, in addition to Legionnaires well versed on veterans benefits and privileges.

L. B. Faulk Post To Meet On Monday

The regular meeting of the L. B. Faulk Post, No. 13, will be held in the memorial home, Monday at 8 p.m.

Plans for the rehabilitation clinic will be considered. It will be held here February 16.

All members are urged to attend the Monday meeting.

New Orleans Lashed By Heavy Winds And Rain; Property Losses Heavy

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 —UP— A severe thunderstorm, accompanied by winds up to 61 miles an hour which was possibly a twister lashed the New Orleans area today flooding homes and streets and causing extensive damage.

The weather bureau said nearly four inches of rain was dumped on the city within a 45-minute period, the winds, described by some residents as a small twister, ripped off roofs, blew down trees and limbs onto houses and shattered plate glass windows.

Telephone service and electric power were knocked out in many sections. Residents in some areas said the wind "roared like a dozen freight trains."

Hardest hit section was the Gentilly-Pontchartrain lake section where scores of homes were damaged and dozens of trees uprooted.

A roof of a double garage was picked up and lifted some 80 feet into the yard of another home in the area. At least a half dozen garages were reported to have crumbled.

Flying lumber from garage roofs porches and doors punched out windows in scores of homes, while some homes were heavily damaged.

Winds there also blew in the sheet metal protection for the front of a restaurant and the merry-go-round building.

Mrs. James Roussel, a resident of the Gentilly area, told police that the wind had a "terrifying noise.

"We thought we were gone," she said. "You should have heard the noise. We believe it was a small twister."

Many sections of the New Orleans area were flooded by as much as three to five feet of water.

A number of underpasses in the city had to be closed to traffic and trolley and street car schedules were delayed. Many automobiles were stalled in the flooded streets and manhole covers were blasted off in several areas as water rushed through the overtaxed facilities.

State police described the Airline highway, the main road northwest to Baton Rouge, as a bayou and said traffic was practically stalled for several hours.

The weather bureau said 3.68 inches of rain fell on the city within a 45-minute period. Hail stones, described as the size of marbles, fell on some areas.

The blinding rain and wind was part of a squall line that swept through the state last night and today.

At Alexandria, the city reported its biggest rain in nearly two years. The Alexandria Air Force base reported nearly four inches of rain fell on the city last night and early today, and flooded many sections of the city.

Winds up to 35 miles per hour also were reported. Delta airlines reported some delays in flights, but none was cancelled.

Operations at Moisant International airport near New Orleans were also suspended temporarily during the thunderstorm.

Heavy rains also were reported elsewhere in the state last night and early today. Lafayette in West Louisiana recorded 3.18 inches, Baton Rouge, 2.25; Monroe, 1.60, and Shreveport, 1.80.

West Ross Bayou Field Shows Good Production

By PETE DOSHER

JONESVILLE, Feb. 5 (Special) —The record for the recently discovered West Ross Bayou oil field south of Jonesville is "three hits and a miss," with the announcement recently that the McGee-Knight well is a "dry hole."

This well, drilled to a depth of 6,000 feet by the E. C. Wentworth company of Natchez, has been abandoned.

It is located in the northwest corner of the northwest corner of section seven, township 6, north range 7E. Two other producing wells are located in section 7 and the McGee-Knight drilling operation has an offset well.

Three producers in the area include the Rhone No. 1 and Rhone No. 2 wells in section seven and the Mrs. Stella Calhoun well in section six. All three of these wells were drilled to a depth of about 5,000 feet.

Expanded drilled operations are expected in the area south of Jonesville throughout this year, oil officials predict.

Another indication of oil activity in the parish was the recent announcement that permits have been given the Shell Oil Company to make geophysical surveys in Beauregard, Vernon, Natchitoches, Winn, LaSalle, Catahoula, Concordia, Tensas, Madison and East Carroll parishes.

The state mineral board spokesman said these surveys are apparently the largest geophysical exploration campaigns undertaken in the interior areas of the state by any oil company in recent year.

Ford-Chevrolet Battle For Top Place Sizzling

DETROIT, Feb. 5—UP—The Ford-Chevrolet battle to claim leadership as the No. 1 choice of car buyers in 1954 has turned into a real war of nerves while the two wait for the final figures.

Ford went into the month of December with a 9,000 lead in new car registrations. But the first two states to report for December have narrowed the gap to 4,000.

The final figures for 1954 sales now being added up by the R. L. Polk Co. in Cincinnati. They should be released in the next two or three weeks. The figures are computed by adding all the new car registrations for each make in all 48 states.

Chevrolet, since 1935, has been the winner each year. But Ford, after its postwar reorganization, took out after Chevrolet in earnest last year. The battle has been nip and tuck.

The winner will receive the chance to spend thousands of dollars advertising "we won." But the automobile companies believe there are enough car buyers who like to get on the "bandwagon" of the winner that the privilege of spending all that money for advertising is well worth it.

Both sides express confidence they won.

Ford supporters point to figures announced for retail sales by various other divisions of General Motors as an indication Ford will be the winner.

They've added up the 423,808 cars which Oldsmobile said it sold, the 517,291 which Buick said it sold and the 120,120 which Cadillac said it sold in 1954. They subtract this from the 2,769,639 cars which Harlow Curtice said all of General Motors sold in 1954.

Then they subtract the 318,019 Pontiacs registered for the first 11 months of 1954. That leaves only 1,390,401 cars for Chevrolet for the 12 months even if Pontiac didn't sell any in December.

Young Trumpeter Hits Jackpot In Wildcat Venture

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—When a young trumpeter in Horace Heidt's band decided to go into the oil business, veteran petroleum men laughed. The musician discovered a new oil pool and may become a millionaire if the bonanza lasts.

The veteran oil men have wiped the grins off their faces and are trying to cash in too on one of the wildest booms Southern California has seen in years.

But trumpeter Jack Crawford, 24, is leading the pack. He now has nine producing wells and is drilling more. He reported his latest well came in this week flowing at the rate of 1,100 to 1,200 barrels a day.

Just a few days ago Crawford, who lives in nearby Long Beach, quit the Heidt television band. The oil boom is keeping him too busy for rehearsals and shows. For several years Crawford has also played first trumpet with the Long Beach Philharmonic Orchestra and in 1949 he was with Freddy Martin's television band.

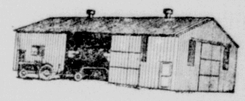

Crawford's oil strike is more than luck. He majored in petroleum geology at Southern California and was graduated in 1953. Then he took a course in geology field work at Texas A&M and came back to Southern California a year ago.

The new oil pool Crawford discovered is in a residential district on the southeast side of Huntington Beach, near the ocean. This is in the opposite end of town from an older field, where directional wells extend from land sites under the ocean floor and make Huntington Beach California's top producer of offshore oil.

Crawford's father, Walter, said his son got oil with his first well, at 5,300 feet. It was on the fourth well, brought in flowing Jan. 1, that a new pool, in what is known as "Jones Sand," was discovered at 3,700 to 3,900 feet. It is this zone that has created a frenzied oil boom in Huntington Beach.

As of this week, there were about 30 rigs drilling in an area of 6 square city blocks and that about 25 other wells already are producing.

Coach Tinsley Fired In L. S. U. Shakeup

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

A lot of kids are anxiously awaiting next Saturday's second annual Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic, scheduled to be offered in two sessions at Legion Memorial Stadium, but the success of the clinic will depend entirely on how generous the donations are for the expense fund.

Four hundred and fifty youngsters of varying ages turned out to see and hear Billy Joe Adcock, "Schoolboy" Rowe, Matt Batts, Ed Head and others who served as "professors" for last year's clinic. There's every indication as many and more boys will turn out Saturday.

The clinic is free to all youth of this area. There's no fees of any kind for the kids. They do not need any kind of baseball equipment to participate. The "name" ball players, big attraction to the youth, ask nothing more than their expenses for making trips here for the clinic, and that's why donations from the well-wishers of the potential young athletes are so essential.

Already, the clinic has obtained assurance that Adcock, first baseman for the Milwaukee Braves; Rowe, former pitching great who is now a coach for the Detroit Tigers; and Bill Lee, ex-Chicago Cub ace, will be here for the Saturday program. In addition the kids will have help from Ed Head, the former Brooklyn no-hit pitcher who is manager of the Twin Cities Sports, and it's possible that George Kell and Clint Courtney of the Chicago White Sox, Bubba Phillips of Detroit, Matt Batts of the Baltimore Orioles, and Earl Harrist, the former Chisox hurler can be here.

But how many we can take care of will depend on how much money can be raised in the next few days, the sooner the better. So, if you want to shell out a few bucks for the kids, send your check payable to "Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic" to P. O. Box 1293, Monroe.

Give for the kids or forget about the clinics in the future. Success now may depend on whether or not your youngster can expect the clinic to grow better with the years.

Anyone who saw the turnout of youngsters a year ago and heard and watched the big leaguers imparting their knowledge will verify how much it meant to the kids.

Saturdays clinic opens at 9:30 o'clock for boys twelve years old and under. They'll be in session for two hours. The older athletes of high school and college age will move in for their period at 1:30 in the afternoon.

State wildlife authorities now have released a total of 30 deer in the Ouachita parish restocking program, but at least one of them ran into hard luck. The unfortunate deer, described as a "button buck," was killed by a train. The state stocking was in the heavy woods between Swartz and Fairbanks, and a fisherman reported seeing six of the deer coming to drink while he fished quietly near by. "Sure was a beautiful sight," was his comment.

Five more deer from last spring's crop at Bernstein Park were donated to the Ouachita unit of the wildlife federation, and they were released yesterday afternoon in the Lafourche swamp area. It never hurts to say again, take care of those deer. Protect them through the closed season and some day Ouachita can again offer deer hunting.

Of interest to hunters will be the survey of squirrel hunting in this area last season, compiled by state biologists and announced by L. D. Young, director of the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission. Of 412 hunters checked in Ouachita parish, the take was 574 fox squirrels and 83 gray squirrels. Other parishes in this area checked were as follows with total hunters listed first and number of fox and grays following: Morehouse, 229-193-51; Union, 182-113-35; Richland, 127-39-3; Concordia, 773-1,547-252 (plus 430 hides found from squirrels dressed in woods); Jackson-Bienville, 219-230-359; Grant-Winn, 2,464-1,239-2,548 (plus 26 hides found in woods).

The game became a rout in the closing minutes despite a close first half which saw the score tied seven times. Tulane led 38-34 at intermission.

L.S.U. rallied early in the second half to tie the game at 40 all. It was tied twice again before L.S.U. took a 45-44 lead. The lead changed several more times before Tulane began its winning rally with 14 minutes remaining in the ball game.

Athletic Director Red Heard Taking Retirement Route

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 5 (AP)—Louisiana State, in a shakeup of its athletic department, today fired head football coach Gaynell (Gus) Tinsley and announced the retirement of athletic director T. P. Heard.

The vote on both actions by the LSU board of supervisors was unanimous.

Tinsley, who has two years remaining on a three-year contract, will be paid his full salary of $12,500 annually until Jan. 1, 1957.

Heard, in a letter to the board, asked that he be given a year's leave of absence at full pay starting July 1 and then upon completion of the leave, be retired at one-third pay. Heard's salary was not available.

The board did not say whether it had selected successors either for Tinsley or Heard.

The board's action came after almost four hours of executive session.

After the vote, Tinsley issued the following statement:

"I sincerely regret leaving LSU, but if the university authorities feel that it is for the best interest of the school, I can only comply with their wishes.

"During my tenure I have always tried to serve the school as I thought best. Sometimes my efforts did not achieve their goal, but my aims and purposes have always been sincere.

"I have not made any future plans as yet, but I do know that I will continue to help LSU whenever and wherever I can."

Heard was unavailable for comment.

Asked the reason for the dismissal of Tinsley, board chairman Louis Gottlieb said, "for the good of the university athletic program." He declined to elaborate.

To questions whether Heard was retired at his own request, Gottlieb said, "Yes."

Gottlieb said the board's intentions today were not to initiate high pressure football at LSU.

One board member who declined to be identified said, "At least a majority of the members felt no charges were proved either of improper recruiting or failure to cooperate with authorities or anything else."

Tinsley broke into tears after the board announced its action.

State Sen. Horace Wilkinson III also wept. He had spoken before the board in defense of Tinsley.

Gottlieb announced an expanded athletic committee of the board to work with the LSU athletic council in the search for replacements for the two men. No time limit was mentioned.

The board athletic committee consists of J. Stewart Slack, Horace Wilkinson Jr., Tom Dutton and Sterling Gladden. Gottlieb added to the committee Mrs. Margaret Dixon and Oliver P. Carriere.

Stanley Galloway, 38-year-old football coach at Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond was mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Tinsley. James Corbett, former LSU sports publicity director and now on the staff of the National Broadcasting Company in New York, was reported in line for Heard's job.

Tinsley, who was All-America end at LSU in 1935 and 1936, became head coach in 1948. In the succeeding seven seasons his teams won 35 games, lost 34 and tied six.

Heard served in the Navy in World War I and then went to LSU. He became football manager in 1925 and graduate manager in 1926, the year he was graduated. He took over in 1932 as director of the department of athletics.

Pittsburgh Looks Ahead For Rickey Replacement

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 (AP)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates bows out next November after 52 years in baseball. He's retiring. Who'll succeed him?

"That's a question for Mr. John Galbreath (president) and Mr. Tom Johnson (vice president-secretary) to decide," said Rickey in an interview today. "But I'll be consulted.

"I've been giving a lot of thought to my successor, a lot of thought. To say I haven't would be a lie. I have thought about it and seriously."

Rickey, a shrewd observer of baseball talent, makes no bones about the fact he's high on three members of his staff, namely, Branch Rickey, Jr., Harold G. Roettger and Joe L. Brown.

"They have a lot on the ball," said Rickey." They know baseball inside and out. I've got three top baseball executives."

Take your pick. But the guess here is the "Twig" (Branch Jr.) has got the inside track, especially with Pop in the driver's seat and holding quite an investment in the club. But don't count out Roettger or Brown.

Young Rickey is vice president in charge of minor league clubs and players. Roettger is assistant to the president. Brown, former president of the New Orleans club in the Southern Association, is the latest addition to the staff.

Branch Jr. got his baptism in baseball under his father in 1935 at St. Louis and spent four seasons there before moving to Brooklyn in 1939 to handle the Dodgers' minor league organizations on his own. Branch Sr. came to Brooklyn eight years later.

Roettger started his baseball career as a business manager with the Albany club in the Georgia-Florida League. He served in that capacity with several clubs and from 1939-43 was general manager of Syracuse. He joined Rickey at Brooklyn in 1943.

Brown, son of comedian Joe E. Brown, first met Rickey at the age of about 16. And Rickey's kept his eye on Brown ever since. He, too, served in various capacities with minor league clubs before becoming president of New Orleans.

Rickey rewarded Brown with a Pirates' job after the sale of the New Orleans club to a group of businessmen there. Roettger's been Rickey's right hand man ever since Brooklyn.

Rickey's retirement doesn't mean he's going to sever his connections with the club. "That was understood when I came to Pittsburgh," emphasizes the 73-year-old mahatma.

"I'll hang around the edges. I expect to keep scouting for the club. My interest will be in Pittsburgh until we win the pennant and until the day I die."

Livingston Loses His Suit Against Shreveport Club

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 5 (AP)—A federal judge today threw out a $9,400 breach of contract suit brought against the Shreveport Sports of the Texas League by former manager Thompson (Mickey) Livingston.

Livingston sued for damages when the club cancelled his contract for refusing to sell a tavern purchased without its permission

In his decision, Judge Ben Dawkins said the courts would be constantly filled with baseball troubles if clubs were not given the right to make speedy decisions.

Livingston, who managed Beaumont last year, was signed to a one-year $8,100 contract in October, 1953, to manage Shreveport in the 1954 season. He formerly was a catcher for the Chicago Cubs.

The contract also called for a $1,000 bonus if the Sports made the playoff. Livingston sued for both amounts after appealing unsuccessfully to minor league Czar George Trautman and baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

3 Cagers Hand In 'Cat Uniforms Within Week

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 5 (AP)—Linville Puckett and Billy Bibb turned their backs on bigtime basketball at the University of Kentucky and offered their services to Kentucky Wesleyan today.

Each had his own reason for leaving Coach Adolph Rupp's powerhouse, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll.

Puckett, a first-string center, said basketball under the baron "isn't regarded as a game but as a matter of life or death with resemblance of one going to war."

Bibb, a second-string forward, said he quit because he wasn't getting to play enough.

President Oscar W. Lever of Wesleyan said the college's admissions committee will rule Monday on applications by Puckett and Bibb. Sources close to the school regarded both Puckett and Bibb as "in."

Both planned to return to Lexington today and have their scholastic records transferred to Wesleyan.

Olson Denies Giardello Title Shot 'Til Cleared

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (AP)—Middleweight Champion Carl (Bobo) Olson has refused to defend his title against top ranking contender Joey Giardello until the Philadelphian is cleared of assault charges, an associate of Giardello said today.

Tony Ferrante, co-manager of Giardello, said Truman Gibson of the International Boxing Club of New York told him the proposed March 23 title fight in Chicago was off.

At the same time, Ferrante announced that he and Giardello's other co-manager, Carmen Graziano, had accepted a March 1 fight with Peter Mueller in Milwaukee. The Mueller bout was to have been Joey's final tuneup for the Olson go.

Giardello's fight with Al Andrews, scheduled for next Wednesday, was cancelled yesterday when Andrews fell on the ice and injured his back. Joey won a close Va., last month.

"Gibson told me that Sid Flaherty, Olon's manager, won't fight us until Joey is tried on those assault charges. Gibson says Flaherty is worried that Giardello might beat Olson and then lose out in court. Then, so Flaherty says, Giardello wouldn't be able to honor a return bout," said Ferrante.

"I don't get it. First they tell us to get the trial postponed. They say we can't fight for the title if the case comes up before the fight and Joey is convicted. So we get the trial postponed. Now they tell us we can't fight until after the trial is over. We're confused, Joey is disgusted."

Counsel for Giardello applied successfully in court here yesterday to get the assault case continued from Feb. 14 to April 4. Judge Theodore Reimel granted the continuance despite vigorous opposition by District Attorney Richardson Dilworth. The judge said he didn't want to prejudice the fighter's opportunity to fight for the title. He told Dilworth a man is presumed innocent until proven guilty. Giardello is charged with beating a gasoline service station attendant in a row over the cost of gas for Joey's car.

Ferrante was bitter about Flaherty's last minute opposition to the Giardello fight. "I'm beginning to think Olson doesn't want to fight Joey. And why shouldn't he? Joey has licked every one of the ranking middleweights. Who is left for him to fight. Why should he fight anyone other than the champ?"

Ferrante said he had asked Gibson to have James B. Norris, presidnet of the I. B. C. get in touch with him.

"We haven't heard from Norris yet. We have cooperated with the I. B. C. 100 per cent. I think we ought to get this title fight and get it now."

Santee, Dwyer Wrestle While Neilson Scores

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gunnar Nielsen, the bouncing Danish pressman, smashed the week-old world indoor mile record tonight by racing the distance in 4:03.6 in the famed Wanamaker Mile in the Millrose Games as Wes Santee and Fred Dwyer finished in a wrestling match.

A capacity crowd of 16,000 in Madison Square Garden went wild as Nielsen hung on for 10 laps, then in the finale rushed to the front and won by 10 yards.

Dwyer, who tried to pass Santee on the inside of the track at the last turn was bumped off, then set out in pursuit of Santee, who only last week set a world record of 4.03.8. Three yards from the tape Dwyer lunged at Santee, grabbed the Kansas University speedster around the waist and almost flung him toward the boxes on the side.

A lot of kids are anxiously awaiting next Saturday's second annual Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic, scheduled to be offered in two sessions at Legion Memorial Stadium, but the success of the clinic will depend entirely on how generous the donations are for the expense fund.

Four hundred and fifty youngsters of varying ages turned out to see and hear Billy Joe Adcock, "Schoolboy" Rowe, Matt Batts, Ed Head and others who served as "professors" for last year's clinic. There's every indication as many and more boys will turn out Saturday.

The clinic is free to all youth of this area. There's no fees of any kind for the kids. They do not need any kind of baseball equipment to participate. The "name" ball players, big attraction to the youth, ask nothing more than their expenses for making trips here for the clinic, and that's why donations from the well-wishers of the potential young athletes are so essential.

Already, the clinic has obtained assurance that Adcock, first baseman for the Milwaukee Braves; Rowe, former pitching great who is now a coach for the Detroit Tigers; and Bill Lee, ex-Chicago Cub ace, will be here for the Saturday program. In addition the kids will have help from Ed Head, the former Brooklyn no-hit pitcher who is manager of the Twin Cities Sports, and it's possible that George Kell and Clint Courtney of the Chicago White Sox, Bubba Phillips of Detroit, Matt Batts of the Baltimore Orioles, and Earl Harrist, the former Chisox hurler can be here.

But how many we can take care of will depend on how much money can be raised in the next few days, the sooner the better. So, if you want to shell out a few bucks for the kids, send your check payable to "Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic" to P. O. Box 1293, Monroe.

Give for the kids or forget about the clinics in the future. Success now may depend on whether or not your youngster can expect the clinic to grow better with the years.

Anyone who saw the turnout of youngsters a year ago and heard and watched the big leaguers imparting their knowledge will verify how much it meant to the kids.

Saturdays clinic opens at 9:30 o'clock for boys twelve years old and under. They'll be in session for two hours. The older athletes of high school and college age will move in for their period at 1:30 in the afternoon.

State wildlife authorities now have released a total of 30 deer in the Ouachita parish restocking program, but at least one of them ran into hard luck. The unfortunate deer, described as a "button buck," was killed by a train. The state stocking was in the heavy woods between Swartz and Fairbanks, and a fisherman reported seeing six of the deer coming to drink while he fished quietly near by. "Sure was a beautiful sight," was his comment.

Five more deer from last spring's crop at Bernstein Park were donated to the Ouachita unit of the wildlife federation, and they were released yesterday afternoon in the Lafourche swamp area. It never hurts to say again, take care of those deer. Protect them through the closed season and some day Ouachita can again offer deer hunting.

Of interest to hunters will be the survey of squirrel hunting in this area last season, compiled by state biologists and announced by L. D. Young, director of the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission. Of 412 hunters checked in Ouachita parish, the take was 574 fox squirrels and 83 gray squirrels. Other parishes in this area checked were as follows with total hunters listed first and number of fox and grays following: Morehouse, 229-193-51; Union, 182-113-35; Richland, 127-39-3; Concordia, 773-1,547-252 (plus 430 hides found from squirrels dressed in woods); Jackson-Bienville, 219-230-359; Grant-Winn, 2,464-1,239-2,548 (plus 26 hides found in woods).

Athletic Director Red Heard Taking Retirement Route

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 5 (AP) — Louisiana State, in a shakeup of its athletic department, today fired head football coach Gaynell (Gus) Tinsley and announced the retirement of athletic director T. P. Heard.

The vote on both actions by the LSU board of supervisors was unanimous.

Tinsley, who has two years remaining on a three-year contract, will be paid his full salary of $12,500 annually until Jan. 1, 1957.

Heard, in a letter to the board, asked that he be given a year's leave of absence at full pay starting July 1 and then, upon completion of the leave, be retired at one-third pay. Heard's salary was not available.

The board did not say whether it had selected successors either for Tinsley or Heard.

The board's action came after almost four hours of executive session.

After the vote, Tinsley issued the following statement:

"I sincerely regret leaving LSU, but if the university authorities feel that it is for the best interest of the school, I can only comply with their wishes.

"During my tenure I have always tried to serve the school as I thought best. Sometimes my efforts did not achieve their goal, but my aims and purposes have always been sincere.

"I have not made any future plans as yet, but I do know that I will continue to help LSU whenever and wherever I can."

Heard was unavailable for comment.

Asked the reason for the dismissal of Tinsley, board chairman Louis Gottlieb said, "for the good of the university athletic program." He declined to elaborate.

To questions whether Heard was retired at his own request, Gottlieb said, "Yes."

Gottlieb said the board's intentions today were not to initiate high pressure football at LSU.

One board member who declined to be identified said, "At least a majority of the members felt no charges were proved either of improper recruiting or failure to cooperate with authorities or anything else."

Tinsley broke into tears after the board announced its action.

State Sen. Horace Wilkinson III also wept. He had spoken before the board in defense of Tinsley.

Gottlieb announced an expanded athletic committee of the board to work with the LSU athletic council in the search for replacements for the two men. No time limit was mentioned.

The board athletic committee consists of J. Stewart Slack, Horace Wilkinson Jr., Tom Dutton and Sterling Gladden. Gottlieb added to the committee Mrs. Margaret Dixon and Oliver P. Carriere.

Stanley Galloway, 38-year-old football coach at Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond was mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Tinsley. James Corbett, former LSU sports publicity director and now on the staff of the National Broadcasting Company in New York, was reported in line for Heard's job.

Tinsley, who was All-America end at LSU in 1935 and 1936, became head coach in 1948. In the succeeding seven seasons his teams won 35 games, lost 34 and tied six.

Heard served in the Navy in World War I and then went to LSU. He became football manager in 1925 and graduate manager in 1926, the year he was graduated. He took over in 1932 as director of the department of athletics.

Pittsburgh Looks Ahead For Rickey Replacement

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 (AP) —General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates bows out next November after 52 years in baseball. He's retiring. Who'll succeed him?

"That's a question for Mr. John Galbreath (president) and Mr. Tom Johnson (vice president-secretary) to decide," said Rickey in an interview today. "But I'll be consulted.

"I've been giving a lot of thought to my successor, a lot of thought. To say I haven't would be a lie. I have thought about it and seriously."

Rickey, a shrewd observer of baseball talent, makes no bones about the fact he's high on three members of his staff, namely, Branch Rickey, Jr., Harold G. Roettger and Joe L. Brown.

"They have a lot on the ball," said Rickey." They know baseball inside and out. I've got three top baseball executives."

Take your pick. But the guess here is the "Twig" (Branch Jr.) has got the inside track, especially with Pop in the driver's seat and holding quite an investment in the club. But don't count out Roettger or Brown.

Young Rickey is vice president in charge of minor league clubs and players. Roettger is assistant to the president. Brown, former president of the New Orleans club in the Southern Association, is the latest addition to the staff.

Branch Jr. got his baptism in baseball under his father in 1935 at St. Louis and spent four seasons there before moving to Brooklyn in 1939 to handle the Dodgers' minor league organizations on his own. Branch Sr. came to Brooklyn eight years later.

Roettger started his baseball career as a business manager with the Albany club in the Georgia-Florida League. He served in that capacity with several clubs and from 1939-43 was general manager of Syracuse. He joined Rickey at Brooklyn in 1943.

Brown, son of comedian Joe E. Brown, first met Rickey at the age of about 16. And Rickey's kept his eye on Brown ever since. He, too, served in various capacities with minor league clubs before becoming president of New Orleans.

Rickey rewarded Brown with a Pirates' job after the sale of the New Orleans club to a group of businessmen there. Roettger's been Rickey's right hand man ever since Brooklyn.

Rickey's retirement doesn't mean he's going to sever his connections with the club. "That was understood when I came to Pittsburgh," emphasizes the 73-year-old mahatma.

"I'll hang around the edges. I expect to keep scouting for the club. My interest will be in Pittsburgh until we win the pennant and until the day I die."

Livingston Loses His Suit Against Shreveport Club

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 5 (AP) —A federal judge today threw out a $9,400 breach of contract suit brought against the Shreveport Sports of the Texas League by former manager Thompson (Mickey) Livingston.

Livingston sued for damages when the club cancelled his contract for refusing to sell a tavern purchased without its permission

In his decision, Judge Ben Dawkins said the courts would be constantly filled with baseball troubles if clubs were not given the right to make speedy decisions.

Livingston, who managed Beaumont last year, was signed to a one-year $8,400 contract in October, 1953, to manage Shreveport in the 1954 season. He formerly was a catcher for the Chicago Cubs.

The contract also called for a $1,000 bonus if the Sports made the playoff. Livingston sued for both amounts after appealing unsuccessfully to minor league Czar George Trautman and baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Olson Denies Giardello Title Shot 'Til Cleared

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (AP) — Middleweight Champion Carl (Bobo) Olson has refused to defend his title against top ranking contender Joey Giardello until the Philadelphian is cleared of assault charges, an associate of Giardello said today.

Tony Ferrante, co-manager of Giardello, said Truman Gibson of the International Boxing Club of New York told him the proposed March 23 title fight in Chicago was off.

At the same time, Ferrante announced that he and Giardello's other co-manager, Carmen Graziano, had accepted a March 1 fight with Peter Mueller in Milwaukee. The Mueller bout was to have been Joey's final tuneup for the Olson go.

Giardello's fight with Al Andrews, scheduled for next Wednesday, was cancelled yesterday when Andrews fell on the ice and injured his back. Joey won a close Va., last month.

"Gibson told me that Sid Flaherty, Olon's manager, won't fight us until Joey is tried on those assault charges. Gibson says Flaherty is worried that Giardello might beat Olson and then lose out in court. Then, so Flaherty says, Giardello wouldn't be able to honor a return bout," said Ferrante.

"I don't get it. First they tell us to get the trial postponed. They say we can't fight for the title if the case comes up before the fight and Joey is convicted. So we get the trial postponed. Now they tell us we can't fight until after the trial is over. We're confused, Joey is disgusted."

Counsel for Giardello applied successfully in court here yesterday to get the assault case continued from Feb. 14 to April 4. Judge Theodore Reimel granted the continuance despite vigorous opposition by District Attorney Richardson Dilworth. The judge said he didn't want to prejudice the fighter's opportunity to fight for the title. He told Dilworth a man is presumed innocent until proven guilty. Giardello is charged with beating a gasoline service station attendant in a row over the cost of gas for Joey's car.

Ferrante was bitter about Flaherty's last minute opposition to the Giardello fight. "I'm beginning to think Olson doesn't want to fight Joey. And why shouldn't he? Joey has licked every one of the ranking middleweights. Who is left for him to fight. Why should he fight anyone other than the champ?"

Ferrante said he had asked Gibson to have James B. Norris, presidnet of the I. B. C. get in touch with him.

"We haven't heard from Norris yet. We have cooperated with the I. B. C. 100 per cent. I think we ought to get this title fight and get it now."

3 Cagers Hand In 'Cat Uniforms Within Week

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 5 (AP)— Linville Puckett and Billy Bibb turned their backs on bigtime basketball at the University of Kentucky and offered their services to Kentucky Wesleyan today.

Each had his own reason for leaving Coach Adolph Rupp's powerhouse, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll.

Puckett, a first-string center, said basketball under the baron "isn't regarded as a game but as a matter of life or death with resemblance of one going to war."

Bibb, a second-string forward, said he quit because he wasn't getting to play enough.

President Oscar W. Lever of Wesleyan said the college's admissions committee will rule Monday on applications by Puckett and Bibb. Sources close to the school regarded both Puckett and Bibb as "in."

Both planned to return to Lexington today and have their scholastic records transferred to Wesleyan.

Trio Heads List For Final Round Of Action Today

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 5 (AP) — Ex-sailor Gene Littler and Jay Hebert, a southern sharpshooter, drew even with Johnny Palmer today to throw the $15,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament into a three-way tie at the end of 54 holes.

An out-of-bounds shot on the final hole kept Palmer, of Charlotte, N. C., from holding the lead he had at the midway point. It cost him two strokes and he finished with a 69-204.

Littler, one stroke off Palmer's 36-hole pace, pulled even with a two-under-par 68 today, but the lowest round of the tournament, a 65, was turned by the hot Hebert, a Louisiana native now playing out of Woodmere, L. I.

Hebert fired six birdies, two of them with putts of 30 and 60 feet, to pull into the first place tie after trailing well behind at the midway point.

Littler, of Palm Springs, Calif., a former National Amateur champion who turned pro last year, finished with a birdie on the 18th, thanks to a 6-foot putt. He had led at the end of the first round and was only one stroke behind Palmer at the 36-hole mark.

Palmer started with magic putting and was three under par after nine holes. Three times he dropped putts of about 20 feet.

He missed the green at 11, birdied the 12th and then went over par by a stroke on the 17th, and his tee shot out of bounds on 18 to lose his advantage.

Two strokes behind the leaders came bulky Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., winner here in 1940 and 1941. He fires a 66 today over the 6,684-yard Arizona County Club course with its par of 34-36—70.

At 208 were Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., with a 71 today, and Shelley Mayfield, Chicopee, Mass., 69.

Five were bunched at 209. Mike Souchak, Durham, N. C., had a 68 today, Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., 69, Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., 67, Cary Middlecoff, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., 71, and Ed Furgol, U. S. open champion from St. Louis, 71.

Johnny Palmer, 36, naturally disappointed after blowing his lead on the final hole, said he thought his putting was pretty good until the 17th when he took three to get down.

Noting the three-way tie, he commented the pro trail "is getting tougher every week."

Johnny started out with birdies on the first three holes today and wound up with six birds and five bogies.

Littler, 24, was also a little disappointed but said he was "satisfied with my game."

"I hit the ball pretty well," he said. "My putts were all short for the birdies."

Hebert, 31, who never has won a major tournament, was all smiles as he finished his round before other leaders came in.

"It was pretty nice out there," he said in obvious reference to his game and the sunny weather.

His 65 was a new competitive record for the course.

The three leaders probably will be the last to tee off tomorrow for the last round of the 72-hole tournament, with its top prize of $2,400.

The leaders:

Jay Hebert, Woodmere, L. I., 70-69-65—204

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 5 (AP)—Forward Ed Wiener dumped in 34 points to set a new Tennessee scoring record tonight, as the Vols overwhelmed Florida, 102-75, in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

Wiener, a 6-3 senior from Brooklyn, found the range for only nine points in the first half. But after the intermission, he hit a hot streak to pump in an additional 25. Tennessee's old record of 32 was held jointly by three players.

Oil Millionaire Drops Support Of Rich Golf Tourney

ARDMORE, Okla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Oil millionaire Waco F. Turner announced today he is discontinuing sponsorship of the rich annual Ardmore Open Golf Tournament into which he has poured more than $100,000 during the last three years. As a result, it is doubtful this year's tourney will be held.

Turner indicated he withdrew financial support of the P. G. A.-sponsored competition because of differences with members of the Dornick Hills Country Club over whose course the event is played.

However, the oil man said he was building a swank 18-hole golf course on his sprawling Burneyville ranch 25 miles southwest of Ardmore and would try to hold a P. G. A. tournament there in 1956. The open had been tentatively scheduled for May 10-15 this year.

Turner reportedly is spending nearly a million dollars on his ranch layout, building lakes, guest cabins and an imposing lodge and golf course where he can entertain friends. He said today he expects to have 10 guests cottages, a huge lodge and a tile swimming pool completed by late summer.

The fate of his wife's special Dornick Hills Tournament for women professional golfers, held last fall for the first time, has not been determined. Turner said his ranch could be used for that tournament as well when completed.

Bobby Leacock, schedule director for the P. G. A., said in Kansas City Turner's action "leaves the P. G. A. in an extreme predicament with very little time left to arrange another tournament," adding: "Plans were complete for the entire summer tour but no announcement of tour dates can be made until we examine the Ardmore situation."

The Ardmore tournament had been scheduled one week after the annual Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth and before the Kansas City Open.

An official of the Dornick Hills Club who declined use of his name said Turner had not asked the club directors for permission to use the course this spring and added the board had never discussed the tournament.

Turner launched the Ardmore Open in 1952 when he paid out $22,955 in prize money and bonuses. He gave more than $30,000 in prizes the next year and upped it to $44,355 last year, when former National Open champion Julius Boros won top money.

$160,000 Fees To Sugar Bowl Gridiron Rivals

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Mid-Winter Sports Association said today the Sugar Bowl had contracted payments of $160,000 each to the U. S. Naval Academy and Mississippi for their appearances in the New Year's Day football game.

Bernie J. Grenrood, president of the association which sponsors the bowl, said the payment was a new high for the bowl. Grenrood said the previous high was in 1954 when Georgia Tech and West Virginia received $144,669 each.

Redleg Contract Gets Merriman's Approval

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs reached a contract agreement today with outfielder Lloyd Merriman. He was the 33rd Redleg to agree to 1955 contract terms.

Merriman talked with General Manager Gabe Paul from his home in Fresno, Calif., and accepted the terms. He hit .268 in 73 games last year but had the fine record of getting on base 20 times in 47 appearances as a pinch hitter.

Alabama Whips Tech To Retain Lead In S. E. C.

ATLANTA, Feb. 5 (AP)—Alabama retained its hold on the Southeastern Conference basketball lead tonight by overtaking an aroused Georgia Tech with four minutes remaining and trimming the giant-killing Engineers 76-72.

Tech, two-time conqueror of mighty Kentucky, led throughout most of the game and it seemed that another astonishing form reversal was imminent until Tech's "iron men" tired near the end.

The victory left Alabama with a 13-3 overall record and a 5-1 mark in the conference. Tech is 6-11 for the season and 3-5 in SEC play.

Jerry Harper, 6-foot-8 Alabama center, posted a new school scoring record by riddling Tech's defense for 37 points. However, it was Linn who got hot with six consecutive points near the end and put the Crimson Tide safely ahead.

He was Alabama's second highest scorer with 16 points.

Guard Joe Helms, who received the keys to the city of his hometown Marlowe, Fla., in ceremonies during the game, scored 14 points for the Engineers and played his usual good floor game.

The lead changed hands 11 times in the first 13 minutes of the swiftly paced contest. With seven minutes remaining in the first half, Tech began to pull away on goals by forward Gary Phillips, center Bill Cohen, Lenholt and Helms. Tech led at halftime 45-38 and kept the lead until Linn's basket.

Tech's last two ponts of the first half were heatedly disputed by Alabama Coach Johnnie Dee, who claimed the buzzer had sounded before a foul was called on Alabama guard Leon Markaire. Dee lost the argument, and Helms made both free throws good.

Young Zoo Deer Added To Small Lafourche Herd

Wayne Huckaby, commissioner of streets and parks of Monroe, donated the surplus deer to the cause of restocking in Ouachita parish. State wildlife and fisheries officials have been conducting release of wild deer in the northeast sector of the parish with 30 head already in that area.

Sportsmen had planned to take six deer, including one young buck, in yesterday's haul, but difficulty in catching the deer in the mud and rain curtailed the day's work.

Participating in the transfer of the zoo deer were J. B. Thoman, Jake Benton, Police Officer H. V. Brown, J. L. Edwards, A. E. Jones, and Caretaker Smith of the park.

"We appreciate Mr. Huckaby's efforts in behalf of the deer restocking program for the parish, and want to caution all hunters to give all protection possible to these deer so that in future years Ouachita may again claim good hunting. Protection during our closed season is absolutely necessary," Thoman said.

The other three park deer will be freed at a later date, it was said.

Exodus Of Coaches Hits 35

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP) —When Bob Voigts resigned as Northwestern University football coach the other day, as the climax of a "Bye Bye Bobby" campaign carried on by undergraduates and lettermen, he said:

I'll have to give it a lot of thought before I reach a decision."

That was a canny statement. When a football coach gives up a major college job these days, whether he's fired or given the cushion of an official "resignation," the chances are he won't get another top position.

Voights was the 34th head coach to leave his position since November and Gaynell Tinsley made it 35 when he was fired by Louisiana State University today. The turnover for the past season approximates the 1953-54 total. And so far only five of these have taken head coaching jobs at other institutions. One has gone to the pros.

Four "major" institutions, LSU, Northwestern, Denver and Montana are looking for head coaches as a result of recent changes. So are about as many smaller schools. Two abandoned football this year, two others plan to resume varsity competition on a small scale next fall and there'll be one addition to the field when the new Air Force Academy fields its first freshman team next season.

Nearly all the other positions have been filled by men who have been working as assistant coaches. And the guys who quit either have gone into other lines of endeavor or still are looking for football jobs.

The moves of winning coaches into better-paying jobs this season so far haven't produced the usual chain reaction. When Bowden Wyatt spurned Arkansas cash and a Cadillac to return to his alma mater, Tennessee, Jack Mitchell hopped over from Wichita to take the Arkansas job. But the chain stopped there.

Jennings Bryan (Ears) Whitworth moved from Oklahoma A&M., to Alabama; Bill Meek from Kansas State to Houston and Bob Blackman from Denver to Dartmouth.

About 10 days after he had said "my whole future is wrapped up with the Bearcats," Sid Gillman jumped from the Cincinnati Bearcats to the Los Angeles Rams.

The only other pro coaching change elevated Red Strader to the top job at San Francisco after Buck Shaw was fired.

Oklahoma A&M reached into Canadian football to take Cliff Speegle from the Edmonton Eskimos; Kansas State and Wichita elevated assistants Bus Mertes and Pete Tillman to the top jobs and Cincinnati took assistant George Blackburn from Army.

Denver could start the chain again. The post reportedly has been offered to Utah State's young coach, John Roning, who is expected to make up his mind within a few days. Since Otto Graham, the alumni choice, has declined to be considered for the Northwestern job, Chicago guessers have made Voigts' assistant, Lou Saban, No. 1 on the list.

Montana, where Coach Eddie Chinske asked to be assigned to other duties in the physical education department, is looking for a young coach to take his place.

The colleges which dropped football were Fordham and St. Mary's of Winona, Minn. Fordham's Ed Danowski, after looking around briefly returned to high school teaching. Chet Bulger's position at St. Mary's hasn't been defined.

Washington and Lee and Georgetown (Ky.), returning to varsity competition next fall, already have picked their coaches. Carl Wise, who didn't agree with the de-emphasized, no-scholarship idea at W&L, moved over to Clemson as an assistant and Bill Chipley became head coach of the Generals. Basketball Coach Bob Davis will handle Georgetown's football chores. No coach has yet been picked to get football started at the Air Force Academy.

Bastrop Claims Both Sections Of Morehouse Event

BASTROP, La., Feb. 5 (Special) —Bastrop High School won both divisions of the annual Morehouse Parish Championship Basketball Tournament here tonight when the Ram quintet defeated Bonita High, 55-38, after the Bastrop girls had beaten Bonita, 40-35.

Bill Loftin hooped 20 points to lead the finals victory for the Rams in the tournament that had been in progress since Thursday. He was supported by Bill Loftin with 12, and Larry McKinistry with 11. Sims hooped 18 ponits to head Bonita's scoring.

Championship trophies and individual miniature gold basketballs were presented members of the winning teams. Trophies went to the second place Bonita combinations.

Palmer started with magic putting and was three under par after nine holes. Three times he dropped putts of about 20 feet.

He missed the green at 11, birdied the 12th and then went over par by a stroke on the 17th, and his tee shot out of bounds on 18 to lose his advantage.

Two strokes behind the leaders came bulky Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., winner here in 1940 and 1941. He fires a 66 today over the 6,684-yard Arizona County Club course with its par of 34-36—70.

At 208 were Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., with a 71 today, and Shelley Mayfield, Chicopee, Mass., 69.

Five were bunched at 209. Mike Souchak, Durham, N. C., had a 68 today, Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., 69, Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., 67, Cary Middlecoff, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., 71, and Ed Furgol, U. S. open champion from St. Louis, 71.

Johnny Palmer, 36, naturally disappointed after blowing his lead on the final hole, said he thought his putting was pretty good until the 17th when he took three to get down.

Noting the three-way tie, he commented the pro trail "is getting tougher every week."

Johnny started out with birdies on the first three holes today and wound up with six birds and five bogies.

Littler, 24, was also a little disappointed but said he was "satisfied with my game."

"I hit the ball pretty well," he said. "My putts were all short for the birdies."

Hebert, 31, who never has won a major tournament, was all smiles as he finished his round before other leaders came in.

"It was pretty nice out there," he said in obvious reference to his game and the sunny weather.

His 65 was a new competitive record for the course.

The three leaders probably will be the last to tee off tomorrow for the last round of the 72-hole tournament, with its top prize of $2,400.

Wiener Sparks Vols Over Gators, 102-75

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 5 (AP)—Forward Ed Wiener dumped in 34 points to set a new Tennessee scoring record tonight, as the Vols overwhelmed Florida, 102-75, in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

Wiener, a 6-3 senior from Brooklyn, found the range for only nine points in the first half. But after the intermission, he hit a hot streak to pump in an additional 25. Tennessee's old record of 32 was held jointly by three players.

Oil Millionaire Drops Support Of Rich Golf Tourney

ARDMORE, Okla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Oil millionaire Waco F. Turner announced today he is discontinuing sponsorship of the rich annual Ardmore Open Golf Tournament into which he has poured more than $100,000 during the last three years. As a result, it is doubtful this year's tourney will be held.

Turner indicated he withdrew financial support of the P. G. A.-sponsored competition because of differences with members of the Dornick Hills Country Club over whose course the event is played.

However, the oil man said he was building a swank 18-hole golf course on his sprawling Burneyville ranch 25 miles southwest of Ardmore and would try to hold a P. G. A. tournament there in 1956. The open had been tentatively scheduled for May 10-15 this year.

Turner reportedly is spending nearly a million dollars on his ranch layout, building lakes, guest cabins and an imposing lodge and golf course where he can entertain friends. He said today he expects to have 10 guests cottages, a huge lodge and a tile swimming pool completed by late summer.

The fate of his wife's special Dornick Hills Tournament for women professional golfers, held last fall for the first time, has not been determined. Turner said his ranch could be used for that tournament as well when completed.

Bobby Leacock, schedule director for the P. G. A., said in Kansas City Turner's action "leaves the P. G. A. in an extreme predicament with very little time left to arrange another tournament," adding: "Plans were complete for the entire summer tour but no announcement of tour dates can be made until we examine the Ardmore situation."

The Ardmore tournament had been scheduled one week after the annual Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth and before the Kansas City Open.

An official of the Dornick Hills Club who declined use of his name said Turner had not asked the club directors for permission to use the course this spring and added the board had never discussed the tournament.

Turner launched the Ardmore Open in 1952 when he paid out $23,955 in prize money and bonuses. He gave more than $30,000 in prizes the next year and upped it to $44,355 last year, when former National Open champion Julius Boros won top money.

$160,000 Fees To Sugar Bowl Gridiron Rivals

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Mid-Winter Sports Association said today the Sugar Bowl had completed payments of $160,000 each to the U. S. Naval Academy and Mississippi for their appearances in the New Year's Day football game.

Bernie J. Grenrood, president of the association which sponsors the bowl, said the payment was a new high for the bowl. Grenrood said the previous high was in 1954 when Georgia Tech and West Virginia received $144,669 each.

Redleg Contract Gets Merriman's Approval

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs reached a contract agreement today with outfielder Lloyd Merriman. He was the 33rd Redleg to agree to 1955 contract terms.

Merriman talked with General Manager Gabe Paul from his home in Fresno, Calif., and accepted the terms. He hit .268 in 73 games last year but had the fine record of getting on base 20 times in 47 appearances as a pinch hitter.

Other officials elected were Dan Green, Marion, vice president; A. F. Rabun, Farmerville, secretary-treasurer; and B. H. Howard, Farmerville, and K. B. Lockford, Haile, as state directors; and delegates to the state federation's convention at Monroe as Dan Green, Guirs J. Post, Fred Hamilton, E. D. Meeks, John Taylor, Robert Day, J. N. Hinton, and G. P. Forrester.

Special guests at the meeting included Judge Ben. C. Dawkins, Sr., a Union Parish native of Monroe who retired recently as a federal judge; and J. B. Thoman and Jack Rushing of the Ouachita unit of the wildlife federation.

Captain Smith, ranger for Union Parish, also introduced other area rangers, Captain Jack Stanfield, Burgess of Morehouse; Shott of Oak Grove, Ford of Epps, Maxwell and Williamson of Lincoln parish, and Hamilton, Page, and Langston of Union.

ATLANTA, Feb. 5 (AP)—Alabama retained its hold on the Southeastern Conference basketball lead tonight by overtaking an aroused Georgia Tech with four minutes remaining and trimming the giant-killing Engineers 76-72.

Tech, two-time conqueror of mighty Kentucky, led throughout most of the game and it seemed that another astonishing form reversal was imminent until Tech's "iron men" tired near the end.

The victory left Alabama with a 13-3 overall record and a 5-1 mark in the conference. Tech is 6-11 for the season and 3-5 in SEC play.

Jerry Harper, 6-foot-8 Alabama center, posted a new school scoring record by riddling Tech's defense for 37 points. However, it was Linn who got hot with six consecutive points near the end and put the Crimson Tide safely ahead.

He was Alabama's second highest scorer with 16 points.

Guard Joe Helms, who received the keys to the city of his hometown Marlowe, Fla., in ceremonies during the game, scored 14 points for the Engineers and played his usual good floor game.

The lead changed hands 11 times in the first 13 minutes of the swiftly paced contest. With seven minutes remaining in the first half, Tech began to pull away on goals by forward Gary Phillips, center Bill Cohen, Lenholt and Helms. Tech led at halftime 45-38 and kept the lead until Linn's basket.

Tech's last two ponts of the first half were heatedly disputed by Alabama Coach Johnnie Dee, who claimed the buzzer had sounded before a foul was called on Alabama guard Leon Marlaire. Dee lost the argument, and Helms made both free throws good.

Deadline Tomorrow For Teams Entering Cage Tourney Here

The deadline for entries for the Southern Bell Telephone Independent Basketball Tournament, scheduled here next Friday and Saturday, is tomorrow evening when pairings will be made. The tournament, with divisions for men and women, is sponsored by the Southern Bell team of Monroe's Girls League.

It was announced last night that there is room for only four more teams in the event. Any independent teams desiring to enter are invited to contact Sybil Christman here by phoning 9061 or 8869.

Young Zoo Deer Added To Small Lafourche Herd

Wayne Huckaby, commissioner of streets and parks of Monroe, donated the surplus deer to the cause of restocking in Ouachita parish. State wildlife and fisheries officials have been conducting release of wild deer in the northeast sector of the parish with 30 head already in that area.

Sportsmen had planned to take six deer, including one young buck, in yesterday's haul, but difficulty in catching the deer in the mud and rain curtailed the day's work.

Participating in the transfer of the zoo deer were J. B. Thoman, Jake Benton, Police Officer H. V. Brown, J. L. Edwards, A. E. Jones, and Caretaker Smith of the park.

"We appreciate Mr. Huckaby's efforts in behalf of the deer restocking program for the parish, and want to caution all hunters to give all protection possible to these deer so that in future years Ouachita may again claim good hunting. Protection during our closed season is absolutely necessary," Thoman said.

The other three park deer will be freed at a later date, it was said.

DEVILS HOT

Exodus Of Coaches Hits 35

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP) —When Bob Voigts resigned as Northwestern University football coach the other day, as the climax of a "Bye Bye Bobby" campaign carried on by undergraduates and lettermen, he said:

I'll have to give it a lot of thought before I reach a decision."

That was a canny statement. When a football coach gives up a major college job these days, whether he's fired or given the cushion of an official "resignation," the chances are he won't get another top position.

Voights was the 34th head coach to leave his position since November and Gaynell Tinsley made it 35 when he was fired by Louisiana State University today. The turnover for the past season approximates the 1953-54 total. And so far only five of these have taken head coaching jobs at other institutions. One has gone to the pros.

Four "major" institutions, LSU, Northwestern, Denver and Montana are looking for head coaches as a result of recent changes. So are about as many smaller schools. Two abandoned football this year, two others plan to resume varsity competition on a small scale next fall and there'll be one addition to the field when the new Air Force Academy fields its first freshman team next season.

Nearly all the other positions have been filled by men who have been working as assistant coaches. And the guys who quit either have gone into other lines of endeavor or still are looking for football jobs.

The moves of winning coaches into better-paying jobs this season so far haven't produced the usual chain reaction. When Bowden Wyatt spurned Arkansas cash and a Cadillac to return to his alma mater, Tennessee, Jack Mitchell hopped over from Wichita to take the Arkansas job. But the chain stopped there.

Jennings Bryan (Ears) Whitworth moved from Oklahoma A&M., to Alabama; Bill Meek from Kansas State to Houston and Bob Blackman from Denver to Dartmouth.

About 10 days after he had said "my whole future is wrapped up with the Bearcats," Sid Gillman jumped from the Cincinnati Bearcats to the Los Angeles Rams.

The only other pro coaching change elevated Red Strader to the top job at San Francisco after Buck Shaw was fired.

Oklahoma A&M reached into Canadian football to take Cliff Speegle from the Edmonton Eskimos; Kansas State and Wichita elevated assistants Bus Mertes and Pete Tillman to the top jobs and Cincinnati took assistant George Blackburn from Army.

Denver could start the chain again. The post reportedly has been offered to Utah State's young coach, John Roning, who is expected to make up his mind within a few days. Since Otto Graham, the alumni choice, has declined to be considered for the Northwestern job, Chicago guessers have made Voigts' assistant, Lou Saban, No. 1 on the list.

Montana, where Coach Eddie Chinske asked to be assigned to other duties in the physical education department, is looking for a young coach to take his place.

The colleges which dropped football were Fordham and St.Mary's of Winona, Minn. Fordham's Ed Danowski, after looking around briefly returned to high school teaching. Chet Bulger's position at St. Mary's hasn't been defined.

Washington and Lee and Georgetown (Ky.), returning to varsity competition next fall, already have picked their coaches. Carl Wise, who didn't agree with the de-emphasized, no-scholarship idea at W&L, moved over to Clemson as an assistant and Bill Chipley became head coach of the Generals. Basketball Coach Bob Davis will handle Georgetown's football chores. No coach has yet been picked to get football started at the Air Force Academy.

Bastrop Claims Both Sections Of Morehouse Event

BASTROP, La., Feb. 5 (Special) —Bastrop High School won both divisions of the annual Morehouse Parish Championship Basketball Tournament here tonight when the Ram quintet defeated Bonita High, 55-38, after the Bastrop girls had beaten Bonita, 40-35.

Bill Loftin hooped 20 points to lead the finals victory for the Rams in the tournament that had been in progress since Thursday. He was supported by Bill Loftin with 12, and Larry McKinistry with 11. Sims hooped 18 ponits to head Bonita's scoring.

Championship trophies and individual miniature gold basketballs were presented members of the winning teams. Trophies went to the second place Bonita combinations.

Allen Sounds New Warning Against Cage Gamblers

Famed Tutor Says Threat Of Scandal Looming Strongly

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 5 (AP) — Phog Allen charged today that widespread gambling again is threatening basketball, less than four years after the first expose.

"The dagger of gambling once again is poised over the heart of collegiate basketball," he declared. "The threat is pandemic (universally spread). The gamblers are getting brave again and we are in danger of slipping back into the same stinking condition that prevailed before the pre-expose days."

Supporting his charge, Allen, dean of the nation's cage coaches and now in his 38th season at Kansas, said he had received long distance telephone calls before one game in which the caller sought information about the physical condition of his team and that "open gambling" prevailed at the Big Seven tournament in Kansas City last December.

"On the morning of our game with Colorado Jan. 10," Allen said, "our front office got a call from Philadelphia wanting to know whether Dallas Dobbs (star guard) would play. The secretary who took the call didn't even know Dobbs was hurt. She couldn't tell them anything so they hung up."

Allen said a short time later he got a call from Kansas City, from a man posing as Sam Molen, sports director of KMBC-TV, asking if Dobbs was going to play.

"I recognized that it wasn't Molen's voice, I told the party as much and he hung up," the Phogger said.

Phogg, who called the turn on the basketball gambling scandals as early as 1944, said, regarding his charge of gambling at the Big Seven tournament in Kansas City last December:

". . . a group of characters who occupy the same box each year made open wagers upon games to the chagrin of one of our top university officials," he said. "this is nothing new. I have mentioned similar incidents before."

Allen said that while he was in Philadelphia last week a sportswriter for The Newark Evening News, Paul Horowitz, told him he had been at a luncheon "where Nat Holman declared that another gambling scandal in basketball was imminent."

Allen reiterated his well-aged contention that basketball needs a czar.

". . . the names of the 'black' Wildcats from Kentucky who won the NCAA tournament in 1949 and the 'black' Beavers of City College of New York, who won it in 1950, still are on the championship lists," he blazed. "They are there for every youth to see despite the fact some members of both teams confessed dumping and shaving points. The NCAA has yet not seen fit to remove the championship toga from these teams."

Antonelli Agrees To Terms Of New Pact With Giants

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—UP—Johnny Antonelli, one of the heroes in the New York Giants' 1954 World Series sweep, signed his 1955 contract Saturday at a substantial raise that brought his salary to about $20,000.

The 24-year-old lefty, a $65,000 bonus baby with the Boston Braves in 1948, reached maturity last season when he led the National League in won - lost percentage with a 21-7 record and in earned run average with 2.24. Antonelli is the first southpaw to win both honors since Carl Hubbel of the Giants turned the trick in 1936.

In the world series against the Cleveland Indians, Antonelli won the second game, 3-1, and then came back with only one day of rest to pitch 1 2-3 innings of hitless relief in the fourth game, striking out Vic Wertz for the final out.

Six-Man Tag Features 2 Newcomers Tuesday

Two newcomers appear at Kallo's Arena Tuesday night in the feature six-man tag match, when Bill Barney, Danny Dusek, and Johnny Zorro face Pat "Big Boy" Cronin, Rasputin, the Mad Russian, and the French Cavalier in a best-of-three falls, 90 - minute time limit tussle.

Zorro, (Spanish for fox) is a grappler who reputedly has a clean, scientific style, and is a real crowd - pleaser. He is 25 years of age, weighs 225, and is a six-footer.

Since Johnny is a scientific grappler, and sticks to the rules closely, it may be assumed that he and teammates Barney and Dusek will be the favorites Tuesday, and their opponents unpopular villains.

The other newcomer, called the "French" Cavalier for no discernible reason, stands six-two, weighs 227, and is 26 years old. He is a rough-house-type wrestler, who asks no quarter and gives none. Paired with Cronin and Rasputin, he will be with perfect company for his villainous tactics.

In last week's matches, Barney defeated Rasputin in a one-faller; and Cronin won over Canadian Chuck Molnar in the feature event. Dusek fought a live bear, and should find his competition Tuesday less fierce, although he will have to put up with a lot of fouls this week that the bear did not use.

Three ten-minute time limit bouts open the program at 8 p.m., all of which necessitate but one fall to win, and will serve as warm-ups between opposing tag team members.

Favored Social Outcast Claims McLennan Purse

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Social Outcast, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's 3 to 5 choice in the field of 13, closed with a burst of speed today to win the $69,200 McLennan Handicap at Hialeah Park.

The big chestnut gelded son of Shut Out carried top weight of 123 pounds but he had all it took to wear down the leaders and win by a head over James Cox Brady's Artismo in a stirring finish.

Bruce S. Campbell's Ram O' War was third and Hasty House farm's Sea O Erin took fourth money while Brookmeade stable's Capeador, second choice at 4 to 1, finished fifth.

Social Outcast, with Jockey Eric Guerin aboard, covered the mile and a furlong in 1:49 2-5 and returned $3.30, $2.90 and $2.60 in the $2 mutuels. Artismo paid $16.70 and $9.40. The show price on Ram O' war was $9.40.

Social Outcast, making his second start of the winter—he was second to Blessbull on Jan. 26—earned the winner's share of $50,600. Last year he won $192,675 in a dozen starts, winning five of them.

"I took a hold of him going around the first turn but even with that he started to roll down the backstretch and I had to take another one on him," Guerin said. "He picked them up around the turn and at the head of the stretch I was afraid he was going to get to the front too soon. But it all worked out because we had a real tough time getting past Artismo."

The crowd of 24,708 gave Social Outcast plenty of applause when he returned to the winner's circle where Vanderbilt received the winner's trophy from Charles J. McLennan, Hialeah's racing secretary. The race was named for McLennan's father who died several years ago.

Helfast, only horse in the McLennan not nominated for the $100,000 added Widener two weeks hence, was sixth in today's race, followed home by Full Flight, Gulf Stream, Turf Sun, Alcibiades 2nd, Helinathus, Fly Wheel and Kazmaier. Alcibiades 2nd is an English-bred and was making his third start at Hialeah since coming to this country last fall.

Franklin Tourney Begins Thursday In Crowville Gym

CROWVILLE, Feb. 5 (Special)—It will be basketball at its best when the boys and girls teams from the eight high schools of Franklin Parish tangle in the annual Franklin Parish Basketball Tournament at the Crowville High School gym Thursday and Friday.

Entering the tournament which will decide the parish champions will be teams from Winnsboro, Wisner, Gilbert, Baskin, Central, Ogden, Fort Necessity, and Crowville.

In the girls division are two state champion teams — Coach Tiny Tarbutton's Baskin Class B Champions and Coach Carrice Russell's Winnsboro Class A Champions. If these teams get together in the finals it should be a lulu, because each team has lost only one game this year and that was to each other. If they do get together in the finals, it will be the last time this year that fans will get to see a Baskin-Winnsboro game because they will play in different classes in the district and state playoff. Outstanding players on these two teams are Baskin's forward, Betty Ruth Jarrette, and guard, Frances Dear, and Winnsboro's two all-staters — Glenda Bennett at forward and Geneva Williams at guard. Not to be under rated either, is the strong Central sextet, coached by "Bo" Russell. The Central girls have lost to Baskin in one game this year by only one point, and have lost to Winnsboro in one game this year by only two points.

Franklin parish has several strong boys teams and there should be plenty of fast action in this division.

Preliminaries will start Friday at 1:00 o'clock p.m.; semi-finals at 1:00 o'clock p.m. Saturday. The girls finals will start at 3:00 o'clock Saturday night with the boys finals beginning at 9:00 o'clock.

Dan Divine Quits Spartan Job For Head Tempe Post

Devine, who was at Michigan State for five years, replaces Clyde Smith, who was promoted to the position of ASC athletic director. The 30-year-old Devine graduated from the University of Minnesota at Duluth.

Dr. D. R. Van Petten, chairman of the selection committee, said in announcing the appointment that Devine "has the highest recommendations from Biggie Munn, athletic director of Michigan State, and other football people."

"Arizona State is highly pleased to obtain such a well-thought-of young coach," Van Petten said.

Devine said he will take over his new duties in about a week and hopes to name his assistants in a few days. He is currently in East Lansing, Mich., where he resides with his wife and four children.

When Devine was interviewed for the head coaching job at Tempe, he indicated he would use the Michigan State multiple offense system if named to the post.

Advance Grandelius At Michigan State

EAST LANSING, Mich., Feb. 5 (AP) —The appointment of freshman coach Everett (Sonny) Grandelius as backfield coach for the Michigan State football team was announced today.

Head Coach Hugh (Duffy) Daugherty announced the appointment immediately after he received word that backfield coach Danny Devine has been named head coach at Arizona State.

Grandelius, from Muskegon Heights, Mich., is a former M. S. C. backfield star, a 1950 Associated Press All-American selection. He joined the Spartan staff after service in Korea and playing a year of pro football with the New York giants.

Colby-Berger VS. Ziski-Smith for Four-Ball Finals

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Vonnie Colby and Cookie Swift Berger, the defending champions, and Joyce Siski and Wiffi Smith, 1954 runners-up today shot their way into the finals of the Women's International Four-Ball Golf Tournament for the second successive year.

Miss Colby and Mrs. Berger played brilliantly to oust Polly Riley of Fort Worth and Bee McWane of Birmingham, Ala., 5 to 4. The Colby-Berger team was four under men's par for the 14 holes—lowest scoring of the tournament. Miss Ziski and Miss Smith, a pair of steady, long driving youngsters, defeated National Amateur Champion Barbara Romack of Sacramento and former amateur titlist Dot Kirby of Atlanta 2 and 1.

In last year's finals Miss Colby and Mrs. Berger defeated Joyce and Wiffi 2 up in a 36 hole grind over the 6,643-yard Orange Brook course where par is 36-36—72.

Asked if she and Wiffi were pleased to get another shot at the girls who beat them last year, Miss Ziski said with a broad grin: "We certainly are. We want revenge."

Miss Colby, the Trans-Mississippi champion from Hollywood, showed no ill effects of a brain concussion which had her in a hospital until mid-January. Conceding a couple of putts of 6 to 8 feet, Miss Colby was four under par on the front nine.

"That was the best golf I ever played," Vonnie said. "Everything seemed to be going right. I just hope I can hold the same edge in the finals."

Vonnie and Cookie were simply too hot for Miss Riley and Miss McWane, who teamed up to win this tournament in 1949 and 1952.

Epic King Leads All Way To Take Louisiana 'Cap

By TED TUNSTALL

Epic King drew out to a three length lead as the field moved into the back stretch and held that margin with Jay Kay's stable's Montengrin his closest pursuer. Spur On, winner of the Pelleteri Handicap last week and heavily favored today, was a distant 10th.

Jockey Ronnie Baldwin, Two Fisted's rider, lodged a foul against Epic King, but the stewards disallowed it. Baldwin claimed Epic King carried him to the outside through the stretch.

Epic King held the three-length margin at the top of the stretch as Two Fisted, Spur On's running mate, moved to within striking distance. Two Fisted gradually cut down the margin and the two battled through the stretch with Epic King scoring a head decision.

The winner returned $10, $3.60 and $2.80 and negotiated the distance in 1:45.4. Two Fisted paid $2.80 and $2.60, with Ann's Love moving up in the last few strides to take the show spot and return $3.80.

The victory was worth $9,575. The dark brown gelding has been one of the most consistent winners at the Fair Grounds and today's triumph was his fifth in eight starts.

Spur On, installed with running mate Two Fisted as the 7-5 favorite, was never a threat, trailing badly through the early running and finishing a well-beaten sixth.

The triumph today stamps Epic King as an early favorite for the richer handicaps to be run later in the season. The $50,000 added New Orleans Handicap will be run on March 5.

Winnipeg Bidding For Guglielmi's Football Talents

CHICAGO, Feb. 5—UP—Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi has received a generous offer from the Winnipeg Blue Bombers but his manager said Saturday he plans to negotiate first with the pro team that drafted the All-American quarterback, the Washington Redskins.

Julius Tucker of South Bend, Ind., Guglielmi's manager, said he planned to meet Sunday at South Bend with Joe Kuharich, Redskins coach.

Tucker denied a story by Jack Matheson, Winnipeg Tribune sports columnist, that the Bombers, members of Canada's Western Football Union, were closing a deal for Guglielmi's services.

Matheson said the deal would be announced shortly. Club officials wouldn't comment on Matheson's report.

Tucker said he talked with Bomber representatives several weeks ago.

"They offered us an awfully good price," he said. "They want Ralph real bad as a drawing card at the gate."

Allen Sounds New Warning Against Cage Gamblers

Famed Tutor Says Threat Of Scandal Looming Strongly

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 5 (AP) — Phog Allen charged today that widespread gambling again is threatening basketball, less than four years after the first expose.

"The dagger of gambling once again is poised over the heart of collegiate basketball," he declared. "the threat is pandemic (universally spread). The gamblers are getting brave again and we are in danger of slipping back into the same stinking condition that prevailed before the pre-expose days."

Supporting his charge, Allen, dean of the nation's cage coaches and now in his 38th season at Kansas, said he had received long distance telephone calls before one game in which the caller sought information about the physical condition of his team and that "open gambling" prevailed at the Big Seven tournament in Kansas City last December.

"On the morning of our game with Colorado Jan. 10," Allen said, "our front office got a call from Philadelphia wanting to know whether Dallas Dobbs (star guard) would play. The secretary who took the call didn't even know Dobbs was hurt. She couldn't tell them anything so they hung up."

Allen said a short time later he got a call from Kansas City, from a man posing as Sam Molen, sports director of KMBC-TV, asking if Dobbs was going to play.

"I recognized that it wasn't Molen's voice, I told the party as much and he hung up," the Phogger said.

Phogg, who called the turn on the basketball gambling scandals as early as 1944, said, regarding his charge of gambling at the Big Seven tournament in Kansas City last December:

". . . a group of characters who occupy the same box each year made open wagers upon games to the chagrin of one of our top university officials," he said. "this is nothing new. I have mentioned similar incidents before."

Allen said that while he was in Philadelphia last week a sportswriter for The Newark Evening News, Paul Horowitz, told him he had been at a luncheon "where Nat Holman declared that another gambling scandal in basketball was imminent."

Allen reiterated his well-aged contention that basketball needs a czar.

". . . . the names of the 'black' Wildcats from Kentucky who won the NCAA tournament in 1949 and the 'black' Beavers of City College of New York, who won it in 1950, still are on the championship lists," he blazed. "They are there for every youth to see despite the fact some members of both teams confessed dumping and shaving points. The NCAA has yet not seen fit to remove the championship toga from these teams."

Antonelli Agrees To Terms Of New Pact With Giants

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—UP—Johnny Antonelli, one of the heroes in the New York Giants' 1954 World Series sweep, signed his 1955 contract Saturday at a substantial raise that brought his salary to about $20,000.

The 24-year-old lefty, a $65,000 bonus baby with the Boston Braves in 1948, reached maturity last season when he led the National League in won - lost percentage with a 21-7 record and in earned run average with 2.24. Antonelli is the first southpaw to win both honors since Carl Hubbel of the Giants turned the trick in 1936.

In the world series against the Cleveland Indians, Antonelli won the second game, 3-1, and then came back with only one day of rest to pitch 1 2-3 innings of hitless relief in the fourth game, striking out Vic Wertz for the final out.

In the girls division are two state champion teams — Coach Tiny Tarbutton's Baskin Class B Champions and Coach Carrice Russell's Winnsboro Class A Champions. If these teams get together in the finals it should be a lulu, because each team has lost only one game this year and that was to each other. If they do get together in the finals, it will be the last time this year that fans will get to see a Baskin-Winnsboro game because they will play in different classes in the district and state playoff. Outstanding players on these two teams are Baskin's forward, Betty Ruth Jarrette, and guard, Frances Dear, and Winnsboro's two all-staters — Glenda Bennett at forward and Geneva Williams at guard. Not to be under rated either, is the strong Central sextet, coached by "Bo" Russell. The Central girls have lost to Baskin in one game this year by only one point, and have lost to Winnsboro in one game this year by only two points.

Franklin parish has several strong boys teams and there should be plenty of fast action in this division.

Preliminaries will start Friday at 1:00 o'clock p.m.; semi-finals at 1:00 o'clock p.m. Saturday. The girls finals will start at 8:00 o'clock Saturday night with the boys finals beginning at 9:00 o'clock.

Valo, Astroth Accept Terms With Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 5 (AP) —Four more players, among them veterans Elmer Valo and Joe Astroth, returned their signed contracts to the Kansas City Athletics today.

Valo, an outfielder, was with the Philadelphia A's 14 seasons before that American League franchise was transferred to Kansas City. Astroth, a catcher, was at Philadelphia the last six seasons. He also played for the A's in 1945 and '46.

Also signed were Don Bollweg, first baseman who played two campaigns with the old Kansas City Blues of the American Association before being called up by the New York Yankees and later traded to Philadelphia, and shortstop Jack Littrell, who was with the club last year.

Salaries were not disclosed.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Vonnie Colby and Cookie Swift Berger, the defending champions, and Joyce Siski and Wiffi Smith, 1954 runners-up today shot their way into the finals of the Women's International Four-Ball Golf Tournament for the second successive year.

Miss Colby and Mrs. Berger played brilliantly to oust Polly Riley of Fort Worth and Bee McWane of Birmingham, Ala., 3 to 4. The Colby-Berger team was four under men's par for the 14 holes—lowest scoring of the tournament. Miss Ziski and Miss Smith, a pair of steady, long driving youngsters, defeated National Amateur Champion Barbara Romack of Sacramento and former amateur titlist Dot Kirby of Atlanta 2 and 1.

In last year's finals Miss Colby and Mrs. Berger defeated Joyce and Wiffi 2 up in a 36 hole grind over the 6,643-yard Orange Brook course where par is 36-36—72.

Asked if she and Wiffi were pleased to get another shot at the girls who beat them last year, Miss Ziski said with a broad grin: "We certainly are. We want revenge."

Miss Colby, the Trans-Mississippi champion from Hollywood, showed no ill effects of a brain concussion which had her in a hospital until mid-January. Conceding a couple of putts of 6 to 8 feet, Miss Colby was four under par on the front nine.

"That was the best golf I ever played," Vonnie said. "Everything seemed to be going right. I just hope I can hold the same edge in the finals."

Vonnie and Cookie were simply too hot for Miss Riley and Miss McWane, who teamed up to win this tournament in 1949 and 1952.

Epic King Leads All Way To Take Louisiana 'Cap

By TED TUNSTALL

Epic King drew out to a three length lead as the field moved into the back stretch and held that margin with Jay Kay's stable's Montengrin his closest pursuer. Spur On, winner of the Pelleteri Handicap last week and heavily favored today, was a distant 10th.

Jockey Ronnie Baldwin, Two Fisted's rider, lodged a foul against Epic King, but the stewards disallowed it. Baldwin claimed Epic King carried him to the outside through the stretch.

Epic King held the three-length margin at the top of the stretch as Two Fisted, Spur On's running mate, moved to within striking distance. Two Fisted gradually cut down the margin and the two battled through the stretch with Epic King scoring a head decision.

The winner returned $10, $3.60 and $2.80 and negotiated the distance in 1:45.4. Two Fisted paid $2.80 and $2.60, with Ann's Love moving up in the last few strides to take the show spot and return $3.80.

The victory was worth $9,575. The dark brown gelding has been one of the most consistent winners at the Fair Grounds and today's triumph was his fifth in eight starts.

Spur On, installed with running mate Two Fisted as the 7-5 favorite, was never a threat, trailing badly through the early running and finishing a well-beaten sixth.

The triumph today stamps Epic King as an early favorite for the richer handicaps to be run later in the season. The $50,000 added New Orleans Handicap will be run on March 5.

Winnipeg Bidding For Guglielmi's Football Talents

CHICAGO, Feb. 5—UP—Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi has received a generous offer from the Winnipeg Blue Bombers but his manager said Saturday he plans to negotiate first with the pro team that drafted the All-American quarterback, the Washington Redskins.

Julius Tucker of South Bend, Ind., Guglielmi's manager, said he planned to meet Sunday at South Bend with Joe Kuharich, Redskins coach.

Tucker denied a story by Jack Matheson, Winnipeg Tribune sports columnist, that the Bombers, members of Canada's Western Football Union, were closing a deal for Guglielmi's services.

Matheson said the deal would be announced shortly. Club officials wouldn't comment on Matheson's report.

Tucker said he talked with Bomber representatives several weeks ago.

"They offered us an awfully good price," he said. "They want Ralph real bad as a drawing card at the gate."

Cotton Futures In Narrow Range For Past Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Cotton futures prices followed a narrowly mixed pattern this week and closed out the period with small net changes.

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange were 70 cents a bale lower to 40 cents higher for the week, with the nearby months accounting for all the losses.

An unexpected rise of 50 points in the mid-January parity price helped sustain the market. Other bullish influences included reports that Secretary of Agriculture Benson had definitely decided to oppose any increase in cotton acreage allotments this year. Developments in the Far East likewise had a firming effect on prices.

Meanwhile offerings were furnished through profit taking, hedge selling and liquidation influenced by a further drop in entries of cotton into the government loan. Some selling was also induced by a marked slowdown in export business.

The sharp rise in the mid-January parity price lent confirmation to earlier indications that the average 1955 cotton loan rate would be at a new high level.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau, the guaranteed minimum loan rate on middling 7/8-inch cotton for next season will definitely reach a new high of at least 31.70 cents a pound, while the loan rate on middling 15-16-inch staple will most likely be established at a level of around 33.45 cents, or perhaps even slightly higher. The loan rate on middling 15-16-inch cotton this season is 33.23 cents a pound.

'Copter Rescues Royal Navy Ship With 52 Aboard

LONDON, Feb. 5—UP—A royal navy helicopter bucked gale-force winds Saturday to carry a towline from a rescue tug to a British warship with 52 men aboard drifting helplessly near jagged reefs off England's southwest coast.

The 19,600-ton submarine depot ship Montclare was towed clear of the menacing reefs off the Scilly Isles by the straining tug, ending a dramatic battle against sea and wind.

For 15 hours, the Montclare, without engine power, had wallowed some 30 miles in a gale that drove her steadily toward the reefs. An assorted fleet of royal navy tugboats, planes and warships had pursued the Montclare since it broke loose Friday night from tugs in winds up to 90 miles an hour.

Three times during the chase tugs fired rocket - propelled harpoon lines aboard the drifting converted ocean liner, and three times the lines snapped under the pounding of the seas and the driving gales.

The Montclare was within 7 1-2 miles of the Seven Stones lightship guarding the reefs when the tiny helicopter buzzed out from the Cornish coast to the rescue.

Stocks Crowd To Verge Of Record Price Summits

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The stock market pushed ahead this week to new 1954-55 highs and came within a shade of breaking through the all-time peak.

The final drive capped a three-week rally that more than wiped out the losses suffered in two severe breaks after Jan. 1.

Since Sept. 15, 1953, the market has been booming ahead with unprecedented speed.

The Associated Press average this week gained $1.70 and stood at $157.20. That is 80 cents higher than the Jan. 3, top, and within only 50 cents of the all-time peak of $157.70 attained Sept. 3, 1929.

Loyalist Troops Retake Airport In Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 5 (AP)—Airborne government troops today recaptured the jungle-enclosed town of Los Chiles in northern Costa Rica from a small rebel group which occupied it yesterday.

The government announced that its forces were in absolute control of both the town and the airport.

The first word of the action here did not say what happened to Col. Guillermo Nunez, high-ranking officer of the Costa Rican air force. He and his companions had been captured by the rebels at Los Chiles and his release demanded by the government in an ultimatum.

The rebels, who had seized a radio station at Los Chiles, had threatened to hang Nunez if the government attempted to recapture the town of 600 close to the Nicaraguan border.

The government, in turn, had dropped leaflets over the town demanding that the rebels turn him loose or face reprisals upon their relatives from an infuriated populace.

District Library News

Librarians in this district, joining with others throughout the state in a three - month reading festival (February through April), have pointed with pride to the number of persons served by the various parish libraries. However, there are still four parishes — Ucon, West Carroll, Lincoln and Jackson — which are not served by this public service.

Residents of these parishes may still obtain non - fiction books by writing directly to the Louisiana State Library, Box 131, Baton Rouge, should they desire to take advantage of the huge collection of good books. The state library, besides helping parishes start local libraries and coordinating the activities of libraries in frequent statewide programs such as the reading festival now being observed, has for many years conducted a direct - mail book lending service to people in parishes without a local library. Children's books and books of fiction, which of course, are part of every parish library collection, cannot be loaned by the state library, but all other kinds of books are.

On the various parish levels, the LaSalle parish library has been in operation now for approximately 26 months and has circulated nearly 200,000 books. Books dealing with religion, both fiction and non-fiction, are requested more than any other type, Lola Cooper, librarian, recently pointed out. The library owns three copies of Howard Vincent Peale's "The Power of Positive Thinking," a book which has been on the waiting list since the opening of the library. Recently the library has added to its collection the title "The Power of Positive Thinking for Young People" by Peale, which librarians believe will be as popular as the other book.

The Franklin parish library buys an average of 170 books a month, librarian Eunice E. Heitman, writes. There are now more than 15,000 books in the parish collection, about half of which are adult and the rest for children from pre-primer through high school.

The summer drought in Franklin parish has resulted in many farmers requesting information on irrigation systems. The library borrowed several books from the state library and now has on order a copy of Israelsen's "Irrigation Principles and Practices."

Another note from Franklin parish is that more than 150 people signed new library cards at the brnches of the Frnklin prish library and on the bookmobile during the month of January.

The Madison parish library has a great asset in its downtown Tallulah location for its headquarters, librarian Mary Moore Mitchell has said, and backs up her statement with the fact that the location makes it possible for the business people and office girls to use a few minutes during the day for a library visit. The people in the court house, just across the street, are among the best patrons, as are members of the staff of the parish health unit next door. Besides checking out a variety of books, these business people sometimes spend their coffee breaks or part of their lunch hour, if they eat downtown, reading the daily paper, the Sunday New York Times, or the latest magazines. Even the high school girls who work downtown on Saturdays often spend part of their lunch period in this way.

At least one library visit from all parish residents during the reading festival is the goal of the East Carroll library, newest tax-supported parish library in the state, according to Elizabeth Cammack, librarian. Toward this goal, the East Carroll's festival program will include a movie trailer inviting people to use the library, quizzes on books and authors for schools and for adult club programs and 400 festival leaflets to be distributed through church bulletins.

The East Carroll library opened last June as a Louisiana State Library demonstration. Maintenance funds were voted four months later to continue the library as a local agency when the demonstration ends this summer.

The Richland parish library can lay claim to three "firsts" in the Louisiana library field. It was the first parish library in the state, opening on December 17, 1926. It was the first parish library to own its building. And then in 1952, it became the first library to operate a specially designed bookmobile with both inside and outside shelving in order to serve both Negro and white readers from the same machine.

A Negro branch library will be opened in Rayville this year.

In 1953 the circulation in Richland parish was 103,368 with the bookmobile responsible for 43,322. Circulation by bookmobile to Negroes in the parish was 8,673.

And in Ouachita parish more books were checked out during the month of January, 1955, than ever before in any previous January. The total circulation during the month was 25,344 books. Of this number almost one - half were checked out from the bookmobile. The other books were checked out at Monroe, West Monroe and the Carver branches.

Also during January 300 new books were adled to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Wealth In Frozen Wastes Of New Mexico Indicated

Two Navy Men Say They May Have Uranium 'Find'

DALLAS, Feb. 5 —UP— Cold weather chased two Navy men home after a four-day hunt for uranium in near-desert country in central New Mexico but they'll be back in early spring.

Lt. Van-Ness Ayars Jr., and Jeff E. Mahan, chief petty officer, attached to the Bureau of Aeronautics representative at the Chance Vought aircraft plant, believe they have found something.

Both had had the uranium fever for six months and looked forward to their trip. They drove to a point on the southeastern corner of the Colorado Plateau in central New Mexico.

They picked a spot at an elevation of approximately 5,000 feet in the Capitan mountains.

"We were looking for the Morrison formation, which is the largest carrier of carnotite, or uranium ore," Mahan said. "We camped in our car, walking out into the creek beds and draws each day and returning to camp before dark.

Ayars and Mahan had about given up hope at the end of four days of roughing it. Suddenly the pointer on the scintillator they packed made a violent swing.

Weary from hours of walking and carrying field packs, canteens, pick-axe and other equipment, the men took time only to mark the location and then head for their car.

"We have no idea what our scintillator picked up," Mahan said. "It could be uranium or it could be only a granite boulder buried in the ground. But you can bet we're going back as soon as the weather permits and find out."

Neither man is over - confident. "Making a uranium strike is a million-in-one proposition," Ayars said.

He said about 87,000 claims have been filed and approximately 500 mining licenses have been issued, 200 of which probably never will result in any dirt being turned.

"About four persons have struck bonanzas and not more than 20 have struck it rich," Ayars said.

Cotton Futures In Narrow Range For Past Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Cotton futures prices followed a narrowly mixed pattern this week and closed out the period with small net changes.

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange were 70 cents a bale lower to 40 cents higher for the week, with the nearby months accounting for all the losses.

An unexpected rise of 50 points in the mid-January parity price helped sustain the market. Other bullish influences included reports that Secretary of Agriculture Benson had definitely decided to oppose any increase in cotton acreage allotments this year. Developments in the Far East likewise had a firming effect on prices.

Meanwhile offerings were furnished through profit taking, hedge selling and liquidation influenced by a further drop in entries of cotton into the government loan. Some selling was also induced by a marked slowdown in export business.

The sharp rise in the mid-January parity price lent confirmation to earlier indications that the average 1955 cotton loan rate would be at a new high level.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau, the guaranteed minimum loan rate on middling ⅞-inch cotton for next season will definitely reach a new high of at least 31.70 cents a pound, while the loan rate on middling 15-16-inch staple will most likely be established at a level of around 33.45 cents, or perhaps even slightly higher. The loan rate on middling 15-16-inch cotton this season is 33.23 cents a pound.

'Copter Rescues Royal Navy Ship With 52 Aboard

LONDON, Feb. 5—UP—A royal navy helicopter bucked gale-force winds Saturday to carry a towline from a rescue tug to a British warship with 52 men aboard drifting helplessly near jagged reefs off England's southwest coast.

The 19,600-ton submarine depot ship Montclare was towed clear of the menacing reefs off the Scilly Isles by the straining tug, ending a dramatic battle against sea and wind.

For 15 hours, the Montclare, without engine power, had wallowed some 30 miles in a gale that drove her steadily toward the reefs. An assorted fleet of royal navy tugboats, planes and warships had pursued the Montclare since it broke loose Friday night from tugs in winds up to 90 miles an hour.

Three times during the chase tugs fired rocket - propelled harpoon lines aboard the drifting converted ocean liner, and three times the lines snapped under the pounding of the seas and the driving gales.

The Montclare was within 7 1-2 miles of the Seven Stones lightship guarding the reefs when the tiny helicopter buzzed out from the Cornish coast to the rescue.

Stocks Crowd To Verge Of Record Price Summits

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The stock market pushed ahead this week to new 1954-55 highs and came within a shade of breaking through the all-time peak.

The final drive capped a three-week rally that more than wiped out the losses suffered in two severe breaks after Jan. 1.

Since Sept. 15, 1953, the market has been booming ahead with unprecedented speed.

The Associated Press average this week gained $1.70 and stood at $157.20. That is 80 cents higher than the Jan. 3, top, and within only 50 cents of the all-time peak of $157.70 attained Sept. 3, 1929.

Loyalist Troops Retake Airport In Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 5 (AP)—Airborne government troops today recaptured the jungle-enclosed town of Los Chiles in northern Costa Rica from a small rebel group which occupied it yesterday.

The government announced that its forces were in absolute control of both the town and the airport.

The first word of the action here did not say what happened to Col. Guillermo Nunez, high-ranking officer of the Costa Rican air force. He and his companions had been captured by the rebels at Los Chiles and his release demanded by the government in an ultimatum.

The rebels, who had seized a radio station at Los Chiles, had threatened to hang Nunez if the government attempted to recapture the town of 600 close to the Nicaraguan border.

The government, in turn, had dropped leaflets over the town demanding that the rebels turn him loose or face reprisals upon their relatives from an infuriated populace.

District Library News

Librarians in this district, joining with others throughout the state in a three - month reading festival (February through April), have pointed with pride to the number of persons served by the various parish libraries. However, there are still four parishes — Union, West Carroll, Lincoln and Jackson — which are not served by this public service.

Residents of these parishes may still obtain non - fiction books by writing directly to the Louisiana State Library, Box 131, Baton Rouge, should they desire to take advantage of the huge collection of good books. The state library, besides helping parishes start local libraries and coordinating the activities of libraries in frequent statewide programs such as the reading festival now being observed, has for many years conducted a direct - mail book lending service to people in parishes without a local library. Children's books and books of fiction, which of course, are part of every parish library collection, cannot be loaned by the state library, but all other kinds of books are.

On the various parish levels, the LaSalle parish library has been in operation now for approximately 26 months and has circulated nearly 200,000 books. Books dealing with religion, both fiction and non-fiction, are requested more than any other type, Lola Cooper, librarian, recently pointed out. The library owns three copies of Howard Vincent Peale's "The Power of Positive Thinking," a book which has been on the waiting list since the opening of the library. Recently the library has added to its collection the title "The Power of Positive Thinking for Young People" by Peale, which librarians believe will be as popular as the other book.

The Franklin parish library buys an average of 170 books a month, librarian Eunice E. Heitman, writes. There are now more than 15,000 books in the parish collection, about half of which are adult and the rest for children from preprimer through high school.

The summer drought in Franklin parish has resulted in many farmers requesting information on irrigation systems. The library borrowed several books from the state library and now has on order a copy of Israelsen's "Irrigation Principles and Practices."

Another note from Franklin parish is that more than 150 people signed new library cards at the brnches of the Frnklin prish library and on the bookmobile during the month of January.

The Madison parish library has a great asset in its downtown Tallulah location for its headquarters, librarian Mary Moore Mitchell has said, and backs up her statement with the fact that the location makes it possible for the business people and office girls to use a few minutes during the day for a library visit. The people in the court house, just across the street, are among the best patrons, as are members of the staff of the parish health unit next door. Besides checking out a variety of books, these business people sometimes spend their coffee breaks or part of their lunch hour, if they eat downtown, reading the daily paper, the Sunday New York Times, or the latest magazines. Even the high school girls who work downtown on Saturdays often spend part of their lunch period in this way.

At least one library visit from all parish residents during the reading festival is the goal of the East Carroll library, newest tax-supported parish library in the state, according to Elizabeth Cammack, librarian. Toward this goal, the East Carroll's festival program will include a movie trailer inviting people to use the library, quizzes on books and authors for schools and for adult club programs and 400 festival leaflets to be distributed through church bulletins.

The East Carroll library opened last June as a Louisiana State Library demonstration. Maintenance funds were voted four months later to continue the library as a local agency when the demonstration ends this summer.

The Richland parish library can lay claim to three "firsts" in the Louisiana library field. It was the first parish library in the state, opening on December 17, 1926. It was the first parish library to own its building. And then in 1952, it became the first library to operate a specially designed bookmobile with both inside and outside shelving in order to serve both Negro and white readers from the same machine.

A Negro branch library will be opened in Rayville this year.

In 1953 the circulation in Richland parish was 103,368 with the bookmobile responsible for 43,322. Circulation by bookmobile to Negroes in the parish was 8,673.

And in Ouachita parish more books were checked out during the month of January, 1955, than ever before in any previous January. The total circulation during the month was 25,344 books. Of this number almost one - half were checked out from the bookmobile. The other books were checked out at Monroe, West Monroe and the Carver branches.

Also during January 300 new books were adled to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Of this number 150 were purchased with library funds, 32 were memorial books and 118 were other gifts. The total book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is now 41,633 books. "There is something here for everyone," Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, pointed out.

Associate Agronomist Is Conference Bound

T. H. Milliken, associate agronomist assigned to the Ouachita parish county agent's office in West Monroe, left here Saturday morning for Louisville, Ky., to attend the Southern Agricultural Conference opening there Monday. The Conference will close Thursday, and Milliken will return to his office the following Monday.

Wealth In Frozen Wastes Of New Mexico Indicated

Two Navy Men Say They May Have Uranium 'Find'

DALLAS, Feb. 5 —UP— Cold weather chased two Navy men home after a four-day hunt for uranium in near-desert country in central New Mexico but they'll be back in early spring.

Lt. Van-Ness Ayars Jr., and Jeff E. Mahan, chief petty officer, attached to the Bureau of Aeronautics representative at the Chance Vought aircraft plant, believe they have found something.

Both had had the uranium fever for six months and looked forward to their trip. They drove to a point on the southeastern corner of the Colorado Plateau in central New Mexico.

They picked a spot at an elevation of approximately 5,000 feet in the Capitan mountains.

"We were looking for the Morrison formation, which is the largest carrier of carnotite, or uranium ore," Mahan said. "We camped in our car, walking out into the creek beds and draws each day and returning to camp before dark.

Ayars and Mahan had about given up hope at the end of four days of roughing it. Suddenly the pointer on the scintillator they packed made a violent swing.

Weary from hours of walking and carrying field packs, canteens, pick-axe and other equipment, the men took time only to mark the location and then head for their car.

"We have no idea what our scintillator picked up," Mahan said. "It could be uranium or it could be only a granite boulder buried in the ground. But you can bet we're going back as soon as the weather permits and find out."

Neither man is over - confident. "Making a uranium strike is a million-in-one proposition," Ayars said.

He said about 87,000 claims have been filed and approximately 500 mining licenses have been issued, 200 of which probably never will result in any dirt being turned.

"About four persons have struck bonanzas and not more than 20 have struck it rich," Ayars said.

Special Shorthand Class Is Scheduled

A special weekly night class in shorthand will be launched this week at Northeast State College here, it was announced yesterday by Wilbur Lee Perkins, head of department of business administration.

Registration for the course, which was requested by a number of out of town residents, may be made at Perkins office, room 308, Brown Hall, anytime during the day Monday or Tuesday, or until the first class meets there at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Clergy Plays Vital Role In Y.M.C.A. Growth

The Young Men's Christian Association, traditionally an organization supported and guided by a volunteer lay leadership, owes much of its character and growth to the clergy, a fact not widely known.

This is pointed out by Charles A. Wood, Jr., general secretary of the Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. as it is conducting its 1955 membership roundup.

A year after the parent Y. M. C. A. was established in London in 1844 by George Williams and eleven fellow clerks, the first association listed 22 outstanding clergymen as vice - presidents.

The first American Y. M. C. A. taking root in Boston, Mass., on December 29, 1851, was organized by Captain Thomas V. Sullivan, who had given up the sea for missionary work. The noted Dr. Lyman Beecher lent it his immediate support and other ministers were among its officers.

The founding of the New York City association six months later was brought about through the aid of two prominent churchmen, the Rev. Drs. James W. Alexander and Isaac Ferris. The second president of the association, Professor Howard Crosby of New York University and later its chancellor, entered the clergy not long afterward and served as minister of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City. For years Dr. Crosby was one of the national leaders of the early YMCA movement.

In 1854, 23 - year - old William Chauncy Langdon, later to enter the service of the church, welded together the first convention of American Y. M. C. A.'s and laid the groundwork for the present national movement.

In 1855, at the first world meeting of YMCA's, the Rev. Abel Stevens, an American delegate, first voiced the principles that united Y. M. C. A.'s here and abroad.

The prayer - meeting revivals that swept the country in 1857 and 1858 remain the most dramatic example in Y. M. C. A. annals of the co-operation between churchmen of teh "Y" movement. Originated in New York City by the Y. M. C. A., the spiritual tidal wave rolled over the nation and won thousands to Christianity.

Ministers were among the outstanding workers of the United States Christian commission, the welfare agency created by the Y. M. C. A. early in the Civil War for the spiritual and physical comfort of the troops. In 1878, two executives who died in the New Orleans Y. M. C. A.'s campaign against yellow - fever were ministers.

Perhaps the most spectacular personality in the entire history of the Y. M. C. A. was a minister. He was Dwight L. Moody, a religious giant of the late 1800's, whose magnetic zeal swayed millions in this country and abroad. Moody gave generously of his inexhaustible energies and talents in supporting and spreading the Y. M. C. A. idea.

First Sunday Of February Will Be Day For Singing

The regular first Sunday afternoon Booster singing convention will convene at 1:30 p.m. today at the Missouri Pacific Booster Hall.

This singing has the record of being well attended by both singers and lovers of gospel singing.

A number from other parishes have announced their intention of being present for this session.

There will be several special groups, quartets, and trios, in addition to a number of the leading song directors and pianists present. Those who like good gospel singing are extended a cordial invitation to the present, by the convention president, U. C. Cockrell.

85-Year-Old Man Predicts Weather

JENA, Feb. 5 (Special) — W.O. (Uncle Oliver) Smith, of Jena, 85 years young and still going strong, this week issued his annual weather forecast for the month of April.

Proven almost 100 per cent right in the past on most of his predictions, and hitting the nail on the head with his April forecast for last year, Uncle Oliver this week reminded gardeners that for every day it thunders in February, there will be a frost in April.

So—if it thunders on Feb. 12, for instance, better take care and cover up the flowers and protect the garden on April 12. And, if it thunders real hard—look out!!!

Calling is Miss Nona Martin, co-chairman. With her are Mrs. George Forman, chairman of Heart Sunday and Mrs. C. T. Yancey, one of those helping with plans for it. Mrs. Yancey is the wife of Dr. C. T. Yancey, Monroe physician, who is a member of the state board of directors of the Louisiana Heart Association, which determines how funds derived from the drive will be used in this state.

Annual Natchez Pilgrimage Opens March 2

Natchez calling "Come to Natchez, where the old south still lives, for the Natchez Pilgrimage, March 2nd through March 31st."

Annually at this season the call is heard over the nation, through magazine, press, radio and television, as Natchez makes ready for the big event. It is borne, too, in the personalized invitation of attractive illustrated folders now being sent out from pilgrimage headquarters in Natchez and available for the asking. Sounded in the call, a lilting note of springtime finds echo in winter - weary hearts, and Mr. and Mrs. John Doe respond en masse to the lure of sunny skies and flower - scented gardens, of soft southern voices warm in welcome to this friendly land of theirs. Thus the big trek to Natchez - on-the-Mississippi again gets under way.

The nationally renowned Natchez Pilgrimage is described as an actual re-creation of the days of the Old South when cotton was king, in which Natchez, once the center of fabulous wealth and culture, re-enacts that golden period of its past. Thirty magnificent ante-bellum mansions open hospitable doors to thousands of visitors who come to make this unique pilgrimage into the past. Two tours daily permit the "pilgrim" to enter these homes as an honored guest, to see first-hand the grandeur of the south's "Lost Cause" in treasured relics of antique furnishings, priceless china, silver, paintings, etc. Houses are grouped five to each tour, and three full days are required to see all of the thirty.

Highlights of the event are evening entertainments that have been fittingly described by visitors as "out of this world." On each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, the profundly moving Confederate pageant is presented in a panorama of colorful tableaux depicting life in Natchez of the 1860's. Providing distinctive contrast, the Negro spirituals program "Highway to Heaven," is presented in the haunting melody of southern Negro voices on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The two garden clubs of Natchez sponsoring this event invite you to write to The Natchez Pilgrimage, Natchez, Miss., for detailed information.

Time To Plant A Vegetable Garden

The Family Vegetable Garden

If you have the space, make a family garden. It will save money and produce family health. To be well fed, your family should eat daily a green, leafy or yellow vegetable and two other vegetables. Nutritionist tell us, tomatoes and cantaloupes may be used when you do not have a citrus fruit to provide vitamin C. Also, they tell us a potato, sweet or Irish, is a good source of some of the minerals needed — phosphorus and calcium. Vegetables are at their best when fresh. Even though our markets have improved in the manner in which they handle fresh vegetable, those fresh from your garden are better and more nutritious.

We hear some say they can buy vegetables cheaper than they can produce them, but if we check records of production we will see this statement is untrue. A home garden pays the biggest dividend of any other crop on the farm. Too, if they are availabe, you will include more of them on family meals. To prepare the plot apply all the barnyard manure available by broadcasting it over plot and plowing it in now. This manure will provide some organic matter needed to keep soil in good condition and furnish some plant food. But barnyard will not supply enough plant food. You will need more nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash, so when you make up the rows, apply 6 to 10 pounds of 8-8-8 to each 100 foot row. Mix well with the soil. When vegetable mark the row, side-dress them using 1 pound per 100 foot row with ammonium nitrate or sodium nitrate. All vegetables, except beans and peas of all kind, carrots and sweet potatoes need extra nitrogen.

Landscape Gardening

To keep azaleas healthy, mulch well with 4 inches or more of peat moss, finely chopped bagasse, or leaf mold. This will help insulate plant roots in cold weather as well as in hot scorching summer. It will also keep down weeds and conserve moisture. If you are setting out new plants, mix at least one-third or one-half of any good organic matter into the soil.

Plant roses now. Prune old plants this month. Prune out weak and diseased wood, leaving 5 to 7 strong canes. Cut canes 15 to 20 inches (no less). Spray plants after pruning with Bordeaux Dithane, Z-78 or Tribasic copper sulphate to help control black spot.

Fertilize camellias with ¼ to ½ pounds of 8-8-8 or equivalent per square yard of surface. You may prune evergreen and summer blooming shrubs — not spring flowering shrubs.

Family Clothing

The outlook tells us there will be plenty of fabrics and ready-made garments, but the price of ready-made clothing may be higher. The way to get around this extra expenditure is to "Do it yourself." The Extension Agent is giving help with clothing construction at Home Demonstration Club meetings and in workshops. There are several bulletins in the extension office you may get by calling 3-2251. A new bulletin entitled "Sewing" gives information on adjusting machine to sew taffetized and embossed cottons and man-made fabrics — nylon, dacron, rayon, acetate, orlon, acrilon, vicaro and plastics. It also shows you how to take body measurements, alter patterns, and many other suggestions. Other bulletins available are, "Making a Dress at Home," "The Suit You Make" and "Pattern Alterations."

The agent will have two simple sewing workshops. The planning meeting for these workshops will be announced later. You may enroll by calling 3-2251.

Women Of Future Need More Education

ITHACA, N. Y — Education of women in the future presents special problems, says Dean Helen G. Canoyer of the New York State College of Home Economics.

"The primary function of home economics is and has been the coordination of all sciences and arts toward constructive family life," she explains. "As women's status in society has changed, home economics education has broadened."

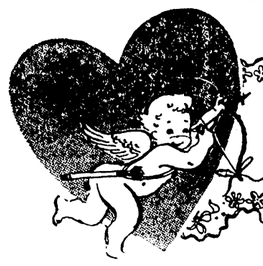

The women of tomorrow, Miss Canoyer says, will need an even broader education.

"Women are playing an increasingly active role as wage earners and citizens — in addition to homemaking. More married women," she says, "work outside the home now than at the height of World War II."

Recent estimates, she says, show that more than one-third of the people employed are women, one-half of the women workers are married, and one-fifth of married women work.

This manure will provide some organic matter needed to keep soil in good condition and furnish some plant food. But barnyard will not supply enough plant food. You will need more nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash, so when you make up the rows, apply 6 to 10 pounds of 8-8-8 to each 100 foot row. Mix well with the soil. When vegetable mark the row, side-dress them using 1 pound per 100 foot row with ammonium nitrate or sodium nitrate. All vegetables, except beans and peas of all kind, carrots and sweet potatoes need extra nitrogen.

Landscape Gardening

To keep azaleas healthy, mulch well with 4 inches or more of peat moss, finely chopped bagasse, or leaf mold. This will help insulate plant roots in cold weather as well as in hot scorching summer. It will also keep down weeds and conserve moisture. If you are setting out new plants, mix at least one-third or one-half of any good organic matter into the soil.

Plant roses now. Prune old plants this month. Prune out weak and diseased wood, leaving 5 to 7 strong canes. Cut canes 15 to 20 inches (no less). Spray plants after pruning with Bordeaux Diathane, Z-78 or Tribasic copper sulphate to help control black spot.

Fertilize camellias with ⅛ to ¼ pounds of 8-8-8 or equivalent per square yard of surface. You may prune evergreen and summer blooming shrubs — not spring flowering shrubs.

Family Clothing

The outlook tells us there will be plenty of fabrics and ready-made garments, but the price of ready-made clothing may be higher. The way to get around this extra expenditure is to "Do it yourself." The Extension Agent is giving help with clothing construction at Home Demonstration Club meetings and in workshops. There are several bulletins in the extension office you may get by calling 3-2251. A new bulletin entitled "Sewing" gives information on adjusting machine to sew taffetized and embossed cottons and man-made fabrics — nylon, dacron, rayon, acetate, orlon, acrilon, vicaro and plastics. It also shows you how to take body measurements, alter patterns, and many other suggestions. Other bulletins available are, "Making a Dress at Home," "The Suit You Make" and "Pattern Alterations."

The agent will have two simple sewing workshops. The planning meeting for these workshops will be announced later. You may enroll by calling 3-2251.

Women Of Future Need More Education

ITHACA, N. Y — Education of women in the future presents special problems, says Dean Helen G. Canoyer of the New York State College of Home Economics.

"The primary function of home economics is and has been the coordination of all sciences and arts toward constructive family life," she explains. "As women's status in society has changed, home economics education has broadened."

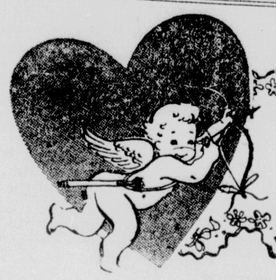

The women of tomorrow, Miss Canoyer says, will need an even broader education.

"Women are playing an increasingly active role as wage earners and citizens — in addition to homemaking. More married women," she says, "work outside the home now than at the height of World War II."

Recent estimates, she says, show that more than one-third of the people employed are women; one-half of the women workers are married, and one-fifth of married women work.

Pitts-Land Vows Said In Late Afternoon Ceremony

LAKE PROVIDENCE—Baskets of snowy white gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations and tall white tapers burning in wrought iron candelabra, with background of native pines, decorated the altar of the First Methodist church of Lake Providence on Sunday afternoon, January 23, when Miss Valerye Elizabeth Land became the bride of Loyd Binford Pitts, Jr.

Parents of the bridal couple are Mrs. Paris Regenold Land of Lake Providence, and Ford Land of Lake Providence, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Pitts of Terry, Miss.

The Rev. Thomas Major Lancaster officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Herman Schwartz rendered an organ program of nuptial music while the guests were being seated by the ushers, Casper M. Lensing of Sondheimer, and Alton Huggins of Lake Providence, and Miss Shearon Regenold lighted the candles.

Miss Jere Land was her sister's maid of honor and her bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Ann Pitts, Corsica Tex., and Miss Jeri Pitts, Terry, Miss., were sisters of the bridegroom. The flower girl, little Miss Madeleine Lensing, was a niece of the bride.

All were identically gowned in spring models of crystalette designed with tucked bodices and full blown waltz length skirts. Each wore a single strand of pearls, gifts from the bride, bandeau of pink satin leaves, and carried a cascade of roses with angel feathers. Miss Land and young Miss Lensing chose pink tulip and carried red roses. Misses Jeri Pitts wore burgundy and carried pink roses; Miss Barbara Ann Pitts wore claret and carried red roses. Their mates and satin slippers were in dress matching shades.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was regal in a gown of imported Chantilly lace over candlelight nylon net. The dress, designed with fitted bodice and portrait neckline, had a bouffant skirt which fanned out into a short train over a net flounce. Her veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap traced with tiny seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Happiness roses with matching satin streamers. Her only jeweled ornament was a diamond sunburst of her maternal grandmothers.

Mrs. Land chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue lace in a delicately traced floral pattern. The scooped neckline was filled with folds of net. A full blown red rose emphasized the longer of the two side points of the dress matching a felt capulet. A red rose corsage was worn at the belt.

Mrs. Pitts, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black lace model over burnished gold taffeta. A jewel banded black satin cloche and shoulder corsage of red rosebuds complemented the costume.

Reception In Church Parlors

The triple tiered wedding cake was topped with wedding bells filled with lilites of the valley, and adorned a table overlaid with floor length net cloth over satin. At either end of the table stood massive branched antique silver candelabra. Mrs. Alton Huggins sliced and served the cake.

The punch table was covered with a lace cloth over satin and decorated with pink carnations, candy tift and fern. Mrs. Frederick Hall Schneider, Jr., and Mrs. Fred Shearon Regenold, Jr., alternated at the punch bowl. Mrs. Harry Shields and Mrs. Sam H. Houston, Jr., invited the guests to register.

For the wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the bride wore a two piece suit of ice blue silk shantung, with jeweled collar. Tiny white rosebuds trimmed the white satin pillbox, and the shoulder corsage was of white orchids. Her accoessories were in black patent leather.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitts will return to make their home in Clarksdale, Miss.

John Cale Guest Artist At Music Guild Luncheon

The Music Guild held its Annual Business Meeting following a luncheon in the Cotton Room of the Rendezvous, Wednesday, Feb. 2. The room was lovely with English [illegible] and yellow tapers [illegible] the long table. [illegible] the speaker's table [illegible] cards marked the places. The hostesses were Mrs. P. A. Pogue, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., Mrs. H. A. Gerung, and Mrs. R. L. Morgan.

Mrs. Wilbur Bullock introduced Mr. John Cale, guest artist, who is a well known musician in this area. Before he came to teach in Monroe, Mr. Cale majored in piano at L. S. U., served in the armed forces in World War II, and earned his master's degree in music history at the University of Michigan. Mr. Cale gave an interesting talk on modern music and how it fits into the scheme of things. He said that the death of Brahms in 1897 marked the close of a great era in music, but much has been happening in the following years that is just being noticed. Stravinsky is considered radical in this week away from the old masters but is considered a pioneer in modern music. Wallo Copland, Dane [illegible] is classed as an impressionist who wrote [illegible] more diverse rhythm and pattern and became better liked by some. Later are the two schools of thought, one which says overthrow the old ideas of music and become rational creating rhythm and sound rather than melody and form. The most important movement is back to the music that makes good sense and says let us go back to Bach. Mr. Cale played Tarantella by McDowell as an example of a modern composition and prelude in C Sharp Major by Bach as an example of an old master.

After the program members of the club elected officers who will take office in the fall of 1955 and serve until summer, 1956. Those elected are President, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr.; vice president Mrs. C. L. Dillingham; secretary, Mrs. Cecil Massey; treasurer, Mrs. Bonnie Phelps; parliamentarian, Mrs. James T. Harris; historian, Mrs. W. E. Williams; organist, Mrs. C. W. Thacker; director of choral ensemble, Mrs. Wilbur Bullock, Jr.; accompanist, Mrs. Walter Hopkins; librarian, Mrs. B. M. Cooney.

Members and guests who enjoyed the luncheon were: Mr. John Cale, Mrs. Robert Bliss, Mrs. H. A. Gerung, Mrs. W. W. Bullock, Jr., Mrs. Robert Worden, Mrs. C. A. Rabbi F. K. Hirsch of Monroe officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony, performed in the presence of the two families, their relatives, and friends of the young couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gershon Marcus of Oak Grove and Mr. Kurtz is the son of Mrs. Edna Kurtz of Opelousas and Mr. Sam Kurtz of Marksville.

The spacious lounge of the club had been converted into a place of public worship with podium decorated in a background of draped picture windows, tall palms and wrought iron graduated candelabra burning tall white cathedral candles, baskets of mixed white gladioli, stock, candytuft, plumosa fern and palm fronds. The proscenium was edged with shallow, narrow green boxes filled with white flowers and greenery. The center aisle was marked by white aisle cloth, white ribbon bows for the reserved seats, cornucopia shaped white wicker baskets filled with the bridal flowers, and classic urns of potted palms to outline the bridal path and front the altar.

Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Jr., pianist, rendered a concert of nuptial music.

Mrs. Harris Friedlander, Mobile, Ala., older sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She was gowned in dubonnet crystalette.

The bridesmaids were Miss Paula Gary of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Miss Berne Etron of New Orleans, who wore pink champagne frocks. Miss Bettie Ray Hamburger of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Arline Hinman of St. Louis, Mo., were attired in claret.

Junior bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Andrea Marcus of Lake Providence and Phyllis Ruskin of McGehee, Ark., who wore floor length models in shades matching the matron of honor's.

All bridal attendants, with the exception of the junior bridesmaids, were identically attired in waltz - length gowns of crystalette fashioned with deep folds forming the fitted bodices and cap sleeves. The bouffant skirts flared in graceful fullness. Each wore a floral bandeau and carried bouquets of cryssanthemums blending the three tones of the bridal gowns.

Wearing a gown of imported silk, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding dress featured a fitted bodice, with portrait neckline trained by lace edging, and fronted with a short, divided peplum, over all of which were scattered lace applique, seed pearls and iridescent paillettes. The bodice buttoned down the back, deep into the skirt, with self-covered buttons. The long tight sleeves buttoned at the wrist and tapered to petal points over her hands. Her billowy skirt fell in deep unpressed pleats into a graceful train. Her veil of silk illusion fell fingertip-length from a floral lace Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of purple throated white orchids.

Mr. Mervin H. Rieseman of New York City, served the bridegroom as best man. Louis Weinstein and Robert Bachail, both of Shreveport, lighted the candles and served as groomsmen with Harris Friedlander, of Mobile, Ala., and Gael D'Avy of Opelousas.

Mrs. Marcus chose for her daughter's wedding a model of pink lace with deep yoke encrusted with semi - circles of iridescent paillettes. She wore a matching feathered capulet and shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

Mrs. Kurtz, mother of the bridegroom, was wearing a blue lace paneled with peau de soie. Her accessories were in white with blue satin toque, elbow length gloves and evening bag. Her corsage was a purple orchid.

A handsome linen cloth used at the wedding of the bridegroom's mother, covered the cake table. The three tiers of the cake were supported by fluted columns, and the topping was of wedding bells filled with lilies of the valley. Mrs. Al Ruskin of McGehee, Ark., served the wedding cake.

The bridal table was covered with a floor length nylon net cloth over satin. Narrow ribbon bands bordered the table edge and looped in the folds of swags, which held scattered pink rosebuds. In a low silver bowl were white carnations and mums. Branched silver candelabra were placed at each end of the table. Miss Elise Davis of Los Angeles, Calif., presided at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Louis Weinstein of Shreveport, invited the guests to register in the bride's book.

Mrs. Kurtz was graduated from the Oak Grove High School and is attending Louisiana State University, where she is a member of Alpha Epsilon Phi, which she represents on the Pan-Hellenic Council.

Mr. Kurtz was graduated from Opelousas High and Tulane University in New Orleans, where he was a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz will reside in Opelousas.

Rehearsal Supper

Mrs. Ben Riseman of Opelousas, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, was hostess for the rehearsal supper which was held at The Grove following the Saturday evening wedding ceremony rehearsal. There were twenty-eight guests including the bridal party, their parents and immediate relatives.

The bride and bridegroom chose this occasion to present their attendants with gifts.

News From The Public Library

The month of January saw a great many new books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. In fact, the total number added was 300. The greater proportion of this number were adult books. The figures were adult 228 and juvenile 72. Dividing the adult again we find that 160 were books of fiction, 122 were non-fiction and six were reference books.

People often think that the largest part of a library collection is made up of fiction books for light reading, but that is not true of the modern library. Librarians are constantly on the alert to find the book which will fill in a gap in the collection and which will provide information which they know someone will want at some time. Let's take a look at some of the adult non-fiction books added during the past week. First of all there is a beautiful reference book called "Signs and Symbols in Christian Art." This is a book which will appeal to the artist, the minister and those who love beauty in general.

"Furs, Glamorous and Practical" fills a long felt need in telling the purchaser what to look for in furs. It is a wonderful buying guide in a field which has been sadly neglected. "Don't Be Afraid" is a book of practical psychology by Edward S. Cowles and should be read by all of those who find this world and its problems terrifying. "The Challenge of Being A Woman" by Helen Sherman was mentioned by a columnist in this paper several weeks ago and we had so many requests for the book that we purchased two copies. Every woman who wants to read a fuller, happier life should read it.

One of the most beautiful books to appear in a long time is "The World of Albert Schweitzer" compiled by Erica Anderson. It is a perfectly lovely book of photographs in black and white of Albert Schweitzer and his work.

A number of new biographies are among the additions of last week. "Gordon of Khartoum" by Lord Elton is a fascinating picture of a hero of the last century. "R.S.V.P." by Elsa Maxwell was already in our collection, but the requests were so numerous that we ordered additional copies. "Henry Ford" by Roger Burlingame "Hans Christian Anderson" by Rumer Godden, "Alexander Dumas" by Andre Maurois, "Charles Darwin" by Ruth Moore and "Mahatma Gandhi" are all in a series of new biographies recently published by Knopf and geared to a young adult level.

If you are interested in politics, you will want to read "The Fifth Amendment Today" by Erwin Griswold and "The United States and Argentina" by Arthur P. Whittaker, a most interesting discussion of our foreign relations with Argentina. Two books dealing with the history of our own country are "English People On the Eve of Colonization, 1603-1630" by Wallace Notestine and "Bent's Fort" by David Lavender.

Several books fall into the very practical category. They are "Information Please Almanac for 1955," "Magic Television Sewing" and "The New Guide to Interior Painting" by Garland Hancock.

Here's a delicious afternoon pick-up. Put a teaspoon of instant coffee and one of instant cocoa into a cup; add ¾ cup boiling water and stir well. Add sugar and cream to taste.

Mrs. Pete Haddad Entertains Garden Club

Mrs. Pete Haddad entertained the Home Gardener Club at a called meeting in her home on Speed Avenue Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Lovely flower arrangements were placed about the reception rooms where the guests were received. Co-hostess on the occasion were Mrs. Arlene Banister, Mrs. R. N. Dozier and Mrs. Smith Stevenson.

Mrs. S. E. Morris called the session to order and asked Mrs. E. L. Hoskins to read the club collect.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. J. A. Funston and after their adoption a brief business meeting was conducted.

Mrs. Milton Ford, Project Chairman gave interesting and essential information regarding the trip to the Natchez Pilgrimage in March, and complete plans relative to the specific tour and date of attending were made.

In conclusion the members assembled in the cheerful Garden room and held a successful White Elephant sale to help convey the expenses of the tour.

Attending the meeting were: Mrs. J. A. Funston, Miss Norma Dunn, Mrs. James Haddad, Mrs. Milton Ford, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. M. J. Harrison, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, Mrs. E. F. Kenny, Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. L. D. Rogers, Mrs. C. C. Williams, Mrs. J. O. Rhodes, Mrs. Frank Pettit, Mrs. Frank Reizell, Mrs. E. D. Prentice, Mrs. H. E. Muniholland, Mrs. S. E. Morris, Mrs. L. R. Harrison, Mrs. E. M. Henderson.

Groom-To-Be Attends Shower For Fiancee

PLATTE Kans. — When Don Stewart became ill with the flu, he was surprised for her at a shower given by a group of local women.

He attended the otherwise all-female party, opened the gifts and, as the hostess described it, "graciously stayed through the tea hour and what would have been a reception for Miss Kater."

New Finishes Add Life To Textiles

MADISON, Wis. — New fabric finishes make clothing and furnishings more glamorous, safer, and longer - lasting.

For example, there is a new crease resistant finish for cottons, water repellent finish for rainwear, and woolens treated for moth resistance with a substance added to raise water.

One of the newest methods of finishing is by "texturizing," which alters the appearance of a fabric, making possible many glamorous variations.

Margaret Can't Wear Shorts In Tropics

LONDON — Shorts are chic warm weather apparel for most women but not for Princess Margaret.

The British princess, on a two-months visit to the Caribbean, might be inclined to dress informally for the warm climate, but—

"Royal ladies never are seen in shorts at any time," said a Buckingham Palace source firmly.

Nina Underwood Is Entertained

DODSON — Mrs. Clayton Underwood entertained with a surprise birthday dinner at her home honoring her daugher, Nina Sue, on her sixteenth birthday.

Enjoying the occasion with the honoree were Misses Lynn Gates, Margaret Rose Womack, Elizabeth Gilmore, Frankie and Annette Kelly.

Girl Scout News

Troop 42, Mrs. Paul Bauer fourth grade Brownie Scouts at Lida Benton School, found out early in the game how much fun the out of doors in Scouting can be. On the coldest day we've had, last Saturday, you remember, the troop took a wild plum tree to plant at Pine Wood and spent the day doing the things that girls look forward to on their first trip to camp, exploring the grounds, finding the grapevine swings, and hiking to the river to pick up shells and other treasures and to try out the echo that answers their calls from across the river.

Although the ground was frozen, the girls found the first tiny flowers, the bluets, beginning to bloom in the field. Maybe in spite of the old groundhog, spring is not too far off.

The girls made cocoa to go with their nosebag lunches, planted their tree, and enjoyed the sunshine and a big fire for warmth. Mary Katherine Smith expressed the feeling of the group when she said, "I didn't know it could be so much fun to go to camp."

Another group of warmly-dressed Brownies came to camp to plant trees, Troop 54, with Mrs. D. A. Stancil and Mrs. Marjorie Lewis in charge. They, too, enjoyed the usual activities and had no trouble at all keeping warm. Bobbie Gail Hicks and Cyntnia Lewis, who had attended day camp last summer, took the troop to visit their favorite haunts and probably worked up a lot of enthusiasm for next summer's camp. Cynthia was chosen to be the Brownie on the program for the annual dinner Wednesday night, telling about day camping for Brownies.

A busy troop that we've meant to tell you about lately is Troop 18, with Mrs. E. R. Smith, better known as "Toby" as leader. Their latest project has been a scrapbook for children in the hospital. Each girl enjoyed making her own page, with a get well wish and a stick or two of peppermint candy attached to make things even more interesting for a young patient.

Recently Troop 18 made a visit to the Coca Cola Bottling Company, with Mrs. J. C. Loftin and Mrs. N. L. Huckabee assisting the leader. The girls were fascinated by the process and gained another insight into a community business.

Like a number of troops, these girls have visited the television station to see what makes the wheels go 'round.

Tuesday is the 45th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Congratulations to that fine organization! If boy scouting hadn't started when it did, maybe girl scouting wouldn't be ready to celebrate its 43rd birthday next month. The Boy Scouts have invited all the Girl Scouts and their parents to attend the court of honor and birthday program Tuesday night at 7:30 at Central Grammar School. Let's try to be there.

Ridgeway-Rowe

FERRIDAY — Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rowe of Ferriday announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Nell Rowe to Laurence Ridgeway, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Ridgway, of Monroe.

The wedding will take place February 11, with the time and place to be announced later.

Plain Borax Good Drink Spot Remover

Research at The National Institute of Dry Cleaning laboratories in Silver Spring, Md., shows that borax or boric acid will make harmless the sugars in beverages which make brown stains khen subjected to heat.

These sugars, called "reducing sugars" by chemists, are contained in the cocktails, fruit juices, beer, soft drinks and wines.

The institute says an effective solution for home use is to put as much borax as will dissolve in half a glass of water and apply generously on the affected area. As long as contact with water will not harm the garment, this method is fairly safe because the solution is so mildly akaline that it will affect few colors. The boric acid used for eye washes also is effective.

News From The Public Library

The month of January saw a great many new books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. In fact, the total number added was 300. The greater proportion of this number were adult books. The figures were adult 228 and juvenile 72. Dividing the adult again we find that 100 were books of fiction, 122 were non-fiction and six were reference books.

People often think that the largest part of a library collection is made up of fiction books for light reading, but that is not true of the modern library. Librarians are constantly on the alert to find the book which will fill in a gap in the collection and which will provide information which they know someone will want at some time. Let's take a look at some of the adult non-fiction books added during the past week. First of all there is a beautiful reference book called "Signs and Symbols in Christian Art." This is a book which will appeal to the art student, the minister and those who love beauty in general.

"Furs, Glamorous and Practical" fills a long felt need in telling the purchaser, just what to look for in furs. It is a wonderful buying guide in a field which has been sadly neglected. "Don't Be Afraid" is a book of practical psychology by Edward S. Cowles and should be read by all of those who find this world and its problems terrifying. "The Challenge of Being A Woman" by Helen Sherman was mentioned by a columnist in this paper several weeks ago and we had so many requests for the book that we purchased two copies. Every woman who wants to read a fuller, happier life should read it.

One of the most beautiful books to appear in a long time is "The World of Albert Schweitzer" compiled by Erica Anderson. It is a perfectly lovely book of photographs in black and white of Albert Schweitzer and his work.

A number of new biographies are among the additions of last week. "Gordon of Khartoum" by Lord Elkin is a fascinating picture of a hero of the last century. "R.S.V.P." by Elsa Maxwell was already in our collection, but the requests were no numerous that we ordered additional copies. "Henry Ford" by Roger Burlingame "Hans Christian Anderson" by Rumer Godden, "Alexander Dumas" by Andre Mau rois, "Charles Darwin" by Ruth Moore and "Mahatma Gandhi" are all in a series of new biographies recently published by Knopf and geared to a young adult level.

If you are interested in politics, you will want to read "The Fifth Amendment Today" by Erwin Griswold and "The United States and Argentina" by Arthur P. Whittaker, a most interesting discussion of our foreign relations with Argentina. Two books dealing with the history of our own country are "English People On the Eve of Colonization, 1603-1660" by Wallace Notestine and "Bent's Fort" by David Lavender.

Several books fall into the very practical category. They are "Information Please Almanac for 1955," "Mandl's Television Servicing" and "The New Guide to Intelligent Reducing" by Gaylord Hauser.

Using your public library intelligently and wisely will add much to your ability in all fields. There is hardly any occasion in your life, where consultation with the resources of the Public Library will not help you to deal with it in a more adequate manner. If you are not a registered patron, do not delay longer, but come tomorrow.

Here's a delicious afternoon pick-up. Put a teaspoon of instant coffee and one of instant cocoa into a cup; add ¾ cup boiling water and stir well. Add sugar and cream to taste.

Groom-To-Be Attends Shower For Fiancee

PRATT, Kans., — When Don Stevens' fiancee, Carolyn Kaier of Wichita, became ill with the flu, he substituted for her at a shower given by a group of local women.

He attended the otherwise all-female party, opened the gifts and, as the hostess described it, "graciously stayed through the tea hour and what would have been a reception for Miss Kaier."

New Finishes Add Life To Textiles

MADISON, Wis. — New fabric finishes make clothing and furnishings more glamorous, safer, and longer - lasting.

For example, there is a new crease resistant finish for cottons, water repellent finish for rainwear, and woolens treated for moth resistance with a substance added to rinse water.

One of the newest methods of finishing is by "texturizing," which alters the appearance of a fabric, making possible many glamorous variations.

Margaret Can't Wear Shorts In Tropics

LONDON — Shorts are chic warm weather apparel for most women but not for Princess Margaret.

The British princess, on a two-months visit to the Caribbean, might be inclined to dress informally for the warm climate, but—

"Royal ladies never are seen in shorts at any time," said a Buckingham Palace source firmly.

Nina Underwood Is Entertained

DODSON — Mrs. Clayton Underwood entertained with a surprise birthday dinner at her home honoring her daugher, Nina Sue, on her sixteenth birthday.

Enjoying the occasion with the honoree were Misses Lynn Gates, Margaret Rose Womack, Elizabeth Gilmore, Frankie and Annette Kelly.

Girl Scout News

Troop 42, Mrs. Paul Bauer fourth grade Brownie Scouts at Lida Benton School, found out early in the game how much fun the out of doors in Scouting can be. On the coldest day we've had, last Saturday, you remember, the troop took a wild plum tree to plant at Pine Wood and spent the day doing the things that girls look forward to on their first trip to camp, exploring the grounds, finding the grapevine swings, and hiking to the river to pick up shells and other treasures and to try out the echo that answers their calls from across the river.

Although the ground was frozen, the girls found the first tiny flowers, the bluets, beginning to bloom in the field. Maybe in spite of the old groundhog, spring is not too far off.

The girls made cocoa to go with their nosebag lunches, planted their tree, and enjoyed the sunshine and a big fire for warmth. Mary Katherine Smith expressed the feeling of the group when she said, "I didn't know it could be so much fun to go to camp."

Another group of warmly-dressed Brownies came to camp to plant trees, Troop 54, with Mrs. D. A. Stancil and Mrs. Marjorie Lewis in charge. They, too, enjoyed the usual activities and had no trouble at all keeping warm. Bobbie Gail Hicks and Cynthia Lewis, who had attended day camp last summer, took the troop to visit their favorite haunts and probably worked up a lot of enthusiasm for next summer's camp. Cynthia was chosen to be the Brownie on the program for the annual dinner Wednesday night, telling about day camping for Brownies.

A busy troop that we've meant to tell you about lately is Troop 18, with Mrs. E. R. Smith, better known as "Toby" as leader. Their latest project has been a scrapbook for children in the hospital. Each girl enjoyed making her own page, with a get well wish and a stick or two of peppermint candy attached to make things even more interesting for a young patient.

Recently Troop 18 made a visit to the Coca Cola Bottling Company, with Mrs. J. C. Loftin and Mrs. N. L. Huckabee assisting the leader. The girls were fascinated by the process and gained another insight into a community business.

Like a number of troops, these girls have visited the television station to see what makes the wheels go 'round.

Tuesday is the 45th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Congratulations to that fine organization! If boy scouting hadn't started when it did, maybe girl scouting wouldn't be ready to celebrate its 43rd birthday next month. The Boy Scouts have invited all the Girl Scouts and their parents to attend the court of honor and birthday program Tuesday night at 7:30 at Central Grammar School. Let's try to be there.

Plain Borax Good Drink Spot Remover

Research at The National Institute of Dry Cleaning laboratories in Silver Spring, Md., shows that borax or boric acid will make harmless the sugars in beverages which make brown stains khen subjected to heat.

These sugars, called "reducing sugars" by chemists, are contained in the cocktails, fruit juices, beer, soft drinks and wines.

The institute says an effective solution for home use is to put as much borax as will dissolve in half a glass of water and apply generously on the affected area. As long as contact with water will not harm the garment, this method is fairly safe because the solution is so mildly akaline that it will affect few colors. The boric acid used for eye washes also is effective.

MR. AND MRS. W. D. WILBANKS

The Wilbanks Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilbanks celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently in the home into which they moved following their wedding Jan. 1, 1905, and during the designated hours, more than one hundred friends called to pay their respects and to wish them future happiness.

Yellow chrysanthemums and golden foliage decorated the rooms, and on the refreshment table, the central decor was provided by the flowers.

Mrs. Wilbanks wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums pinned to the shoulder of the becoming ensemble which she chose for the occasion.

The anniversary cake was embossed in white and was surmounted with the numerals "50" in gold.

A guest book, bound in gold, was presided over by the granddaughters, who alternated during the period.

Mrs. L. C. Thomas of Lufkin, Tex., a daughter, and other members of the family, assisted in the lovely courtesies, and mingled among the guests who lingered for pleasant conversation.

Years Don't Mean Age To This Couple

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Robert Baughman is 95, and his wife 92, but don't go calling them an elderly couple.

"I don't think anybody is any older than they feel," said Baughman, who added that he doesn't feel in the least bit too old.

In fact, said Baughman, he's known in his neighborhood as "The Kid."

The Baughmans married in 1931. Each had been widowed and each had eight children during their first marriages.

Mrs. Baughman had to slow down recently because her arthritis started troubling her. "The Kid" did the housework until his wife recovered.

Now, both are back visiting around in homes to give the "younger" folks the benefit of their combined 187 years of experience.

NEW YORK — Automatic decorative stitching now is within the reach of every woman who sews. One sewing machine manufacturer is out with an automatic zig-zag attachment which will fit all slant needle machines and most straight needle models. Until now, the manfuacturer said, such decorative stitching was possible only with automatic sewing machines.

Travel Has Little Effect On Pregnancy

CHICAGO — Travel does not increase the complications of pregnancy, according to the magazine Science Digest.

Dr. Joseph A. Guilbeau, Jr., and his associates at the Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama reported on a study of 1,917 pregant women who traveled 300 miles or more.

Guilbeau said threatened and actual abortions were under 5 per cent, well below the accepted figure of 10 per cent.

But Guilbeau warned women who are threatened with miscarriage symptoms to refrain from long trips for a period of four to six weeks after the symptoms have ended.

Youngsters offered more than 400 name suggestions.

More Women Move Into Jobs As Police

CHICAGO — Two more cities have hired women to free policemen from some of their time-consuming duties.

The Civil Service Assembly reports that Wichita Falls, Tex., and Sacramento, Calif., have hired women for jobs of a public relations nature.

Wichita Falls hired and trained four women in human relations and city geography so that they can answer questions of residents and visitors.

The women also are assigned to the job of handing out parking tickets and checking parking meters.

Dish Makers Rally To Dieter's Aid

PITTSBURGH — A chinaware manufacturer who went on a diet is responsible for the latest aid to the weight conscious — a plate which gives the calorie count of foods.

Murray Miller, president of the Eastern China Co., said every time he pulled up to the table he forgot calorie restrictions. He asked his designers to turn out a plate listing calories in dairy foods, egg dishes, meats and vegetables. The "calorie plate" resulted.

It was displayed during the annual Pittsburgh Glass and Pottery show, an exhibit indicating that the manufacturers are out to please every taste and pocketbook. A single vase adorned with curvaceous mermaids sells for $350. Yet, the housewife can buy a 32-piece dinnerware set for $17.95. Plastic dinnerware sturdy enough to defy the most destructive of children are available; so are delicate stemware needing a feather touch.

Much of the dinnerware is informal, stressing the "come out of the kitchen" idea. Cooking utensils in increasing numbers are made to go from oven or top of stove to table.

Science Fiction Going Feminine

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — A University of Illinois professor believes that science fiction today is "going feminine."

Adrian Janes, old time science fiction enthusiast, said that the "mad scientist" yarns are giving way to a more realistic form of science fiction writing.

The reason, he believes, is more and more women are entering the field, both as writers and readers.

The result, Janes said, is that science fiction characters behave more as individuals, talk more about everyday things and even have grandmothers and families.

This isn't bad, he added but, "a lot of time is taken up with housekeeping that could be used to conquer outer-space."

MR. AND MRS. W. D. WILBANKS

The Wilbanks Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilbanks celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently in the home into which they moved following their wedding Jan. 1, 1905, and during the designated hours, more than one hundred friends called to pay their respects and to wish them future happiness.

Yellow chrysanthemums and golden foliage decorated the rooms, and on the refreshment table, the central decor was provided by the flowers.

Mrs. Wilbanks wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums pinned to the shoulder of the becoming ensemble which she chose for the occasion.

The anniversary cake was embossed in white and was surmounted with the numerals "50" in gold.

A guest book, bound in gold, was presided over by the granddaughters, who alternated during the period.

Mrs. L. C. Thomas of Lufkin, Tex., a daughter, and other members of the family, assisted in the lovely courtesies, and mingled among the guests who lingered for pleasant conversation.

Years Don't Mean Age To This Couple

"I don't think anybody is any older than they feel," said Baughman, who added that he doesn't feel in the least bit too old.

In fact, said Baughman, he's known in his neighborhood as "The Kid."

The Baughmans married in 1931. Each had been widowed and each had eight children during their first marriages.

Mrs. Baughman had to slow down recently because her arthritis started troubling her. "The Kid" did the housework until his wife recovered.

Now, both are back visiting around in homes to give the "younger" folks the benefit of their combined 187 years of experience.

Travel Has Little Effect On Pregnancy

CHICAGO — Travel does not increase the complications of pregnancy, according to the magazine Science Digest.

Dr. Joseph A. Guilbeau, Jr., and his associates at the Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama reported on a study of 1,917 pregant women who traveled 300 miles or more.

Guilbeau said threatened and actual abortions were under 5 per cent, well below the accepted figure of 10 per cent.

But Guilbeau warned women who are threatened with miscarriage symptoms to refrain from long trips for a period of four to six weeks after the symptoms have ended.

It will be called the Chisholm Trail School. The building is believed to be squarely on the old Texas-to-Kansas cattle trail.

More Women Move Into Jobs As Police

CHICAGO — Two more cities have hired women to free policemen from some of their time-consuming duties.

The Civil Service Assembly reports that Wichita Falls, Tex., and Sacramento, Calif., have hired women for jobs of a public relations nature.

Wichita Falls hired and trained four women in human relations and city geography so that they can answer questions of residents and visitors.

The women also are assigned to the job of handing out parking tickets and checking parking meters.

Dish Makers Rally To Dieter's Aid

PITTSBURGH — A chinaware manufacturer who went on a diet is responsible for the latest aid to the weight conscious — a plate which gives the calorie count of foods.

Murray Miller, president of the Eastern China Co., said every time he pulled up to the table he forgot calorie restrictions. He asked his designers to turn out a plate listing calories in dairy foods, egg dishes, meats and vegetables. The "calorie plate" resulted.

It was displayed during the annual Pittsburgh Glass and Pottery show, an exhibit indicating that the manufacturers are out to please every taste and pocketbook. A single vase adorned with curvaceous mermaids sells for $350. Yet, the housewife can buy a 32-piece dinnerware set for $17.95. Plastic dinnerware sturdy enough to defy the most destructive of children are available; so are delicate stemware needing a feather touch.

Much of the dinnerware is informal, stressing the "come out of the kitchen" idea. Cooking utensils in increasing numbers are made to go from oven or top of stove to table.

Science Fiction Going Feminine

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — A University of Illinois professor believes that science fiction today is "going feminine."

Adrian Janes, old time science fiction enthusiast, said that the "mad scientist" yarns are giving way to a more realistic form of science fiction writing.

The reason, he believes, is more and more women are entering the field, both as writers and readers.

The result, Janes said, is that science fiction characters behave more as individuals, talk more about everyday things and even have grandmothers and families.

This isn't bad, he added but, "a lot of time is taken up with housekeeping that could be used to conquer outer-space."

Jonesboro Negro Is Sentenced For Auto Homicide

ARCADIA, Feb. 5 (Special) — Johnny Woodrow Wilson, Jonesboro Negro, plead guilty to negligent homicide here this week in district court and was sentenced to five years at hard labor in the state penitentiary by Judge Enos McClendon.

Wilson was the driver of the pulp wood truck on the night of January 21 when it was hit by a car occupied by newlyweds on the Jonesboro - Danville highway and in which wreck the bride, Mrs. Betty K. Shows, was killed. The Negro was drunk and driving on the wrong side of the road.

He was transferred immediately by Sheriff Davis to Angola to begin serving his sentence. Wilson left the scene of the wreck the night it happened and was picked up later by Sheriff Davis and his deputies. He readily admitted being the driver of the car and that he was drunk at the time. He received only minor bruises and cuts in the accident that took the life of Mrs. Shows and seriously hurt her husband and several others who were following in other cars, all of which piled up in the wreckage.

Wilson was only recently released by Angola authorities after serving another term in the state penal institution.

Southern Pine Lumber Boost Seen In State

The production of Southern Pine lumber in Louisiana has been averaging about half a billion board feet a year, and that figure should be boosted by at least six per cent in 1955 as a result of accelerating demand.

Even higher totals may be tabulated in future years because of some highly important technical developments that hold promise of vast new markets for the industry. This situation holds the close attention of Louisianians since southern Pine is vital to their state's economy.

S. P. Deas, secretary-manager of the Southern Pine Association cites the increasing interest in wood on the part of engineers, architects and other professionals. The concept of timber as an engineering material still is relatively new, he says, but progress has been rapid and the possibilities are almost unlimited.

The potential mass production of glued laminated wood members is one example. These consist of small timbers glued together to make large ones. The glues actually are stronger than the wood itself.

From this process, spans and arches of almost limitless dimensions are emerging — longer and stronger than any that could be cut from the largest tree ever grown. Glued laminated wood, together with the increasingly popular wood trusses, and improved construction systems are the wood producing industries' answer to steel and concrete in the field of heavy engineered construction superior in strength to other species, Southern Pine is well suited for all of these techniques.

In 1955, there will be heavy concentration of Southern Pine production to meet rising demands in the field of residential construction, home modernization and remodeling. Southern Pine has always been in great demand for house framing and it is for it in the home use in the process of expansion, both industrial, commercial and more practical conversion.

"For instance the wood plank-and-beam system, once used for factories, has become one of our most glamorous modern architectural techniques as well as an important outlet for Southern Pine. Applied to the home and other structures, this system simplifies the structure of the entire house and enhances its appearance. Construction cost savings of up to 25 per cent are possible through plank-and-beam.

Trussed roof systems are another method of using wood to achieve important building economies, as well as striking effects. This system makes possible extremely flexible floor plan arrangement since the walls do not rely on partitions for support.

The structural qualities of Southern Pine, in addition to its fine texture, make it most desirable for these improved construction techniques.

With all of the mechanical improvements taking place within the Southern Pine industry, probably even more important developments have occurred at the source—in the forests themselves.

The Southern Pine forests are increasing; the balance of growth to removal is getting more and more favorable every day. The progressive forest management programs of responsible manufacturers are key factors in this improvement, and the know-how painstakingly acquired has been passed on to farmers and small landholders.

The South excels in the vital Tree Farms movement, which has placed the growing of trees on a sustained yield basis, and has substantially reduced the ravages of fire, insects and disease. The South now has more Tree Farms and more Tree Farm acreage than all other sections of the nation combined.

On January 1, 1955, the number of Louisiana Tree Farms was 141 and total Tree Farm acreage in the state, 1,707,725 acres. These figures reflect substantial increases since January 1, 1954, when there were 112 Tree Farms and 1,578,774 Tree Farm acres in Louisiana.

In Louisiana, there are 16,169,000 acres of commercial forestland, which constitutes 56 per cent of the total area of the state.

JONESVILLE, Feb. 5 (Special) —A spurt in applications for drouth food aid during the past week has upped the total number of applications to 960 in Catahoula parish, according to Conrad K. Pierce, parish welfare director.

A total of 889 farmers have received approval for drouth aid, with 71 applications rejected by a committee set up by the Catahoula police jury.

The January issue of commodities in the parish was completed last week when distribution was made to eligible farmers living in ward seven of the parish.

Persons who have applied for the commodities since the first distribution was made, will receive their first products during February.

Survey Made Of Water Program

JENA, Feb. 5 (Special) — Requested by officials and organizations of LaSalle parish, a survey of a watershed development program on Chickasaw creek has been made by Ellis Dawson, of Natchitoches, and filed with the state soil conservation committee, according to information from the Jena office of the Ouachemona Soil Conservation district.

The area under consideration for a watershed development program aimed at control of flash floods, overflow and other related problems, totals some 65,000 acres and would take an estimated five years to complete, it was reported.

By controlling Chickasaw, a tributary to Little River, the project's objective aims at making available for cultivation considerable bottom land which now is subject to overflow and flash floods. This land could be utilized for cropland and pasture, it was pointed out.

The S. C. S. office in Jena reports that the interest of the people in the area being considered on the current project is very good and local participation in the undertaking has been assured.

ARCADIA, Feb. 5 (Special) — Johnny Woodrow Wilson, Jonesboro Negro, plead guilty to negligent homicide here this week in district court and was sentenced to five years at hard labor in the state penitentiary by Judge Enos McClendon.

Wilson was the driver of the pulp wood truck on the night of January 21 when it was hit by a car occupied by newlyweds on the Jonesboro - Danville highway and in which wreck the bride, Mrs. Betty K. Shows, was killed. The Negro was drunk and driving on the wrong side of the road.

He was transferred immediately by Sheriff Davis to Angola to begin serving his sentence. Wilson left the scene of the wreck the night it happened and was picked up later by Sheriff Davis and his deputies. He readily admitted being the driver of the car and that he was drunk at the time. He received only minor bruises and cuts in the accident that took the life of Mrs. Shows and seriously hurt her husband and several others who were following in other cars, all of which piled up in the wreckage.

Wilson was only recently released by Angola authorities after serving another term in the state penal institution.

Southern Pine Lumber Boost Seen In State

The production of Southern Pine lumber in Louisiana has been averaging about half a billion board feet a year, and that figure should be boosted by at least six per cent in 1955 as a result of accelerating demand.

Even higher totals may be tabulated in future years because of some highly important technical developments that hold promise of vast new markets for the industry. This situation holds the close attention of Louisianians since Southern Pine is vital to their state's economy.

S. P. Deas, secretary-manager of the Southern Pine Association, cites the increasing interest in wood on the part of engineers, architects and other professionals. The concept of timber as an engineering material still is relatively new, he says, but progress has been rapid and the possibilities are almost unlimited.

The potential mass production of glued laminated wood members is one example. These consist of small timbers glued together to make large ones. The glues actually are stronger than the wood itself.

From this process, spans and arches of almost limitless dimensions are emerging — longer and stronger than any that could be cut from the largest tree ever grown. Glued laminated wood, together with the increasingly popular wood trusses, and improved construction systems are the wood producing industries' answer to steel and concrete in the field of heavy engineered construction. Superior in strength to other species, Southern Pine is well suited for all of these purposes.

In 1955, there will be heavy concentration of Southern Pine production to meet rising demand in the field of residential construction, home modernization and remodeling. Southern Pine has always been in great demand for house framing, and uses for it in the home are in the process of expansion, with emphasis on economical and more practical construction.

For instance, the wood plank-and-beam system, once used for factories, has become one of our most glamorous modern architectural techniques, as well as an important outlet for Southern Pine. Applied to the floor and ceiling structures, this system simplifies the structure of the entire house and enhances its appearance. Construction cost savings of up to 25 per cent are possible through plank and-beam.

Trussed roof rafters provide another method of using wood to achieve important building economies, as well as striking effects. This system makes possible extremely flexible interior arrangement since the rafters do not rely on partitions for support.

The structural qualities of Southern Pine, in addition to its rich texture, make it most desirable for these improved construction techniques.

With all of the mechanical improvements taking place within the Southern Pine industry, probably even more important developments have occurred at the source—in the forests themselves.

The Southern Pine forests are increasing; the balance of growth to removal is getting more and more favorable every day. The progressive forest management programs of responsible manufacturers are key factors in this improvement, and the know-how painstakingly acquired has been passed on to farmers and small landholders.

The South excels in the vital Tree Farms movement, which has placed the growing of trees on a sustained yield basis, and has substantially reduced the ravages of fire, insects and disease. The South now has more Tree Farms and more Tree Farm acreage than all other sections of the nation combined.

On January 1, 1955, the number of Louisiana Tree Farms was 141 and total Tree Farm acreage in the state, 1,707,725 acres. These figures reflect substantial increases since January 1, 1954, when there were 112 Tree Farms and 1,578,774 Tree Farm acres in Louisiana.

In Louisiana, there are 16,169,000 acres of commercial forestland, which constitutes 56 per cent of the total area of the state.

960 Applications Are Received For Drouth Food Aid

JONESVILLE, Feb. 5 (Special) —A spurt in applications for drouth food aid during the past week has upped the total number of applications to 960 in Catahoula parish, according to Conrad K. Pierce, parish welfare director.

A total of 889 farmers have received approval for drouth aid, with 71 applications rejected by a committee set up by the Catahoula police jury.

Pierce said the 889 persons approved for drouth aid represents a total of 4,063 citizens in Catahoula parish who will benefit from the department of agriculture program.

The January issue of commodities in the parish was completed last week when distribution was made to eligible farmers living in ward seven of the parish.

Persons who have applied for the commodities since the first distribution was made, will receive their first products during February.

Survey Made Of Water Program

JENA, Feb. 5 (Special) — Requested by officials and organizations of LaSalle parish, a survey of a watershed development program on Chickasaw creek has been made by Ellis Dawson, of Natchitoches, and filed with the state soil conservation committee, according to information from the Jena office of the Dugdemona Soil Conservation district.

The area under consideration for a watershed development program, aimed at control of flash floods, overflow and other related problems, totals some 65,000 acres and would take an estimated five years to complete, it was reported.

By controlling Chickasaw, a tributary to Little River, the project's objective aims at making available for cultivation considerable bottom land which now is subject to overflow and flash floods. This land could be utilized for cropland and pasture, it was pointed out.

The S. C. S. office in Jena reports that the interest of the people in the area being considered for the control project is very good and local participation in the undertaking has been assured.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: My husband and I get discouraged because the children are always asking for something. The more we give them, the more they want. What can we do? B. V.

ANSWER: My answer would depend upon the cause of your problem. Is it possible that you and your husband put material things first in your lives? That you, also, are always wanting something new? If so, your first step is to think of Christ. . . to try to pattern your own lives after His. Jesus said, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth. . . . For where your treasure is there will your heart be also." (Matthew 6:19, 21). And, again: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matthew 6:33). If you have not already done so, you and your husband should try to obey this command of the Master. Very often our children's wishes reflect our own.

On the other hand, it is possible that you are sincere Christians, giving love and sacrifice a central place in your lives, and yet indulging your children. Perhaps when they were small you gave them what they asked for. Now their desires are more numerous, and they still expect all they want.

If so, start today to let them know the value of money. Have them earn some of it themselves.

At the same time, try to open their eyes to the great need throughout the world. Have them see that if we are Christians we cannot indulge our every whim, and be blind to the hunger and suffering of others. Awaken them to the realization that true happiness is not brought by things, but by opportunities for service.

(What is your question? Write Billy Graham care of this newspaper.)

Bible Words for Today

PROVERBS 15:27—"He that is greedy of gain troubleth his own house." (American Revised Version)

* * *

Man seems never to have enough of any material substance which he finds useful or which strikes his fancy. He has enough only when he has a little bit more than he now has. The desire to meet one's own reasonable needs and the needs of loved ones dependent upon him is legitimate. But this desire easily turns into a love of things for their own sake or for the sake of mere possession or, worse still, for the sake of control over the lives of others which wealth brings. Even a desire to be the generous prince or the lady bountiful can subtly lead to greed and covetousness. And no greedy, covetous man is happy, for "man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions."

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: My husband and I get discouraged because the children are always asking for something. The more we give them, the more they want. What can we do? B. V.

ANSWER: My answer would depend upon the cause of your problem. Is it possible that you and your husband put material things first in your lives? That you, also, are always wanting something new? If so, your first step is to think of Christ, to try to pattern your own lives after His. Jesus said, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, . . . For where your treasure is there will your heart be also." (Matthew 6:19, 21) And, again: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matthew 6:33) If you have not already done so, you and your husband should try to obey this command of the Master. Very often our children's wishes reflect our own.

On the other hand, it is possible that you are sincere Christians, giving love and scarifice a central place in your lives, and yet indulging your children. Perhaps when they were small you gave them what they asked for. Now their desires are more numerous, and they still expect all they want.

If so, start today to let them know the value of money. Have them earn some of it themselves.

At the same time, try to open their eyes to the great need throughout the world. Have them see that if we are Christians we cannot indulge our every whim, and be blind to the hunger and suffering of others. Awaken them to the realization that true happiness is not brought by things, but by opportunities for service.

(What is your question: Write Billy Graham care of this newspaper.)

Bible Words for Today

PROVERBS 15:27—"He that is greedy of gain troubleth his own house." (American Revised Version)

* * *

Man seems never to have enough of any material substance which he finds useful or which strikes his fancy. He has enough only when he has a little bit more than he now has. The desire to meet one's own reasonable needs and the needs of loved ones dependent upon him is legitimate. But this desire easily turns into a love of things for their own sake or for the sake of mere possession or, worse still, for the sake of control over the lives of others which wealth brings. Even a desire to be the generous prince or the lady bountiful can subtly lead to greed and covetousness. And no greedy, covetous man is happy, for "man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions."

This Is The Month To Care For Roses

As legend runs, the ground hog saw his shadow Wednesday — so, we'll have six weeks more of winter. That will give us six weeks more to do our planting and transplanting.

Garden Jobs

Regardless of the ground hog and his shadow there are garden jobs to do. Start fertilizing all shrubs. I like to wait a little later to feed azaleas and camellias because a late March freeze would kill new growth promoted by the fertilizer. Either 8-8-8 or 5-10-5 is recommended for everything and everything needs a feeding if you want lush green foliage, blooms and healthy plants. Plants that are in good physical condition, go through a drouth better, and are less susceptible to insect and disease damage.

This is the month to plant and transplant roses. Fast growing roses like Radiance can be pruned heavily. Slower growing ones like peace, need only the old, weak and dead wood cut out. If you want to get a big jump ahead of black spot, spray plants and ground with Bordeaux mixture, Z-78, Tri basic copper sulphate, Manzate, Diathone or Fermate. These chemicals can be bought at seed stores and nurseries. Do a good job spraying, getting under the leaves, on stems and the ground. Then mulch. Wait til late to prune climbing roses.

Evergreens can be pruned. Also, late blooming flowering shrubs like crape myrtle and althea. Don't prune early blooming shrubs. You will cut off all blooms.

You can plant gladiolus corms and dahlia tubers this month. Mulch all shrubbery beds with four inches or more of leaves, straw or other mulch. Root fig cuttings. Plant fruit trees. Just plant any shrubs or trees because this is a perfect month.

Ask your nurseryman about Oriental magnolias and crabapples. They are both early spring bloomers and are so lovely. The soulangeana is in bud and the buds are beginning to swell. Three of these planted down the drive will lead guests happily into your house. Crabapples or crepe myrtles will serve the same purpose.

My old fashioned buttercups are blooming against the ground cover of ivy. The picture looks as though the ivy is blooming yellow bulbs. Later when the tops begin to die the ivy will hide the ugliness. It's a nice big place that doesn't have to be mowed too.

One of our hardiest camellias is the Opelousas Pink. Every home owner will like to have this variety because it's a fast grower, profuse bloomer, and you can cut the blossoms with long stems. In the picture is a thirty year old plant that has had continuous pruning. Mrs. Young says to please note her mistake. When the shrub was small, she planted it by her porch, not looking ahead to its possible adult size. Now, she says it is too large to move. The owner prunes this while it is in bloom so her friends can enjoy the long stem blossoms, something unusual in camellias.

Around the House

You mothers know about those bad weather days when the young ones have to be kept indoors. They love water colors, but my! what a mess they make. Here's a suggestion: Mix the colors for Johnny or Mary, using baby food jars or frozen orange juice cans. After you've mixed his paints, set the jars or cans in a muffin tin. Then there will be less chance of spilling. The containers can be thrown away instead of washed.

To keep track of the family rubbers and overshoes, try this trick. Use a snap clothes pin and snap matching rubbers or overshoes together, then store in the closet. You can simplify this even more for the various members of the family by putting each person's name or initials on the snap clothes pin.

When doing the laundry you'll find that blueing is fine to use to neutralize the yellow tint of white fabrics and make them appear white. But — a word of cuation. Be sure to read the label on your blueing to see if it contains iron. If it does, clothes must be thoroughly rinsed to remove the last traces of soap before bluing is added. Otherwise, the soap and the iron in the blueing will combine to form rust spots on the clothes.

Word has come to me that there are plenty of cotton burs, etc. at Central Gin in Mangham, La. It is free to anybody who cares to go and pick it up. This makes good mulch, but should be allowed to rot some before putting it around shrubs or trees.

Roses Resistant To Black Spot

Rose lovers will be encouraged to know that at least a beginning has been made toward breeding roses that will not get black spot. If we could just get rid of this pest, we could all have roses without the slavery of dusting and spraying them all the time. The trouble started at the beginning of this century when the French hybridist, Pernet- Ducher started breeding roses with a wild yellow rose that was very subject to black spot. He and other hybridists did succeed in giving us yellow tea roses but at the price of black spot, too. In Europe, this pest is not as bad as it is in the United States. In the United States, it is worst in the south because of the conditions of great humidity and high temperatures.

In their search for roses resistant to black spot, the plant breeders found that the old single Chinese wild rose that was brought to the south years ago and has run wild in great thickets in some communities seemed almost immune. This rose has often been confused with the Cherokee rose, but it is quite different. It is called Mccartney rose and was introduced into England in 1793. Some of the old plantations in the south had long hedges of it in place of fences. It made such a dense barrier that nothing but a rabbit could get through it, and Brer Rabbit's briar patch is said to have been a jungle of this plant. That gentleman's home must have been a fragrant place indeed because the single white roses with their golden yellow stamens have a strange fragrance on hot summer days.

It will probably not be long until we can buy roses that will not get black spot. In the meantime, there is a very beautiful yellow climber called Mermaid in the rose catalogues. This glorious rose is somewhat different from the climbing roses we know. It was raised by the Paul Family who also produced Paul's Scarlet Climber. Like its parent, our own McCartney rose, the foliage is almost evergreen. The stems are thorny and the foliage very handsome. Unlike our climbers of today, Mermaid does not bloom all at once and then stop. It is late in starting to flower, but it is almost always in bloom from midsummer till frost with bunches of large soft yellow blooms dotted over the plant. The single blossoms are much larger than the white ones of Macartney rose, and the whole plant makes an elegant decoration for a wall or climbing on a support on a house. If you plant it on the south side of your house, it will hold its leaves through all but the coldest winters. Best of all, you will never have much if any, black spot on it.

On the administration building at the Royal Horticulture Society's great test gardens and school at Wisley in England, there is an old specimen of Mermaid that has been the subject of great admiration by all the people who have gone there from all over the world for years. The Royal Horticulture Society was quick to give this rose its coveted Award of Merit in 1917, the year in which the Paul family introduced it.

Garden Club To Develop Better Plants

The Garden Wonders of Bastrop staged the flower show at the Garden Center this week. Mrs. Zollie Meadows of Ruston and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie of Monroe served as judges. In the all blue-ribbon horticulture class, ribbons were awarded to Mrs. Vera White for Gasteria, Mrs. A. G. Frye for Diffenbachia picta, and Mrs. Laura Prestridge for a terrarium planted with small native plants and ferns.

In the arrangement class, first place was awarded to Mrs. Vera White. In a white lacy basket, Mrs. White created an old-fashioned arrangement of narcissus and violets.

Second place was awarded to Mrs. Laura Prestrige for a beautiful dried arrangement. In a dark red vase Mrs. Prestridge arranged tall green okra pods, silver artemisia, and yellow squash peppers. A red garlic "bloom" placed in the focal area.

Third place was awarded to Mrs. A. G. Frye for a horizontal arrangement of yellow daffodils in a yellow - green container.

An important meeting of the Louisiana Society for Horticulture Research was held recently in Lafayette. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. U. B. Evans, Ferriday; 1st vice president, Mrs. Lee Emery, New Orleans; 2nd vice president, Mrs. John Kerper, Pineville; secretary, Mrs. Thomas Bostic, Lafayette; treasurer, Mr. W. B. McMillan, Abbeyville. Board members elected: Mr. A. J. Hodges, Shreveport; Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn, Monroe; Mr. Earl Vallot, Youngsville. The president appointed the following committees: Distribution committee, Mrs. Lee Emery, chairman, Mrs. Norman Jardine and Mrs. Walter Colquitt members. At the meeting, Mr. Ike Nelson was named director of research, and Mrs. Charles Brown, New Orleans, was named historian. Mr. Nelson showed color slides and movies of the many new amaryllis that will be available in future years to the gardeners of Louisiana. These amaryllis and other plants and seeds were collected on his recent trip to South America. The object of the society is to collect and develop new and better plants for Louisiana gardens. If you are interested in becoming a member please contact the Garden Center. Space does not permit describing the new forms and colors of these amaryllis. Of particular interest is the yellow collection. One scientist commended, "This expedition is the greatest thing that has happened in the world of horticulture since the Pierce expedition in 1860." All of the paper - white narcissus are in full bloom. Here is a "different" table arrangement you might like to try. A narcissus "tree." Gather your white narcissus with as long stems as possible. Place in deep water for 2 or 3 hours. Then arrange pyramid fashion on a flat container into a "tree." Place ivy or violet leaves around the base to conceal your needle point holder. Very effective.

Winter is here. Please don't forget to feed and water our wild birds. Birds are a great pleasure in the garden on account of their lovely plumage and cheery melodies. They need protection from their enemies as well as a supply of food and water. In return for hospitality they destroy harmful insects and noxious weeds. The berry - bearing evergreens provide some food and shelter. Birds will come back season after season to places where they can be assured of food and safe homes. During a recent freeze all of the following birds were seen at a feeding station at the same time—Flickers, mocking birds, blue jays, chickadees, red - beilied woodpeckers, brown thrashers, cardinals, golden crowned kinglets and many varieties of sparrows.

PETTICOAT PACKER .....

NEW YORK — Petticoats add glamor to your wardrobe but create a storage problem. One solution is a new plastic "skirt toter." Made of clear vinyl with quilted plastic edging, the holder carries crinolines like a closed umbrella so that they take up a minimum of space. The holder is washable.

The Acting Profession

By BRODERICK CRAWFORD
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, February 5 — We've all read a piece here and there about the "hazards" of the profssion — the acting profession, that is. This is a subject which has been well covered by many performers who like to recite the handicaps, turmoils and problems of standing under the hot lights and making $300,000 a picture — in itself, a "hazard," if ever I heard one.

No. The hazards I'd like to mention are the brass knuckles and the pointy shiva which actors are threatened with because they performed a role which someone somewhere did not like. At the moment I'm portraying Lupo, the chief of the syndicate who has his headquarters in New York City, and whose career has interesting parallels, to such assorted personnel as well known underworld leaders. Although the coincidence springs from the fertile brains of Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse, the authors of the screenplay of "New York Confidential," I am assured by them that there is nothing libelous, ludicrous, or lamentable in the alleged, reported, supposed parallel.

That may be I was told the same thing when I made "All the King's Men," and I understand, although I have nothing by way of proof to offer for it, that reportedly and allegedly, I am mildly "persona non grata" in the sovereign state of Louisiana, which, as history will tell you, was once the bailiwick of Governor and Senator Huey Long.

Edward G. Robinson, after his tremendous performance in "Little Caesar," got a floral wreath in the shape of a horseshoe, which had a strange similarity to the kind of floral tribute gangsters used to pay to the dear deceased and departed in the Chicago gang war days. Significantly, and it may have been a mild remonstrance.

A well known gangster once sent James Cagney a polite "thank you note" for all the enjoyment he got out of watching that sterling actor's performance in "Public Enemy," a story which also had a few parallels to the career of mayhem and violence of the beer baron, as he was called in Newark.

The friends of a dread character who was found shot to death in a hotel lobby telephone booth, called George Raft on the phone a few years after his appearance in a gangster melodrama, and told him in hushed but husky tones that they liked fine his portrayal of their pal, a call which must have sent Mr. Raft a-thinking about some of the "hazards" of the profession.

Dillinger was a Clark Gable fan, as crime history will attest, and it was one of Gable's pictures, "Manhattan Melodrama," which proved to be the lure which brought him to his death. Dillinger's friends had an undying appreciation for Clark Gable's toughness, and one Chicago detective told an MGM executive that he knew that Gable was Dillinger's idol. One wonders what might have happened if John didn't like the metier of Clark's performance.

The Italian embassy remonstrated with Jack Oakie for his razor-keen and buffoon - filled characterization of that arch gangster, Benito Mussolini, in "The Great Dictator," and it can be safely assumed that Mr. Oakie might not have gotten an Italian visa to visit sunny Italy during Mussolini's triumphant bull - dozing until 1943. And Paul Lukas' wonderful characterization of a man who looked, sounded and acted like Von Ribbentrop, Hitler's foreign minister, in "Watch on the Rhine," certainly made him persona non grata to Nazi Germany.

After all, we're actors, and threats and remonstrances, diatribes and unsubtle hints from the public's favorite villains are, in many instances, the highest form of flattery.

After I had finished "Born Yesterday," a Washington, then five percenter, dropped in on the set of a picture I was making. His visit was short and to the point. "My friends," he told me, "said that you were supposed to be makin' like me in that picture about Washington and junk dealers. I never laughed so hard. It was sure funny. Only, Mr. Crawford, did you have to make like I was ungrammatical and with no education?"

At least he didn't threaten to knock my brains out. He just said "Don't do it no more again." And he sounded as if he meant it.

Like its parent, our own McCartney rose, the foliage is almost evergreen. The stems are thorny and the foliage very handsome. Unlike our climbers of today, Mermaid does not bloom all at once and then stop. It is late in starting to flower, but it is almost always in bloom from midsummer till frost with bunches of large soft yellow blooms dotted over the plant. The single blossoms are much larger than the white ones of Macartney rose, and the whole plant makes an elegant decoration for a wall or climbing on a support on a house. If you plant it on the south side of your house, it will hold its leaves through all but the coldest winters. Best of all, you will never have much if any, black spot on it.

On the administration building at the Royal Horticulture Society's great test gardens and school at Wisley in England, there is an old specimen of Mermaid that has been the subject of great admiration by all the people who have gone there from all over the world for years. The Royal Horticulture Society was quick to give this rose its coveted Award of Merit in 1917, the year in which the Paul family introduced it.

The Acting Profession

(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, February 5 — We've all read a piece here and there about the "hazards" of the profssion — the acting profession, that is. This is a subject which has been well covered by many performers who like to recite the handicaps, turmoils and problems of standing under the hot lights and making $300,000 a picture — in itself, a "hazard," if ever I heard one.

No. The hazards I'd like to mention are the brass knuckles and the pointy shiva which actors are threatened with because they performed a role which someone somewhere did not like. At the moment I'm portraying Lupo, the chief of the syndicate who has his headquarters in New York City, and whose career has interesting parallels to such assorted personnel as well known underworld leaders. Although the coincidence springs from the fertile brains of Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse, the authors of the screenplay of "New York Confidential," I am assured by them that there is nothing libelous, ludicrous, or lamentable in the alleged, reported, supposed parallel.

That may be I was told the same thing when I made "All the King's Men," and I understand, although I have nothing by way of proof to offer for it, that reportedly and allegedly, I am mildly "persona non grata" in the sovereign state of Louisiana, which, as history will tell you, was once the bailiwick of Governor and Senator Huey Long.

Edward G. Robinson, after his tremendous performance in "Little Caesar," got a floral wreath in the shape of a horseshoe, which had a strange similarity to the kind of floral tribute gangsters used to pay to the dear deceased and departed in the Chicago gang war days. Significantly, and it may have been a mild remonstrance.

A well known gangster once sent James Cagney a polite "thank you note" for all the enjoyment he got out of watching that sterling actor's performance in "Public Enemy," a story which also had a few parallels to the career of mayhem and violence of the beer baron, as he was called in Newark.

The friends of a dread character who was found shot to death in a hotel lobby telephone booth, called George Raft on the phone a few years after his appearance in a gangster melodrama, and told him in hushed but husky tones that they liked fine his portrayal of their pal,. a call which must have sent Mr. Raft a-thinking about some of the "hazards" of the profession.

Dillinger was a Clark Gable fan, as crime history will attest, and it was one of Gable's pictures, "Manhattan Melodrama," which proved to be the lure which brought him to his death. Dillinger's friends had an undying appreciation for Clark Gable's toughness, and one Chicago detective told an MGM executive that he knew that Gable was Dillinger's idol. One wonders what might have happened if John didn't like the metier of Clark's performance.

The Italian embassy remonstrated with Jack Oakie for his razor-keen and buffoon - filled characterization of that arch gangster, Benito Mussolini, in "The Great Dictator," and it can be safely assumed that Mr. Oakie might not have gotten an Italian visa to visit sunny Italy during Mussolini's triumphant bull - dozing until 1943. And Paul Lukas' wonderful characterization of a man who looked, sounded and acted like Von Ribbentrop, Hitler's foreign minister, in "Watch on the Rhine," certainly made him persona non grata to Nazi Germany.

After all, we're actors, and threats and remonstrances, diatribes and unsubtle hints from the public's favorite villains are, in many instances, the highest form of flattery.

After I had finished "Born Yesterday," a Washington, then five percenter, dropped in on the set of a picture I was making. His visit was short and to the point. "My friends," he told me, "said that you were supposed to be makin' like me in that picture about Washington and junk dealers. I never laughed so hard. It was sure funny. Oney, Mr. Crawford, did you have to make like I was ungrammatical and with no education?"

At least he didn't threaten to knock my brains out. He just said, "Don't do it no more again." And he sounded as if he meant it.

Garden Center Notes

Garden Club To Develop Better Plants

The Garden Wonders of Bastrop staged the flower show at the Garden Center this week. Mrs. Zollie Meadows of Ruston and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie of Monroe served as judges. In the all blue-ribbon horticulture class, ribbons were awarded to Mrs. Vera White for Gasteria, Mrs. A. G. Frye for Diffenbachia picta, and Mrs. Laura Prestridge for a terranium planted with small native plants and ferns.

In the arrangement class, first place was awarded to Mrs. Vera White. In a white lacy basket, Mrs. White created an old-fashioned arrangement of narcissus and violets.

Second place was awarded to Mrs. Laura Prestrige for a beautiful dried arrangement. In a dark red vase Mrs. Prestridge arranged tall green okra pods, silver artemisia, and yellow squash peppers. A red garlic "bloom" placed in the focal area.

Third place was awarded to Mrs. A. G. Frye for a horizontal arrangement of yellow daffodils in a yellow - green container.

An important meeting of the Louisiana Society for Horticulture Research was held recently in Lafayette. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. U. B. Evans, Ferriday; 1st vice president, Mrs. Lee Emery, New Orleans; 2nd vice president, Mrs. John Kerper, Pineville; secretary, Mrs. Thomas Bostic, Lafayette; treasurer, Mr. W. B. McMillan, Abbeyville. Board members elected: Mr. A. J. Hodges, Shreveport; Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn, Monroe; Mr. Earl Vallot, Youngsville. The president appointed the following committees: Distribution committee, Mrs. Lee Emery, chairman, Mrs. D. V. Applegate and Mrs. Thomas Bostic, members. Membership committee: Mrs. John Kerper, chairman, Mrs. Norman Jardine and Mrs. Walter Colquitt members. At the meeting, Mr. Ike Nelson was named director of research, and Mrs. Charles Brown, New Orleans, was named historian. Mr. Nelson showed color slides and movies of the many new amaryllis that will be available in future years to the gardeners of Louisiana. These amaryllis and other plants and seeds were collected on his recent trip to South America. The object of the society is to collect and develop new and better plants for Louisiana gardens. If you are interested in becoming a member please contact the Garden Center. Space does not permit describing the new forms and colors of these amaryllis. Of particular interest is the yellow collection. One scientist commended, "This expedition is the greatest thing that has happened in the world of horticulture since the Pierce expedition in 1860." All of the paper - white narcissus are in full bloom. Here is a "different" table arrangement you might like to try. A narcissus "tree." Gather your white narcissus with as long stems as possible. Place in deep water for 2 or 3 hours. Then arrange pyramid fashion on a flat container into a "tree." Place ivy or violet leaves around the base to conceal your needle point holder. Very effective.

Winter is here. Please don't forget to feed and water our wild birds. Birds are a great pleasure in the garden on account of their lovely plumage and cheery melodies. They need protection from their enemies as well as a supply of food and water. In return for hospitality they destroy harmful insects and noxious weeds. The berry - bearing evergreens provide some food and shelter. Birds will come back season after season to places where they can be assured of food and safe homes. During a recent freeze all of the following birds were seen at a feeding station at the same time—Flickers, mocking birds, blue jays, chickadees, red - bellied woodpeckers, brown thrashers, cardinals, golden crowned kinglets and many varieties of sparrows.

PETTICOAT PACKER .....

NEW YORK — Petticoats add glamor to your wardrobe but create a storage problem. One solution is a new plastic "skirt toter." Made of clear vinyl with quilted plastic edging, the holder carries crinolines like a closed umbrella so that they take up a minimum of space. The holder is washable.

Before standard time was adopted in the United States in 1883 there was a difference in time of five seconds between the two ends of the Brooklyn Bridge.

However, he found that when their other troubles were overcome, the sex problems vanished. Our booklet, "Using the Facts of Married Love," tells more about problems. Answer to Question No. 2

2. Decidedly not. Teenagers sometimes develop social problems when their "dates" fail to see eye to eye with one person. Dr. H. [illegible] says that one of the chief questions to ask a person is what he likes to do in his leisure hours. Next questions are about home and tension. Bashfulness and inferiority cause blemishes to make them worse.

3. President Wilma L. Vick, Colorado State College of Education, Greeley, Colo., in her book, "Educating Our Daughters," calls the "Double-Career Dilemma" — when a mother wakes up and finds that Mary, Jean, and John have married and gone to live across the country or in Timbuctoo. Dr. White urges that mothers devote time beforehand to developing interests socially and club work, education, and making friends.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

The best dowry a bride can bring to her marriage is fine health and a good sense of humor.

Health And Good Humor Are Bride's Best Dowry

Marriage today seems to be much more a partnership than it was years ago, but it is more complex in many ways. Even frozen vegetables, electric washing machines and stoves, detergents and all of the fancy aids to housekeeping, do not make up for the accelerated pace at which we live. They only make it possible.

Then, too, in years gone by more women in the home had help in taking care of their houses and their children. Service was not so expensive and that was the day when Grandmothers more often lived with their children, the day of larger houses.

Beside all this, while the fact that marriage is more a partnership, gives us great benefits and compensations in happiness, it also brings us penalties.

Many Talents

A wife today is supposed to be efficient and clever in making the budget work. She shares in her husband's plans for the future and is a part of his sports and hobbies and leisure activities to some extent at least. Both she and her husband enter into the civic programs of their community. If her husband and children are to find her interesting she must be well informed about the world in which she lives as well as about nutrition and child psychology.

There are two aids which will make this possible—one, fine health, and the other, a sense of humor. With these two you will be able to succeed at several careers wrapped up as one, to be the emotional stabilizer, to smooth the rough edges of living for your family, with understanding, warmth and humor.

If a woman is handicapped by fatigue which means poor emotional balance and irritability she is beaten before she starts.

Great Strain

The chronically, though not seriously ill woman, places a great strain on the family budget, just when the young couple are fighting for a financial foothold.

The best dowry a bride can bring to her marriage is fine health and a good sense of humor. The latter will make daily hectic times which happen in every family, funny rather than irritating, and bubbling vitality breeds graciousness, tolerance and an easy going temperament.

LIFE IN THE ARCTIC

A Kayak—6

Here is Huka in a kayak, a small boat used for seal hunting and fishing. It is made of skins stretched over a bone frame and oiled so that it will be waterproof. It turns over easily but it will not sink.

1. With crayon or paint you can paint the decorations on the kayak in bright colors. Huka's face is a deep tan with rosy cheeks from the cold air. His hat and coat may be brown with some white fur around the face.

2. Use white library paste to mount the picture smoothly on stiff paper. Cut it out carefully and fold the kayak on dotted lines as shown. Paste the ends of the Kayak together. Then paste the front and back of Huka together as far down as the waist and slip him into the boat with his paddle over the side.

3. Spread the bottom of the boat so it sits flat as in the small picture. Put a piece of wax paper under it and it will float on water. Now you have a complete Eskimo group. If you set up all the figures on a white cloth it will seem as if they are all up at the North Pole, having fun in the snow.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

The best dowry a bride can bring to her marriage is fine health and a good sense of humor.

Health And Good Humor Are Bride's Best Dowry

Marriage today seems to be much more a partnership than it was years ago, but it is more complex in many ways. Even frozen vegetables, electric washing machines and stoves, detergents and all of the fancy aids to housekeeping, do not make up for the accelerated pace at which we live. They only make it possible.

Then, too, in years gone by more women in the home had help in taking care of their houses and their children. Service was not so expensive and that was the day when Grandmothers more often lived with their children, the day of larger houses.

Beside all this, while the fact that marriage is more a partnership, gives us great benefits and compensations in happiness, it also brings us penalties.

Many Talents

A wife today is supposed to be efficient and clever in making the budget work. She shares in her husband's plans for the future and is a part of his sports and hobbies and leisure activities to some extent at least. Both she and her husband enter into the civic programs of their community. If her husband and children are to find her interesting she must be well informed about the world in which she lives as well as about nutrition and child psychology.

There are two aids which will make this possible—one, fine health, and the other, a sense of humor. With these two you will be able to succeed at several careers wrapped up as one, to be the emotional stabilizer, to smooth the rough edges of living for your family, with understanding, warmth and humor.

If a woman is handicapped by fatigue which means poor emotional balance and irritability she is beaten before she starts.

Great Strain

The chronically, though not seriously ill woman, places a great strain on the family budget, just when the young couple are fighting for a financial foothold.

The best dowry a bride can bring to her marriage is fine health and a good sense of humor. The latter will make daily hectic times which happen in every family, funny rather than irritating, and bubbling vitality breeds graciousness, tolerance and an easy going temperament.

Negro Arrested On Small Theft Charge

Herman Allen, Negro, of Monroe, was being held in city jail here yesterday on a charge of theft of less than $20, detectives reported.

Allen was arrested about 7 p.m. Friday in Hogan's Grocery at 800 Jackson street after he allegedly attempted to steal a carton of cigarettes from the store.

H. C. Hogan, owner of the store, and a bystander held the Negro until the detectives could arrive to take him into custody.

LIFE IN THE ARCTIC

A Kayak—6

Here is Huka in a kayak, a small boat used for seal hunting and fishing. It is made of skins stretched over a bone frame and oiled so that it will be waterproof. It turns over easily but it will not sink.

1. With crayon or paint you can paint the decorations on the kayak in bright colors. Huka's face is a deep tan with rosy cheeks from the cold air. His hat and coat may be brown with some white fur around the face.

2. Use white library paste to mount the picture smoothly on stiff paper. Cut it out carefully and fold the kayak on dotted lines as shown. Paste the ends of the Kayak together. Then paste the front and back of Huka together as far down as the waist and slip him into the boat with his paddle over the side.

3. Spread the bottom of the boat so it sits flat as in the small picture. Put a piece of wax paper under it and it will float on water. Now you have a complete Eskimo group. If you set up all the figures on a white cloth it will seem as if they are all up at the North Pole, having fun in the snow.

Mexico's Monetary Reserves Increase

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5 —UP— Mexcio's gold and dollar reserves increased by $17 million in January, treasury ministry sources reported Friday.

They estimated the total monetary reserve, backing the peso, at $2,222,000,000, the highest figure since devaluation of the peso last April.

The reserve was only $20 million less than it was in January 1954, when the flight of capital which brought on the peso's collapse started.

Economic observers pointed out, however, that the reserve had almost doubled itself since the post-devaluation low.

'Bridges Of Toko-Ri' Now Brought To Screen

One of the truly great war stories of our times, James A. Michener's stirring tale of the navy's jet flyers in the Korean holocaust, "The Bridges At Toko-ri," has been made into a powerful and dynamic motion picture. Due to open soon at the Paramount Theatre, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" boasts a starring cast headed by William Holden, Grace Kelly, Fredric March and Micky Rooney with Robert Strauss, Charles McGraw and Keiko Awaji.

Besides these outstanding players, the film, lensed in color by Technicolor, contains an additional star — the aerial photography. Filmed on location against a background of the stark Korean terrain and on the shiny decks of an aircraft carrier off the coast of that bloody peninsula, the camera was constantly trained on the working of our fighting navy airmen in action. The result is reportedly the most stirring sequence of aerial photography ever flashed on a motion picture screen.

Produced by William Perlberg and George Seaton and directed by Mark Robson, the story related in "The Bridges At Toko-ri" is that of the valor and heroism displayed by the navy carrier - based jet pilots and the helicopter rescue teams who wish them out of the icy seas or scoop them up from behind enemy lines when the jets are downed. It is also the personal story of the admiral, Fredric March, who must stand by as he sends his young pilots out on their deadly mission, and it is the story of one such, Lt. William Holden, whose heroism is a burning tribute to America's fighting men.

Although its frame is the Korean War, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" is not any more a war film than it is a moving and dramatic love story. Integrated throughout its jarring action is spun a warm and human love story between Holden and his wife, Grace Kelly, who has traveled from the States to Tokyo to be by her man's side during his infrequent leaves.

How the terror of war works its hardship on the men who do the fighting and those who stay at home is realistically related in "The Bridges At Toko-ri." So human a story as written by James A. Michener certainly deserved the superb treatment given to it by the talented gentlemen from Paramount. It emerges as a powerful and unusual film that advance audiences and critics alike have been hailing as one of the all time great. All in all it emerges as the type of cinema entertainment that will meet with the approval of all kinds of movie fans.

'Green Fire' Is Story Of Search For Emerald Mine

A drama of adventure and romance played against an unusual setting comes to the Jim Theatre this week with the showing of M-G-M's "Green Fire." Filmed in CinemaScope and color, this exciting story of the search for emeralds, rarest of all jewels, stars Stewart Granger, Grace Kelly, Paul Douglas and John Ericson.

It was produced by Armand Deutsch and was directed by Andrew Morton, co-director of the celebrated "King Solomon's Mines"

Among the action-filled story's thrills are a flood that threatens to wipe out an entire coffee plantation, an attack by bandits who take refuge in a fishing village built on stilts, the narrow escape from death by Granger when he falls prey to a jungle jaguar, and a spectacular mountain slide that destroys a fortune in emeralds.

Granger's new characterization as a man who attempts to operate a deserted emerald mine adds another two-fisted portrait to such of his adventure roles as those in "All the Brothers Were Valiant" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," and follows on his hit in "Beau Brummell."

Mexico's Monetary Reserves Increase

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5 —UP— Mexcio's gold and dollar reserves increased by $17 million in January, treasury ministry sources reported Friday.

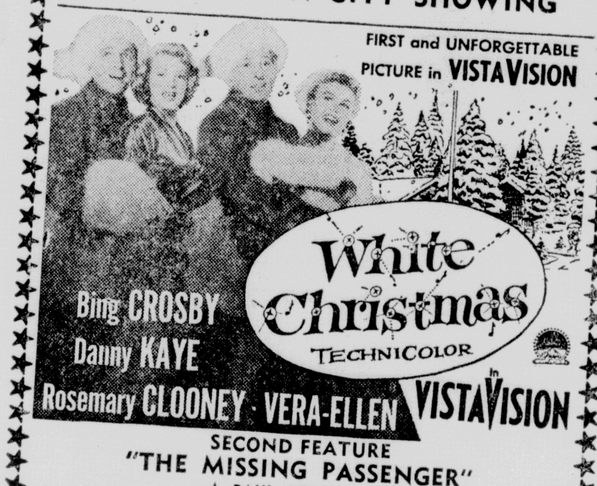

They estimated the total monetary reserve, backing the peso, at $2,222,000,000, the highest figure since devaluation of the peso last April.

The reserve was only $20 million less than it was in January 1954, when the flight of capital which brought on the peso's collapse started.

Economic observers pointed out, however, that the reserve had almost doubled itself since the post-devaluation low.

'Bridges Of Toko-Ri' Now Brought To Screen

One of the truly great war stories of our times, James A. Michener's stirring tale of the navy's jet flyers in the Korean holocaust, "The Bridges At Toko-ri," has been made into a powerful and dynamic motion picture. Due to open soon at the Paramount Theatre, "The Bridges At Toko-ri" boasts a starring cast headed by William Holden, Grace Kelly, Fredric March and Micky Rooney with Robert Strauss, Charles McGraw and Keiko Awaji.

Besides these outstanding players, the film, lensed in color by Technicolor, contains an additional star — the aerial photography. Filmed on location against a background of the stark Korean terrain and on the shiny decks of an aircraft carrier off the coast of that bloody peninsula, the camera was constantly trained on the working of our fighting navy airmen in action. St. Francis Hospital To Be Dedicated Today

The new $2,500,000 St. Francis Hospital building, begun more than two years ago, will be formally dedicated at 2 p.m. today at the hospital.

With the building originally scheduled to be six stories high, work on the hospital began in January, 1953, at a contract price of $1,987,000. Before it was completed, however, a seventh floor was added and this, with furnishings and equipment, brought the total cost to $2,500,000.

HOSPITAL STAFF HEADS—Dr. Frank P. Rizzo, chief of staff of St. Francis Hospital, and Dr. J. W. Cummins, vice-chief of staff, are shown here going over details on the formal dedication of the new $2,500,000 hospital building, scheduled for this afternoon.

An inspection of the new building will be made following the dedication, and several prominent Monroe officials, representing various groups, will be present.

Among these are Claude Harrison, representing Governor Robert F. Kennon; Mayor John Coon, Monroe; Mayor J. Allen Norris, West Monroe; Congressman Otto E. Passman, James A. Noe; Murray Hudson, hospital advisory board; A. E. Montgomery, president of the Police Jury; Dr. J. E. Walsworth representing the hospital staff; and Bishop Charles P. Greco, Bishop of Alexandria.

Bishop Greco will officiate at the blessing and dedication of the new hospital building, and Dr. Frank P. Rizzo, Chief Of Staff of the hospital, will preside over the dedicatory program.

The dedicatory address will be given by Dr. Alton Oschner, of the Alton Oschner Medical Foundation in New Orleans.

Presentation of the new building will be by Merle Padgett, architect; M. G. Elliot, Southeastern Construction Co. of Jackson, and Mother Marie Gertrude, administrator of St. Francis Hospital.

The hospital, as it now stands, has twelve outstanding new features in its 92,400 square feet of floor space, in addition to some 100 more beds than were in the old hospital, which was razed to make way for the new one. The hospital now has, counting the nursing school building, 300 beds for patients.

Year-round air conditioning in all patients rooms; piped oxygen to every room, eliminating oxygen tanks in the rooms; two-way communication system from the room to the nursing station on each floor; a surgical recovery room; a telephone in each room; and private or adjoining bathroom facilities in every room.

In addition there will be a modern cafeteria for the public, as well as visitors and employees; a gift shop in the lobby operated by the St. Francis Auxiliary; a visual doctor's call system, showing in all parts of the hospital at the same time; a retiring room for patients' families in case of death or serious injury; a doctor's library, and an auditorium for necessary hospital meetings.

Modern in every way, the hospital is laid out to provide the maximum efficiency in all departments.

On the first floor will be most of the business section of the hospital including the administration and business office, the admitting office, the chaplain's office, the record room, the board and consultation meeting room, the doctor's library, a retiring room, the gift shop, the cafeteria, and the laboratories and blood bank.

The second floor will have rooms for surgery, the emergency room, the X-Ray room, and the central supply room. The third, fifth and sixth floors will be patients' rooms and the fourth floor will have the obstetrical room and patients' rooms.

The seventh floor is as yet unfurnished, but will eventually provide space for an additional 40 beds, according to hospital officials.

On a portion of the roof will be tiled promenade for convalescing patients, while the remainder is a flat tar and gravel bonded roof.

The hospital itself has exterior walls of masonry and hollow tile, with reinforced concrete construction, including concrete floors with slabs and joists throughout.

All corridor floors and operating room floors are finished with either terrazzo or ceramic tile, and all other floors with plastic flooring.

Interior walls are constructed of hollow tile with smooth plaster finish except in operating rooms, which will have ceramic glazed tile walls. The ceilings throughout the building will be acoustic and all windows are awning type aluminum.

The second floor, the operating section of the hospital will have four major and four minor operating rooms, the emergency operating room, and cystology, radiology central sterile supply, observation and recovery ward, and all pertinent adjunct facilities.

The staff of the hospital will be headed by Dr. Rizzo, with Dr. J. W. Cummins as vice-chief of staff and Dr. W. B. Liles as secretary.

Staffing the hospital will be the following doctors:

Wilds, Felix J. Willey, Irving Wolff, and C. T. Yancy.

On the inactive staff are B. M. McKoin and Dewitt T. Milam. One of the physicians on the staff, Jack T. Johnson is now in armed forces.

DR. J. E. WALSWORTH, a 1914 graduate of the Vanderbilt school of medicine and a member of the American College of Surgeons, will represent the St. Francis Hospital staff on the dedicatory program for the new $2,500,000 hospital building this afternoon.

TO OFFICIATE—The Most Rev. Charles P. Greco, Bishop of Alexandria, will officiate at the blessing and dedication of the new St. Francis Hospital Sunday.

FORMER CHIEFS OF STAFF—These four men are all former chiefs-of-staff of St. Francis Hospital in Monroe, which will dedicate a new $2,500,000 building in ceremonies this afternoon. Distinctive Garb Worn By Sisters

The distinctive habit of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais, little known in the United States outside of Louisiana, is said to have been designed by Monseigneur Parisis, Bishop of Arras, in 1853 when, through his support and encouragement the congregation was formed.

A guimpe of white linen is worn; it comes down to a medium depth over the chest. Around the head is a band of the same linen. Under a veil of black voile is fastened another band of white linen hanging down on each side of the head.

In choir and on the street they wear another veil of lighter material. On duty, in the hospitals, the Sisters are dressed in white.

Pharmacy Is Art Of Ancient Origin

Pharmacy, or the art of selecting, extracting, preparing and compounding medicines from vegetable, animal and mineral substances is an acquirement which must have been almost as ancient as man himself on the earth.

The Greek word, "pharmakeia," the original of our "pharmacy," had a rather mixed history in its native language. It does not seem to have exactly deteriorated, as words in all languages have a habit of doing, for from the earliest times it was used concurrently to describe the preparation of medicines and, through its association with drugs and poisons and the production of philtres, as equivalent to sorcery and witchcraft.

The word "pharmakoi" in later times came to be used for the criminals who were sacrificed for the benefit of communities.

It is remarkable and unusual for a word that has once fallen as this one did to recover its respectable position again.

Story Of Franciscan Nuns Is Traced Back To Revolution Days

Il Poverello, the gentle St. Francis of Assisi; the queenly and courageous St. Elizabeth of Hungary, the terrorists of the French Revolution and a young French hospital chaplain all had a hand in the formation of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais, the religious congregation in charge of Monroe's new hospital.

Although, as a congregation with its present rule, the Franciscan Sisters of Calais commemorate April 10, 1854, as the date on which their foundation was recognized by imperial decree, the religious trace their beginning to the time that the Franciscan Third Order swept Europe as a great social and philosophical movement which changed the course of history.

Friars In France

St. Francis, himself named for France and possessed of a particular love for the French, sent Brother Pacificus to establish the Friars Minor in that land. As his labors bore fruit the Third Order of St. Francis likewise spread, attracting as many women as it did men.

In Hungary, St. Elizabeth, a Franciscan tertiary, had gathered around her pious young women to live in accord with the Third Order rule and conduct works of charity. This example inspired particularly the women of northern France who founded a number of convents and hospitals under the Franciscan Third Order rule. After the Thirty Years' war their numbers ran into the thousands, 70 communities are recorded as existing in Flanders alone.

Convents

These convents were independent of each other with slight variations in their rule, habits and government although all of them followed the Third Order rule, embracing poverty, devoting themselves to the most humble works of charity, disdaining the standards of the world while, at the same time, living active lives of good works in the world.

Eventually all of them—the Grey Sisters, the White Sisters, the Sisters of the Cord, the Sisters of St. Francis, the Black Sisters, and all the others—were placed under the direction of the Vicar Provincial for France of the Franciscan First Order.

In more than 60 hospitals and other institutions these Sisters operated throughout the north of France in the 18th century. They cared for the sick, soldiers wounded in battle, infirm aged people, orphans and other afflicted. The Diocese of Arras was especially blessed with the number of hospitals and communities it had of the Franciscan Sisters of the Third Order.

Revolutions Strikes

Then the revolution struck, in which the French bourgeoisie, intellectuals and terrorists looted the Church. The vast work of charity, education, devotion and spreading of Christian ideals was paralyzed. With many of their convents confiscated, most of the religious had to become secularized.

After the terror, when the looting had been finished, six of the Franciscan convents were restored. All of them had been founded in the 15th century except that at Arras, founded in 1556. As their life of devotion and charity flowed once more, a seventh convent was founded in 1808 at Calais with the Sisters put in charge of the city hospital.

Father Adolphe Duchenne, a young priest, was appointed chaplain of the Calais hospital in 1840. He found Mother Louise, a capable and tireless Sister, imbued with Franciscan ideals, the superior of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais.

Both the Mother Superior and the chaplain saw how hampered was the work of the Sisters and how weakened was the condition of other convents, too, by the lack of coordination, by their isolation from all other communities.

Independence

The independence of each convent militated against expansion and stability and, especially in the case of the Calais community, meant of a precarious and insecure basis on which to build for the future. Union or some form of consolidation of all the Franciscan communities of that section seemed a most desirable goal to both of them.

Father Duchenne was a marvelous organizer as well as a pious and devoted priest, willing to sacrifice all his energies to the work to be done. Advised and aided by Mother Louise, he set about the task of uniting the convents. In 1851 he obtained from the Franciscan provincial letters of affiliation with the Capuchin Fathers for the convents.

At once he had the support of Monseigneur Parisis, Bishop of Arras, who quickly saw the need for union of the Franciscan Sister and the opportunities for much greater works that such a consolidation would afford. He appointed the chaplain a Canon of his Cathedral, thus giving him greater prestige. Abbe de la Tour d'Auvergne, the vicar general, also gave his enthusiastic support and cooperation.

Unification

A few months of difficult journeys to the various convents by Canon Duchenne, accompanied by a great deal of correspondence and periodic reports to the Bishop, saw the first stage brought to a successful conclusion. Seven convents of the Diocese of Arras had agreed to the union.

It was in February, 1853 that Bishop Parisis found the plan so far advanced that he was able to bestow his official sanction of the congregation being formed. Quickly a uniform rule was established and the Bishop himself chose the habit the Sisters now wear.

Fourteen months later came the imperial recognition of the congregation. Mother Louise was chosen the first Mother-General. The novitiate was established at Calais, the motherhouse of the new institute.

Approved By Pope

Mother Frances St. John was Mother-General and mistress of novices in 1867. In that year Canon Duchenne and she went to Rome to present the constitutions of the congregation to the Holy See for approval. A decree of praise was granted. The congregation was given canonical existence by a solemn decree of approval by the Holy See in 1783 and Canon Duchenne was honored for his work by being made a member of the Papal household.

When the devoted and energetic priest died Jan. 15, 1881, the Franciscan Sisters of Calais had 40 convents and more than 500 religious. Their work of caring for the sick and afflicted had spread to far corners of Europe and many institutions other than their hospitals were under the Sisters' care. They operated homes for incurables, institutes for deaf mutes, orphanages, schools and other institutions for the alleviation of the world's distress. They also had instituted a program of nursing the sick in their homes.

Congregation Grows

The congregation spread to Belgium in 1868 and soon afterward to Holland. In 1875 Portugal invited them to staff hospitals and homes. Before long there were convents of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais in England, Ireland, Constantinople, Arabia, Ethiopia, Madagascar and the Argentine.

According to latest available reports the congregation has more than 1,000 religious engaged in works of charity in various parts of the world.

The Sisters established their first foundation in America with St. Francis' sanitarium at Monroe, La., in 1911. The hospital was the dream of Father L. Enaut, pastor of St. Matthew's Church, who gave the ground for the hospital and all of his funds. It was under way when Father Mahe was pastor and completed during the pastorate of Rt. Rev. Msgr. Nicholas F. Vandegaer.

The second house in the United States was Our Lady of the Lake sanitarium at Baton Rouge, dedicated by the late Archbishop John W. Shaw in 1923.

DISCUSS COMPLETION—Mother Marie Gertrude, administrator of St. Francis Hospital, and S. E. Burgoyne, business director, discuss the final completion of the new St. Francis Hospital which will be dedicated Sunday.

SUPERIOR GENERAL—Most Honorable Mother Marguerite de la Croix of Desvres, France, is superior general of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais, who for more than 40 years have operated St. Francis Hospital in Monroe and who were the guiding spirits behind its founding.

Il Poverello, the gentle St. Francis of Assisi; the queenly and courageous St. Elizabeth of Hungary, the terrorists of the French Revolution and a young French hospital chaplain all had a hand in the formation of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais, the religious congregation in charge of Monroe's new hospital.

Although, as a congregation with its present rule, the Franciscan Sisters of Calais commemorate April 10, 1854, as the date on which their foundation was recognized by imperial decree, the religious trace their beginning to the time that the Franciscan Third Order swept Europe as a great social and philosophical movement which changed the course of history.

Friars In France

St. Francis, himself named for France and possessed of a particular love for the French, sent Brother Pacificus to establish the Friars Minor in that land. As his labors bore fruit the Third Order of St. Francis likewise spread, attracting as many women as it did men.

In Hungary, St. Elizabeth, a Franciscan tertiary, had gathered around her pious young women to live in accord with the Third Order rule and conduct works of charity. This example inspired particularly the women of northern France who founded a number of convents and hospitals under the Franciscan Third Order rule. After the Thirty Years' war their numbers ran into the thousands, 70 communities are recorded as existing in Flanders alone.

Convents

These convents were independent of each other with slight variations in their rule, habits and government although all of them followed the Third Order rule, embracing poverty, devoting themselves to the most humble works of charity, disdaining the standards of the world while, at the same time, living active lives of good works in the world.

Eventually all of them—the Grey Sisters, the White Sisters, the Sisters of the Cord, the Sisters of St. Francis, the Black Sisters, and all the others—were placed under the direction of the Vicar Provincial for France of the Franciscan First Order.

In more than 60 hospitals and other institutions these Sisters operated throughout the north of France in the 18th century. They cared for the sick, soldiers wounded in battle, infirm aged people, orphans and other afflicted. The Diocese of Arras was especially blessed with the number of hospitals and communities it had of the Franciscan Sisters of the Third Order.

Revolutions Strikes

Then the revolution struck, in which the French bourgeoisie, intellectuals and terrorists looted the Church. The vast work of charity, education, devotion and spreading of Christian ideals was paralyzed. With many of their convents confiscated, most of the religious had to become secularized.

After the terror, when the looting had been finished, six of the Franciscan convents were restored. All of them had been founded in the 15th century except that at Arras, founded in 1556. As their life of devotion and charity flowed once more, a seventh convent was founded in 1808 at Calais with the Sisters put in charge of the city hospital.

Father Adolphe Duchenne, a young priest, was appointed chaplain of the Calais hospital in 1840. He found Mother Louise, a capable and tireless Sister, imbued with Franciscan ideals, the superior of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais.

Both the Mother Superior and the chaplain saw how hampered was the work of the Sisters and how weakened was the condition of other convents, too, by their isolation of coordination, by their isolation from all other communities.

Independence

The independence of each convent militated against expansion and stability and, especially in the case of the Calais community, meant of a precarious and insecure basis on which to build for the future. Union or some form of consolidation of all the Franciscan communities of that section seemed a most desirable goal to both of them.

Father Duchenne was a marvelous organizer as well as a pious and devoted priest, willing to sacrifice all his energies to the work to be done. Advised and aided by Mother Louise, he set about the task of uniting the convents. In 1851 he obtained from the Franciscan provincial letters of affiliation with the Capuchin Fathers for the convents.

At once he had the support of Monseigneur Parisis, Bishop of Arras, who quickly saw the need for union of the Franciscan Sister and the opportunities for much greater works that such a consolidation would afford. He appointed the chaplain a Canon of his Cathedral, thus giving him greater prestige. Abbe de la Tour d'Auvergne, the vicar general, also gave his enthusiastic support and cooperation.

Unification

A few months of difficult journeys to the various convents by Canon Duchenne, accompanied by a great deal of correspondence and periodic reports to the Bishop, saw the first stage brought to a successful conclusion. Seven convents of the Diocese of Arras had agreed to the union.

It was in February, 1853, that Bishop Parisis found the plan so far advanced that he was able to bestow his official sanction of the congregation being formed. Quickly a uniform rule was established and the Bishop himself chose the habit the Sisters now wear.

Fourteen months later came the imperial recognition of the congregation. Mother Louise was chosen the first Mother-General. The novitiate was established at Calais, the motherhouse of the new institute.

Approved By Pope

Mother Frances St. John was Mother-General and mistress of novices in 1867. In that year Canon Duchenne and she went to Rome to present the constitutions of the congregation to the Holy See for approval. A decree of praise was granted. The congregation was given canonical existence by a solemn decree of approval by the Holy See in 1783 and Canon Duchenne was honored for his work by being made a member of the Papal household.

When the devoted and energetic priest died Jan. 15, 1881, the Franciscan Sisters of Calais had 40 convents and more than 500 religious. Their work of caring for the sick and afflicted had spread to far corners of Europe and many institutions other than their hospitals were under the Sisters' care. They operated homes for incurables, institutes for deaf mutes, orphanages, schools and other institutions for the alleviation of the world's distress. They also had instituted a program of nursing the sick in their homes.

The congregation spread to Belgium in 1868 and soon afterward to Holland. In 1875 Portugal invited them to staff hospitals and homes. Before long there were convents of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais in England, Ireland, Constantinople, Arabia, Ethiopia, Madagascar and the Argentine.

Late Surgical Equipment To Aid Doctors

The light, costing about $500, according to authorities, is the latest "out." They state this hospital received a portion of the first shipment of lights ever to be produced.

The floor tile having certain amounts of carbon black in its composition adds further to the prevention of any explosion which according to the survey supervisor, Sister Edith, can be caused by a combination of a possible leakage of gas and a spark from the sole of the shoe.

As another precaution conductive strips having as their main element, carbon black, will be worn on the shoes of all who work in surgery.

The wall switches are unique in their explosion-proof feature. Most of the switches are enclosed in a very small box that protrudes from the wall instead of being recessed as in the case of most wall switches. Instead of being "flip" operated, twin plungers, which cannot cause friction, are located at the side of the box for the purpose of cutting the lights off and on.

Now there is no danger of an explosion.

There are four major and six minor operating rooms located throughout the second floor where surgery is now located. In the other building surgery was on the ground floor.

In each of these rooms, viewboxes for X-rays, are recessed in the walls. These boxes enable a doctor, during the course of a tedious operation, to refer to the patient's X-ray without leaving his work.

The lights in the other operating rooms are of the latest type also; consisting of one seal beam unit, heretofore unused by the St. Francis Hospital, and four regular bulbs. All units are enclosed in a large reflector.

The doctor will now have the opportunity of keeping his light focused during an operation,say hospital attendants. A sterilized handle that can be attached to the light which will enable the doctor to manipulate the suspended light in any manner which he wishes.

Located between the four major operating rooms are two sub-sterilizers. One, an autoclave which is used for the sterilization of all surgical instruments, can complete a "cycle" in only seven minutes. The autoclave used in the older hospital required about 30 minutes for the same procedure.

The other sub-sterilizer is one used for the sterilization of water, both hot and cold that is to be used in operations.

Another sterilizer which attendants look upon with admiration is the combination washer and sterilizer. This machine, working under very high pressure and temperature washes and sterilizes surgical instruments again in only seven minutes.

Separate dictaphone booths are now available to the doctors who upon completion of an operation are required to make a record of procedures and send it to the medical record files at the hospital.

An inter-communication system links surgery and its intimate counter-parts, blood bank and recovery room.

In case of power failure throughout other portions of the building the surgery department is equipped with an auxiliary unit which can be set into motion at the "mere flick of a switch."

Having this extra unit will dispense any fear from doctors and patients' minds of a power failure during an operation.

Also the air conditioning mechanism for surgery is hooked up separate from the other units in the building.

A centralization of equipment and all facilities required for the surgical department really adds to the numerous and unique features of the newly finished St. Francis Hospital.

The surgery supervisor states that all persons connected with the surgery department as well as others highly pleased with the new equipment, its location, and the "handiness" of all operating rooms in connection with other departments.

Due to this fact, patients can receive the finest of treatment, with the best of facilities, and in a much shorter time.

Modern Pharmacy To Open At New Hospital

Probably the best equipped and most modern pharmacy in north Louisiana will begin operation in St. Francis Hospital when it is opened this week.

All fixtures are of the most modern type having been constructed and installed by fixture specialist from a Chicago Firm. And interesting feature is the night emergency supply locker which is avaible to the night supervisor from an entrance in the corridor making it unnecessary for the pharmacy to be entered during the night. The inner opening is for servicing by the Pharmacist and the outer locker is avaible by key to the night Nurse Supervisor.

Another major improvement is the electric lift from the pharmacy to the floors of the hospital. This makes it unnecessary for nursing personnel to leave their stations to obtain needed drugs or solutions.

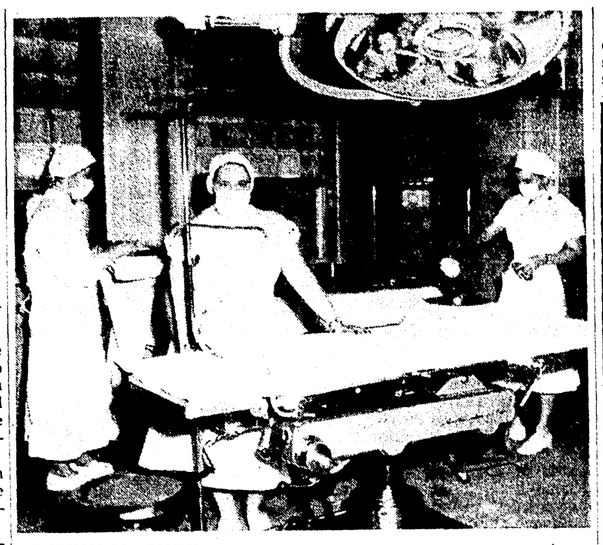

The Hospital Pharmacy is completely air - conditioned and centrally heated. Mr. James Ussery, a graduate of Loyola College of Pharmacy in New Orleans in 1950, is Hospital Pharmacist. "I believe I can say with conviction and I'm sure you will agree when you view this new Pharmacy, that this is the most modern and completely equipped Pharmacy in north Louisiana. We can supply every drug need as well as a complete stock of injections. We invite everyone in the twin-city area to come by and visit with us," stated Mr. Ussery.

FIGHTING OLDSTER

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Joseph Semrau of Milwaukee puts up a mighty good fight for a man 82 years old. Police said he routed two youths about 18 who tried to strong arm him. He told them to look for a youth with a black eye "because one of my punches landed square in his face." Semrau had cuts and bruises but retained his money.

Medical Record Library To Tell Hospital Story

Each patient admitted to the St. Francis Hospital has a medical record written as he is being treated. Dictating machines are provided for the doctors to dictate the medical record. The records are transcribed by the medical record library stenographers and if possible placed on the chart before the patient leaves the hospital.

Miss Maude Marie Holmes, a registered medical record librarian, came to St. Francis 16 months ago from United States Air Force hospitals to help effect a smooth functioning medical record library. Assisting Miss Holmes in operating the record library are Mrs. Annette Heflin, Miss. Leona Biggar, Mrs. Fay Allen, Miss Gloria Charles, Miss Carolyn Graham and Miss Dorothy Works.

There are more than 120,000 medical records dating from the year 1913 filed in the record library. The old records are microfilmed. Any one record can be put on the microfilm reader at a moment's notice. Over 1,200 babies were born at St. Francis hospital and approximately 9,000 other patients were admitted last year.

From the standpoint of the patient, the medical record is written evidence that his case is being handled in a systematic and intelligent manner. Today, every illness involves study and examination to the extent that it is impossible for the doctor to keep all the details in his head. If the patient is readmitted to St. Francis hospital or another hospital his previous record is available to the attending physician. Some examinations may not need be repeated and at times dangers are indicated in the record which may be avoided.

Hospitals see medical records as documents of facts which contain statements by trained observers of conditions found and results of treatment. The record indicates to the hospital whether or not the efforts of its physicians supplemented by hospital facilities are in accordance with reasonable expectations of present day scientific medicine.

From the viewpoint of physicians the medical record supplies information which he cannot remember, furnishes material for study which will add to his medical knowledge. As members of the medical staff engage in periodic review of their works, they may study in detail the successes and failures of the institution; they may compare their results with those produced elsewhere and with general averages.

It is not enough for the record library staff to file the records but they must make them accessible on short notice. After the records have been filed the staff must be able to pull them out for any purpose for which they are needed.

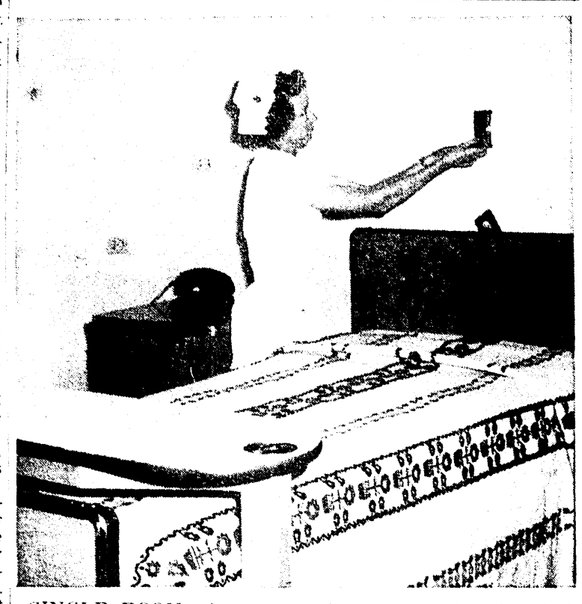

Indexes which serve as keys make the information in the record available. These keys are the patient's index, the physician's index, the disease index, and the operation index.

The physician's index is used when records are needed purely from the viewpoint of the individual doctor. This index is set up for each doctor. The hospital number, name of the patient, diagnosis, operation, and date of patient's hospital stay is included in the physician's index. If a physician desires to review all of his individual cases which he has operated on for a given disease such as appendicitis, it is an easy matter for the file clerk to pull them from the permanent files.

The index by disease is a listing of all like diseases under one code number with the patient's hospital number. If a doctor wishes to do research on a certain type of polio, all records under the polio code can be pulled without delay.

The operation index is a listing of like operations with the patient's hospital number under a certain code number. This index is the key when all of the operations of a certain type are needed for study.

New Blood Bank To Perform Many Useful Services

The blood bank of the new St. Francis Hospital is unique in its organization. This department is under the direction Najeeb Klam, M. D., pathologist and is ably staffed by three registered nurses, namely; Mrs. M. Cannon, Mrs. L. Roberts, and Mrs. R. Hardin. The unusualness of this blood bank is that the department and all its functions are maintained by these three nurses and only these three nurses, thus minimizing the number of personnel handling and processing the blood. These specially trained nurses process the donor whose welfare is considered as important as that of the patient; in order to make sure that his donation of blood will not be harmful to him or to the patient who may receive it. The blood is drawn in an aseptic and proper manner and is processed by these nurses as to its type, RH factor, and as to other important information. This same personnel cross-matches the blood to assure its compatibility with donor to patient, and also administers the blood to the patient. In other words, a complete service from the drawing of the blood from the donor to the administration of the blood to the patient is maintained by as few personnel as possible. Facilities for autonomus function is assured.

Presently the blood bank is administering approximately 250 pints of blood per month. This amount should increase in the new hospital. This remarkable service can be obtained at no cost to the patient whatsoever, providing the patient replaces two pints of blood for each pint administered. In the new hospital facilities are available for the drawing of four donors at one time if necessary. This additional facility will assure the donor of immediate and quick attention without any long waiting periods. The blood bank is proud of its many services. All patients admitted to the hospital for surgery are typed and cross-matched by this staff with appropriate blood without any additional cost to the patient unless the blood is actually administered.

Medical Technology School Here Lauded

The Medical Technology School at the St. Francis Hospital, Monroe, has "an excellent program," commented Dr. Arthur N. Springhill, the American Medical Association's assistant director of Division of Hospitals and Education in a letter to the hospital. A grade of 97 was made when it was recently rated by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education.

The technology school is under the direction of Dr. N. Klam, the pathologist. The instructors are registered technicians having at least three years experience with Mr. Dean McBride as the chief technologist and instructor.

There are six students enrolled who are Robert Hardin, Monroe; Gloria Grant, Archibald; Calvin Whittington, Jena; Charles Matthews, Newellton; Harleen Golson, Fairbanks, and Henry Boyd, Monroe.

It is required by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education that one instructor be provided for every two students.

The school is affiliated with Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. When the student has completed the prescribed number of hours at Northeast State he may enter a 12-consecutive - month-internship at the St. Francis Hospital. This program consists of a 44-hour-week schedule of lectures and laboratory practice.

The student spends 12 hours in the St. Francis laboratories studying microbiology, learning to identify the bacteria or parasites responsible for the infection. The doctor to prescribe the medicine best suited to treat the infection such as penicillin, aureomycin and steptomycin.

Twelve weeks are spent in teaching the student how to preform hematology and urinalysis tests. Hematology includes the red blood count and the white blood count while the urine test may reveal kidney disturbances.

The field of chemistry requires another 12 weeks of studying and learning to run chemistry examinations of all body fluids which will help the doctor diagnose and treat the disease.

In the histology department the student learns to prepare tissue specimen which have been removed at the time of operation. These specimen are carefully examined by the pathologist to detect the disease or confirm the surgeon's diagnosis.

The student spends the last four weeks of his time in reviewing all the techniques he has studies.

Weekly written and practice tests are given. The grades are sent to Northeast State every nine weeks in keeping with the plan of other departments in the college. When all the assigned courses are completed at the college and the hospital, the student becomes a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in medical technology from Northeast State.

Numerous tests are made by the medical technologist in the laboratory at St. Francis. Their reports are meaningless to the average patient but to the doctor they may hold the key to determining the procedure to use in battling the disease.

"The opportunities in the field of medical technology are limitless," said McBride. "There is an acute shortage of medical technologists in hospitals and doctor's offices. The United States Public Health and the armed services also need qualified technologists."

Recovery Room To Give Maximum Care To Patients

The recovery room, under the supervision of Dr. Mintz, anesthesiologist, and the chief of surgery, Dr. H. S. Coon, will be staffed by an experienced registered nurse, Miss Josephine Cascio, and assisted by practical nurses.

The recovery room is a physical unit organized to give maximum care to the patient in the immediate post-operative period. The patient will be placed from the operating table on the stretcher recovery bed and moved directly to the recovery room where he will remain until completely out of momentary danger.

The recovery room is materially equipped with all facilities for treatment during the postanesthesia period. Piped-in oxygen and suction apparatus are available at each bedside. All materials necessary for the treatment of breathing, blood pressure, and heart difficulties are instantly available.

Increased safety to the patient and centralization of special equipment and personnel are emphasized as the chief advantages of a recovery room. The anesthesiologist which probably offers as much danger as does the induction of anesthesia.

The recovery room will be located on the same floor as the operating rooms to provide the minimum postoperative transportation; also the surgeon and anesthesiologist will be able to care for the patients between other surgical operations or emergencies.

In the event that neither the surgeon nor the anesthesiologist can be contacted immediately for some reason, the chief of surgery is notified of the patient's difficulty and he prescribes for him. If none of these doctors are available any one of the entire St. Francis Medical Staff has agreed to come when called.

Seven patients can be cared for at one time and will be retained in the recovery room until such vital signs as respiration and blood pressure have been stabilized. The length of stay in the recovery room is usually equivalent to the length of the operation. By orders only of the surgeon or the anesthesiologist, the patient will be released back to his room. The recovery room will be open from 7:30 A.M. to 3:30 P.M. with extension of hours as necessary.

HOSPITAL RECORD ROOM — The record room in the new St. Francis Hospital building, in which these six employees are sitting, is where the clinical records of patients are kept through the years. Physicians make a record of the progress made in each case and the records may be referred to in event of a similar case.

Old Records At St. Francis Tell Progress Story

Digging through old medical records at St. Francis is like getting a wide screen view on the march of medical progress in the last 40 years. Today's patient at the St. Francis has a very good chance of recovery, compared to cases in early days. A check of old files brought out these not-so-musty tidbits of good news:

The records of 1914 show how almost all babies were born at home. Only one baby was delivered in the St. Francis that year, and he was delivered by a cesarean section operation.

In 1925 five per cent of the newborn babies died along with six per cent of the mothers. The year 1954 saw no losses of mothers and the death rate of the newborn was within the national average.

Malaria cases in 1914 showed a 12 per cent death rate. Twenty years later, in 1934, St. Francis decreased this death rate to five per cent. No deaths resulted from malaria in 1954.

In the year 1918 there was a six per cent death rate in patients suffering with influenza. No deaths resulted from the disease in 1954.

Appendicitis operations in 1924 resulted in a death rate of seven per cent. Thirty years later, 100 per cent of patients whose reason for operation was appendicitis alone left the hospital within an average of four days in good condition.

Twenty five years ago morphine and glucose were about the only treatment given a patient after the operation. Little was known about blood and a blood transfusion was hazardous to give. The R. H. factor in newborns was unknown which accounted for many of the newborn deaths.

Today's patient at St. Francis knows his chances are good. This is true because of advance in many different ways. Physicians have learned much in the last 40 years. Wonderful new drugs have been found and knowledge of medicine generally has marched forward. Some of the progress has been in the kind of care the patient gets in the hospital. Treatment before and after operations have been improved. Through exacting X-ray and laboratory studies a more accurate diagnosis can be established. Improved nursing care, better trained personnel, and vastly better surgical and medical equipment are all part of the reason for the present low death rate at St. Francis Hospital.

Cortes Founded First Hospital In Americas

The oldest hospital in the Western hemisphere is in Mexico City, D. F., now named the Hospital of Jesus Nazareno. When it was founded by Cortes in 1524 it was dedicated as the Hospital de la Purisima Concepcion.

The famous Hotel Dieu at Quebec was founded in 1639 and Montreal's Hotel Dieu was established five years later.

In 1925 five per cent of the newborn babies died along with six per cent of the mothers. The year 1954 saw no losses of mothers and the death rate of the newborn was within the national average.

Malaria cases in 1914 showed a 12 per cent death rate. Twenty years later, in 1934, St. Francis decreased this death rate to five per cent. No deaths resulted from malaria in 1954.

In the year 1918 there was a six per cent death rate in patients suffering with influenza. No deaths resulted from the disease in 1954.

Appendicitis operations in 1924 resulted in a death rate of seven per cent. Thirty years later, 100 per cent of patients whose reason for operation was appendicitis alone left the hospital within an average of four days in good condition.

Twenty five years ago morphine and glucose were about the only treatment given a patient after the operation. Little was known about blood and a blood transfusion was hazardous to give. The R. H. factor in newborns was unknown which accounted for many of the newborn deaths.

Today's patient at St. Francis knows his chances are good. This is true because of advance in many different ways. Physicians have learned much in the last 40 years. Wonderful new drugs have been found and knowledge of medicine generally has marched forward. Some of the progress has been in the kind of care the patient gets in the hospital. Treatment before and after operations have been improved. Through exacting X-ray and laboratory studies a more accurate diagnosis can be established. Improved nursing care, better trained personnel, and vastly better surgical and medical equipment are all part of the reason for the present low death rate at St. Francis Hospital.

Cortes Founded First Hospital In Americas

The oldest hospital in the Western hemisphere is in Mexico City, D. F., now named the Hospital of Jesus Nazareno. When it was founded by Cortes in 1524 it was dedicated as the Hospital de la Purisima Concepcion.

The famous Hotel Dieu at Quebec was founded in 1639 and Montreal's Hotel Dieu was established five years later.

St. Francis Hospital Laboratory Leads In New, Better Procedures For Diagnosis, Treatment Of Patients

The St. Francis Hospital Laboratory is of true modern design, with stainless steel cabinets and the latest in laboratory equipment. This new laboratory occupies the entire left wing of the first floor and is under the direction of Najeeb Klam, M.D., a graduate of Boston University and a member of the American Board of Pathology and of Clinical Pathology and who is ably assisted by Margaret S. Coon, M.D., a graduate of Tulane Medical School. The laboratory has been making tremendous strides under the special technical guidance of Mr. Dean McBride, B.S., a graduate of Louisiana Tech and who is also a registered technologist under the American Society of Clinical Pathology.

The laboratory at the St. Francis Hospital has always been most progressive, and one of the first to institute newer and better procedures for the diagnosis, treatment, and follow up of patients. An example of this is flame spectrophotometry found in the biochemistry department. This is a procedure which measures with extreme accuracy and precision various chemicals found in the blood, and involves the use of an expensive and delicate apparatus. This information thus obtained has been life saving at times. This service was provided in this hospital at a time when this type of analysis was still in its infancy throughout the country. Today it is only found in larger hospitals.

Bio-Chemistry

Another new chemical determination performed in the bio-chemistry department is the determination of the amount of iodine found in the blood. This is a test which will eventually surplant the old basal metabolism determination in the study of thyroid diseases. The St. Francis Hospital Laboratory is still one of the few places throughout the nation offering this highly technical analysis.

Looking into the future this department is eyeing newer equipment, which will enhance its progress. One such apparatus known as electrophoresis, is a method of analysing various components of proteins and will help greatly in diagnosis. A great share of the responsibility of this department goes to Mrs. William S. Sayre, B.S., M.T., (ASCP), a graduate of Louisiana Tech and of St. Francis School of Medical Technology.

Hematology

Another progressive department of the laboratory is that of hematology or the study of blood. This department is under the supervision of Mrs. Robert Dye, B.S., M.T., (ASCP), a graduate of Northwestern State College, and assisted by Mrs. J. R. Williams, B.S., M.T., (ASCP), a graduate of L. S. U., Miss Margie Valentine, B.S., M.T., (ASCP), a graduate of Northeast La. State College, and Mrs. O. J. Baldwin. As would be expected all the latest equipment is provided in this department including the newest micro centrifuge. This is a machine which will measure the per cent of blood cells as compared with the total volume of blood. This test is one which will assist the doctor in determining the total amount of blood cells that may be present and is one which is provided routinely with all blood counts that are obtained by the laboratory. This staff is especially trained in analyzing the blood of sick patients and in determining and differentiating the types of anemia or other blood diseases. One of the interesting projects that this staff now is conducting is the effectiveness of the new drugs in the treatment of leukemia, commonly known as cancer of the blood. Several patients with leukemia and who are receiving the drugs are being carefully observed by the group. It is gratifying to say that the treatments today have been encouraging; however, time alone will give its own conclusion.

LAB TECHNICIANS—The staff shown above is responsible for the lab work at St. Francis Hospital. Left to right, Mrs. Priscilla Williams, Mrs. Eloise Sayre, Miss Joyce Post, Simmie Sayre, Mrs. Marycarl Dye, Mrs. Jo Baldwin, Mrs. Bonnie Hales and Miss Margie Valentine.

PATHOLOGIST — Dr. Najeeb Klam, a 1940 graduate of Boston University School of Medicine, a member of several national and state pathology groups, and a pathologist in two hospitals in Germany during World War II, is currently pathologist St. Francis Hospital, which will have a dedication of their new $2,500,000 building here this afternoon. Dr. Klam has been the St. Francis pathologist since 1947.

Bacteriology

The department of bacteriology and serology is under the direction of Mr. William S. Sayre, B.S., M.T., (ASCP), a graduate of Louisiana Tech and is assisted by Mrs. E. B. Hales, B.S., M.T., (ASCP). It is in this department that complete and exhaustive studies of the different kinds of germs, bacteria and parasites which cause infectious diseases in patients are studied. Painstaking and elaborate methods are used to determine the exact type of germs which causes the disease. Once the germ has been identified special studies are made in the test tube to determine which of the newer so called miracle drugs will be most effective against that specific germ. In this way the patient may be spared many unnecessary drugs, protracted illness and expense. This department has kept abreast with the latest developments and has maintained all of its media which grow these germs and also provides unavailable antigens. These antigens are substances which when properly provided will detect the presence of various germs. In the future the department hopes to have more animal and virus disease studies.

Histopathology

The department of histopathology is that branch in which all tissues removed in surgery or at post mortem are carefully studied. It is here that the disease tissue is processed and stained so that microscopic interpretation can be made by the pathologist. Every piece of tissue removed at surgery must be examined by the pathologist. It is here that the diagnosis of cancer or inflammatory disease is made. The processing of the tissues is done by Miss Joyce Post, B.S., M.T., (ASCP), a graduate of Baylor University.

The laboratory maintains an educational division which keeps a cross-file on all patients and diagnosis and maintains indefinitely the representative slides of the diseased tissues. There is also a very elaborate photographic apparatus for taking pictures of both the tissues as a whole or as they appear under the microscope. This material is always available to the doctor for review or study. The laboratory believes that by having the best equipment, the best trained personnel the doctors will be better provided to give their patients the best treatment.

DR. MARGARET COON is one of the many staff physicians who will practice at the new St. Francis Hospital building to be dedicated today. A graduate of Tulane Medical School in 1943, she had three more years of training in New Orleans, and has practiced here since 1946. She has been an associate of Dr. N. Klam in pathology since 1949.

X-Rays Are Important In Hospital Services

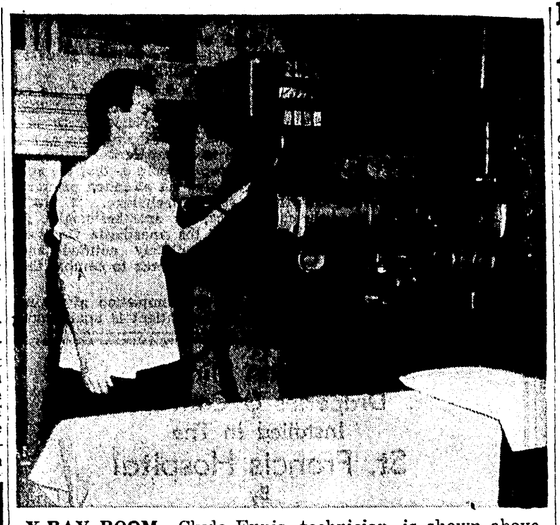

One of the most important elements in the workings of a modern hospital is provided by its X-Ray facilities, the complicated, elaborate and delicate equipment used in radiology and the highly trained radiologists who use it.

Best Wishes
To
St. Francis Hospital

SIMONTON
GRAIN COMPANY

Through use of modern techniques in radiology, diagnosis has been completely changed. There is no more of the guess work and the exploratory surgery that our fathers knew.

X-rays tell many things concerning human physiology and the condition of individual patients that cannot possibly be found out in any other way. X-rays are one of the most important weapons of preventive medicine and have saved months and years of illness for patients in hospitals in every part of the world.

DISCOVERED IN 1895

When Professor Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen discovered x-rays in 1895 he was interested in quite another matter. A physicist in the Institute of Physics, University of Wurzburg, Bavaria, Roentgen was experimenting with a Crookes tube and an electric current.

In a carefully darkened room Roentgen noticed a flickering line of shadow on a piece of cardboard he had painted over with a fluorescent chemical. The rest of the cardboard was faintly luminous but some strange light was casting a shadow.

The room was perfectly dark. The Crookes tube, stimulated internally by an induction coil, was covered carefully with a shield of black cardboard. Still the hitherto unrecognized rays, emanating from the Crookes tube, penetrated the cardboard shield and fell on the luminescent cardboard screen.

The rays were found to have a penetrative power hitherto unimagined; they penetrated cardboard, cloth and wood with ease. They went through a book and a thick plank and lighted up the fluorescent screen placed on the other side. Metals were found to be less penetrable, the densest of them being practically opaque.

SAW BONES OF HAND

Roentgen, putting his hand between the source of the rays and his bit of luminescent cardboard saw the bones of his living hand projected in silhouette upon the screen and the great discovery was made.

Now, through many new discoveries and techniques, it is possible to make x-ray pictures — radiographs, they are more properly called—of any organ of the human body.

Flesh gives but slight resistance to the rays but bones show up very plainly. The different organs, having much the same density, showed up as vague shadows on the special photographic plates which soon replaced Roentgen's fluorescent cardboard. Besides, one organ would be superimposed on another or, for some other reason, would be indistinguishable from another.

But Dr. Walter Bradford Cannon of Harvard thought of filling one organ with a more opaque substance to make it stand out when a radiograph was made. In the more than 40 years of experimentation that followed a number of harmless substances were found that could be taken by patients and would lodge in the organ to be studied.

VALUABLE IN DIAGNOSIS

Everyone knows how x-rays will disclose cavities and abscesses in the teeth so that they may be treated before giving trouble or destroying the tooth. And everyone is rapidly learning of the value of periodic x-ray examination of the lungs.

If a radiograph of the chest shows light patches in the lungs where it should be dark, it means that something is wrong. If the patches are large and widespread it could be pneumonia but more often the little light patches mean tubercular infection which, unless stopped, can spread and attack the whole lung.

Sometimes childhood infections which have healed can become active again and fail to reveal themselves in any way except through x-ray examination.

Early discovery of such infections makes cure comparatively simple. And during treatment regular radiographs enable a physician to recognize the slightest change in the extent of the malady.

Another important use of x-rays of the chest is in diagnosing pleurisy in which fluid is formed when the coverings of the lungs become inflamed.

Educational campaigns to acquaint the public with the value of frequent chest x-rays have borne fruit in recent years. Now mobile x-ray units make chest radiographs in school yards and at street corners in some cities and it is ordinary practice for some hospitals to make a chest radiograph of each patient on admission.

Business Office At Hospital Is New, Up-To-Date

The Business Office of the modern hospital operates in much the same manner as the office of any large business concern. It is here that patients accounts are made up and records kept of all charges made by various departments of the hospital. Keeping each patients ledger complete and correct at all times is quite an undertaking, since charges originate from all departments for most patients.

These charges are posted by modern bookkeeping machines, filed for reference and totaled daily for statistical purposes. A patients account can usually be given to him within a few minutes after notice of discharge has been brought to the business office. Charges are brought or sent to the business office by each department periodically during the day and this enables the cashiers in the office to keep all accounts current.

In addition to keeping patients accounts, the business office also has control over all accounts payable and payroll accounts. It is here that all invoices for purchases are correctly charged to the proper department and paid when due; this, too, entails considerable work since hospital purchases are varied and many for the departments which function for the care of the patient.

Payrolls and social security taxes for the 225 employees of the St. Francis Hospital are also the responsibility of the business office. This type of bookkeeping work is also done with the latest in office equipment, with changes being made frequently to better systems and methods of work.

The Admitting office of a hospital usually functions along with the business office; it is in the admitting office that patients are received into the hospital, their personal record and information taken and room assignments made.

SUPERVISOR — Sister Marie Finbarr, above, is supervisor of the business office at St. Francis Hospital.

Noted Hospital Veritable City

The most famous of hospitals in the early days of the Church was that of St. Basil, established in Caesarea in the fourth century. It developed into a veritable city, with separate buildings for different types of patients, homes for doctors and nurses and various schools, workshops and other buildings.

The first hospital in Rome was established about 400 A. D., and in the early sixth century a hospital was established in France, at Lyons.

Julian the Apostate, when he took the throne in 369, ordered hospitals established in all cities to counteract the influence of the Christian hospitals.

Now, through many new discoveries and techniques, it is possible to make x-ray pictures — radiographs, they are more properly called—of any organ of the human body.

Flesh gives but slight resistance to the rays but bones show up very plainly. The different organs, having much the same density, showed up as vague shadows on the special photographic plates which soon replaced Roentgen's fluorescent cardboard. Besides, one organ would be superimposed on another or, for some other reason, would be indistinguishable from another.

But Dr. Walter Bradford Cannon of Harvard thought of filling one organ with a more opaque substance to make it stand out when a radiograph was made. In the more than 40 years of experimentation that followed a number of harmless substances were found that could be taken by patients and would lodge in the organ to be studied.

VALUABLE IN DIAGNOSIS

Everyone knows how x-rays will disclose cavities and abscesses in the teeth so that they may be treated before giving trouble or destroying the tooth. And everyone is rapidly learning of the value of periodic x-ray examination of the lungs.

If a radiograph of the chest shows light patches in the lungs where it chould be dark, it means that something is wrong. If the patches are large and widespread it could be pneumonia but more often the little light patches mean tubercular infection which, unless stopped, can spread and attack the whole lung.

Sometimes childhood infections which have healed can become active again and fail to reveal themselves in any way except through x-ray examination.

Early discovery of such infections makes cure comparatively simple. And during treatment regular radiographs enable a physician to recognize the slightest change in the extent of the malady.

Another important use of x-rays of the chest is in diagnosing pleurisy in which fluid is formed when the coverings of the lungs become inflamed.

Educational campaigns to acquaint the public with the value of frequent chest x-rays have borne fruit in recent years. Now mobile x-ray units make chest radiographs in school yards and at street corners in some cities and it is ordinary practice for some hospitals to make a chest radiograph of each patient on admission.

Business Office At Hospital Is New, Up-To-Date

The Business Office of the modern hospital operates in much the same manner as the office of any large business concern. It is here that patients accounts are made up and records kept of all charges made by various departments of the hospital. Keeping each patients ledger complete and correct at all times is quite an undertaking, since charges originate from all departments for most patients.

These charges are posted by modern bookkeeping machines, filed for reference and totaled daily for statistical purposes. A patients account can usually be given to him within a few minutes after notice of discharge has been brought to the business office. Charges are brought or sent to the business office by each department periodically during the day and this enables the cashiers in the office to keep all accounts current.

In addition to keeping patients accounts, the business office also has control over all accounts payable and payroll accounts. It is here that all invoices for purchases are correctly charged to the proper department and paid when due; this, too, entails considerable work since hospital purchases are varied and many for the departments which function for the care of the patient.

Payrolls and social security taxes for the 225 employees of the St. Francis Hospital are also the responsibility of the business office. This type of bookkeeping work is also done with the latest in office equipment, with changes being made frequently to better systems and methods of work.

The Admitting office of a hospital usually functions along with the business office; it is in the admitting office that patients are received into the hospital, their personal record and information taken and room assignments made.

SUPERVISOR — Sister Marie Finbarr, above, is supervisor of the business office at St. Francis Hospital.

Noted Hospital Veritable City

The most famous of hospitals in the early days of the Church was that of St. Basil, established in Caesarea in the fourth century. It developed into a veritable city, with separate buildings for different types of patients, homes for doctors and nurses and various schools, workshops and other buildings.

The first hospital in Rome was established about 400 A. D., and in the early sixth century a hospital was established in France, at Lyons.

Julian the Apostate, when he took the throne in 369, ordered hospitals established in all cities to counteract the influence of the Christian hospitals.

Dr. Stanley Mintz Is Anesthesia Dept. Director

The hospital and medical staff realized the importance of having a doctor, specialized in anesthesiology, to organize and direct an anesthesia department. A committee was appointed to select a competant man.

An anesthesiologist is a qualified physician with a minimum of two years of specialized training in anesthesiology. To explain very briefly, the medical speciality of anesthesiology entails particular knowledge of drugs and methods of anesthesia, pre-and postoperative care, fluid therapy, oxygen therapy, resuscitation, and diagnostic and therapeutic nerve block.

A nurse anesthesiast is a registered nurse with approximately nine months of training in an anesthesia school in which are learned techniques of giving anesthesitics.

The Anesthesia Department has all equipment and material instantly available in the operative suite for treatment of all circulatory and respiratory difficulties. Included in the equipment is a defribrillator, which is an electrical device used to restore the heart beat in certain conditions. Modern anesthesia equipment is present in each of the nine operating rooms.

All precautions have been taken to make the operating suite explosion proof according to national code fire Underwriters and are as follows:

1. All tables, cabinets, anesthesia machines, stretchers, and equipment are grounded with brass chains so that any accumulation of static electricity may be drawn off.

2. Explosion - proof switches, lights, and plugs as are seen in munition factories are present. The floor is made of conductive with carbon black and copper wiring inserted in the terazzo floor material.

3. All personnel, including nurses and doctors, wear special shoes which ground any static electricity which accumulates from their body.

ANESTHESIOLOGIST — Dr. Stanley R. Mintz, a 1944 graduate of Tulane Medical School, is the chief of anesthesiology at St. Francis Hospital. His special training in anesthesiology was taken at New Orleans Charity Hospital after serving with the U. S. Army Medical Corps.

The anesthesiologist, when possible, visits the patient the late afternoon before the operation the next morning. He acquires a brief medical history and evaluates the patient's condition, particularly in regard to choice of proper anesthesia for that particular patient. The type of anesthesia to be used for the operation, whether inhalation, intravenous, rectal, spinal, caudal, nerve block, or local, is discussed. The anesthetic is explained to the patient to minimize apprehension. He prescribes drugs to aid in a good night's rest. Similar drugs are ordered for the morning of operation so that the patient has as little recollection as possible of being taken to the operating room.

The anesthesiologist, when possible, administers the anesthesia in severe cases or in those in which the surgeon or the patient requests his personal service.

Upon the patient's arrival to the operating room the nurse anesthetist who has been assigned the case consults with the anesthesiologist in regard to the type of anesthetic to be used.

Blood presure, pulse, and respiration of the patient are constantly noted by the anesthetist during the entire operation. Blood transfusion is immediately available from the blood bank and glucose can also be given as needed to maintain the patient in best possible condition.

During the course of the operative procedure the anesthetist and the anesthesiologist work in conjunction with the surgeon as a team and take care of the patient in the operating room so that the surgeon can give his attention primarily to surgery technique. If difficulty arises, the anesthesiologist, Director of the Anesthesia Department, is immediately notified and he takes measures to combat the difficulty.

At the completion of the operation the patient is again carefully checked before being moved on the special stretcher to the recovery room where he will remain during his critical reacting period.

The nurse anesthetists working under the direction of Dr. Mintz are Mrs. Glenolloyd Williams, Mrs. Corrie Reed, Miss Louise Tarpley and Mrs. Blanche Bellowe. A fifth anesthetist is soon to be added to the staff.

Post Mortem Room To Aid Doctors In Future Diagnosis

The educational center of the hospital can rightfully be called the post mortem room. The latest in equipment and furnishings are provided by the hospital in a room known by that gruesome term, the morgue. This is in reality the most important addition to the new institution. The morgue is where the doctors can learn of the effectiveness of their treatment, the adequateness of the diagnosis, and the possible prevention of future disease.

The morgue is a room which is maintained with the degree of sympathy and respect that is due to any individual who has passed on. However, great information to those living and to those in the future, may be obtained in the morgue providing post-mortem examination is permitted. By autopsy, which is conducted with great feeling and great respect, the actual cause of the death can be determined. Also the type of treatment that has been given to this individual patient can be appraised. This knowledge may provide a wealth of instruction both to the individual doctor, who managed this particular case, by giving him the necessary information about the care of this patient, and to the individual's family: the wife, the husband, the parents, the children of the deceased, by finding out the exact type of infection or condition present at the time of death. This knowledge may prevent a similar disease from accuring in this family. In this way the post mortem may be a tremendous help to the family.

NEW SYSTEM—Mother Marie Gertrude, administrator, places the first telephone call through the new system at St. Francis Hospital. Sister Edith Marie watches as Mother Marie Gertrude plugs the call in on the switchboard.

Telephone In Every Room At New Hospital

Patients will find that bedside telephone service is one of the many conveniences provided by the hospital to make their stay as pleasant as possible.

A direct connection from each of the patient's rooms to a central switchboard in the hospital's main office will enable the switchboard operator to complete calls between patients' room and the administrative office in the Hospital as well as calls to other Monroe telephones and the long distance operator.

A complete dial system, which is a minature replica of the equipment employed at the Central Office of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company here in Monroe, has been installed to handle the administrative telephone service. This new dial system will expedite the placing and completion of all business calls to and from the Hospital. Both patients and administrative calls will be connected through the same switchboard.

This particular dial system will be the first installation of its type in the Twin Cities. It required several months for installation. Designing actually began in January 1954. Only after detailed and specific engineering studies, necessary to determine the requirements for the individual needs of the St. Francis Hospital, could the system be manufactured and designed for the Hospital.

The equipment for this dial system is housed in a room 7 by 10 feet located on the main floor of the Hospital.

DR. V. G. SAMPOGNARO . . . staff doctor.

NEW SYSTEM—Mother Marie Gertrude, administrator, places the first telephone call through the new system at St. Francis Hospital. Sister Edith Marie watches as Mother Marie Gertrude plugs the call in on the switchboard.

Telephone In Every Room At New Hospital

Patients will find that bedside telephone service is one of the many conveniences provided by the hospital to make their stay as pleasant as possible.

A direct connection from each of the patient's rooms to a central switchboard in the hospital's main office will enable the switchboard operator to complete calls between patients' room and the administrative office in the Hospital as well as calls to other Monroe telephones and the long distance operator.

A complete dial system, which is a minature replica of the equipment employed at the Central Office of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company here in Monroe, has been installed to handle the administrative telephone service. This new dial system will expedite the placing and completion of all business calls to and from the Hospital. Both patients and administrative calls will be connected through the same switchboard.

This particular dial system will be the first installation of its type in the Twin Cities. It required several months for installation. Designing actually began in January 1954. Only after detailed and specific engineering studies, necessary to determine the requirements for the individual needs of the St. Francis Hospital, could the system be manufactured and designed for the Hospital.

The equipment for this dial system is housed in a room 7 by 10 feet located on the main floor of the Hospital.

Seven telephones are provided in convenient locations for use by the general public.

DR. V. G. SAMPOGNARO . . . staff doctor.

The collapsible metal tube such as is now used for toothpaste was invented in 1841.

X-Ray Dept. At Hospital Will Be Model For South

In 1913 the St. Francis Hospital was first equipped with an X-ray machine, and later in 1920, additional equipment was purchased. Dr. J. A. Beals was the first Radiologist in charge.

Following Dr. Beals came Dr. Daniel Moore who was in charge for 26 years. Dr. Moore retired from the active practice of Radiology at the St. Francis Hospital in 1947.

Dr. Charles M. Lobrano has been in charge of the X-ray Department since 1947. He was graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1937, and after completing his Internship at the Monmouth Memorial Hospital in Long Branch, New Jersey, he went to the John Gaston Hospital in Memphis and specialized in Radiology, completing his training in 1941.

The new X-ray Department of the St. Francis Hospital is located on the second floor. It is equipped with the latest model and most up-to-date equipment of any hospital its size in the South. The new equipment is all "Keleket" purchased from the Kelly-Koett Manufacturing Company of Covington, Kentucky.

There are two large X-ray diagnostic rooms. The larger room has the new exclusive Keleket ceiling mounted X-ray tube crane. This tube crane is suspended from the ceiling and will eliminate floor rails. The radiologist can approach the patient from either side of the table, and it will allow freedom of movement all around the table.

The new table in the larger room is the Keleket "C" Supertilt model offering 45 degree Trendelenburg, horizontal and vertical positions for complete fluoroscopic and radiographic examinations.

The X-ray dark room is located between the X-ray diagnostic rooms with "pass boxes" extending into each diagnostic room. The dark room is well equipped with a water cooling unit, developing tank and a large dryer.

There are two nice size X-ray therapy rooms. The larger therapy room is for deep therapy or for treating deep-seated lesions.

The smaller X-ray therapy room is for skin therapy. It is equipped with a new Keleket Dermatologic Unit. It is completely shockproof with remote control for complete safety and greatest operating convenience.

The reception room is large and comfortable. The secretary's desk is in the same room, but is separated by a glass partition making it convenient for both the secretary and the patients.

The radiologist's office is large and roomy. There are six to eight view boxes in this office to enable the radiologist to study films and to make his reports. Also, this room will be used by all the doctors to study X-ray films and to hold conferences.

The St. Francis X-ray Department is staffed by the following personnel:

Dr. Charles Marion Lobrano, Roentgenologist. Mr. Clyde P. Enis, X-ray Technician. Mrs. Bertha Gunn, X-ray Technician. Mr. Charles Weaver, X-ray Technician. (night), Mrs. Estelle Eley, Secretary.

Organized and equipped for the diagnostic and therapeutic application of radium energy in the form of roentgen rays, the radiology department plays an important role in diagnosing and treating diseases.

Fortunate indeed is St. Francis Hospital in having a well trained radiologist. It takes three years of specialized training after finishing medical school to learn what the shadows on X-ray film mean in terms of diseases.

Consisting of two diagnostic rooms and two therapy rooms equipped with thousands of dollars of equipment, the patient will receive the best in X-ray treatment. One of the newest facilities used for making the patient comfortable is the $16,000 diagnostic machine X-ray table which has been tested and approved by the Bureau of Standards for compliance with Veterans Administration specifications. The table can be adjusted to position the patient without his being moved.

Shock proof machines will alleviate the patient's fear of being burned or shocked when receiving treatment. The technicians are well trained and the patient is under observation every minute that he is being treated. Certain sized cones are used to cover the exact area to be treated. Lead shields are placed around the cone to prevent rays from spreading onto the outlying area.

Of the four co-ray machines, two are used for diagnosing the disease and two for the treatment of the disease.

Lead lined walls throughout the entire department protect the doctor and technician. When the rays hit the lead line walls they are broken up into many parts and lose their power.

Before explaining the use of the machines we might bear in mind that an X-ray machine with its tubes and equipment is nothing more than a big camera. The X-ray tube is the part through which the exposure of the rays flow and penetrate into the body tissue, bones, or any part of the body which the attending physician is interested in having diagnosed.

Suspected ulcers of the stomach and gallstones of the gall bladder are detected by the radiologist in the X-ray shadows or pictures. A written report is given to the attending physician explaining the diagnosis. If gallstones are found an operation may be indicated. If an ulcer is found, the patient may need only medical treatment and later re-examination will determine if there is improvement or if surgery is needed.

Deep therapy facilities costing $16,000 treat internal disorders such as bursitis or infections of the joints. Asthma, sinusitis, colds and cancer might also be treated.

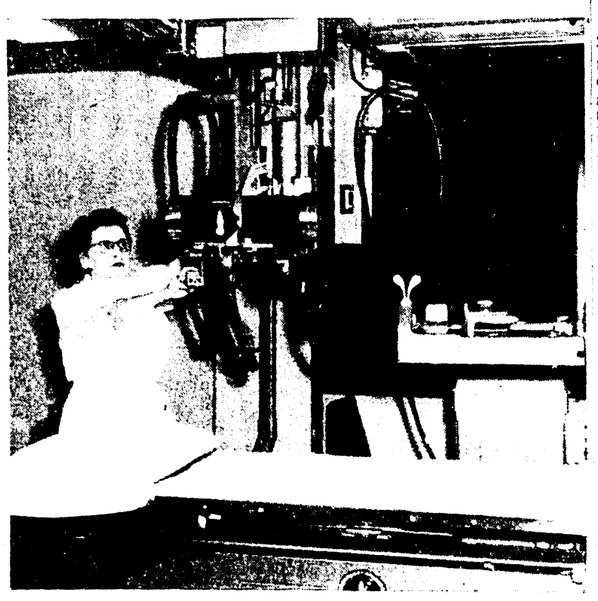

Minor skin ailments such as athlete foot, skin rashes, eczema and eczema are treated in the superficial room with furnishings costing $8,000 to $10,000.

Dr. C. M. Lobrano, director of the department is a graduate physician trained and competent in radiology. He is an exclusive specialist devoting all his time to radiological practice in the St. Francis Hospital.

Under the supervision of the radiologist is a registered technician Clyde Enis who has been with the St. Francis seven years and Mrs. Bertha Gunn, and able technician who has served the hospital for nine years. Mrs. James Eley is secretary of the department.

RADIOLOGIST — Dr. C. M. Lobrano, radiologist at St. Francis Hospital, is shown here examining some of the new equipment which will be used in the new building which will be dedicated today.

MRS. BERTHA GUNN, X-ray technician at St. Francis Hospital, here examines the new X-ray machine which was one of the many new items of equipment, costing thousands of dollars, purchased as part of the expansion and remodeling of the hospital. The machine is in the new hospital building being dedicated today.

"SAID THE WALRUS"

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Seal-hunting Eskimos at Point Barrow on the northern tip of North America have been having walrus trouble. An Eskimo correspondent of the Fairbanks News-Miner reported it this way: "Today Ernest Kignak and few others saw a walrus. Day after day men would go out and most every man would come home empty. Walrus is an enemy to seals. That's why the seals don't hang around no matter how good the ice could be. The people here wish to se this walrus go away or be killed. A very same thing happened to this village one time in 1959. People would be short of seals then, too."

LAKE BOTTLED UP

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Bottles, 2,000 of them, have been used to register the speed of Lake Huron currents. The University of Michigan's Great Lakes Research Institute said it released bottles across Lake Huron to establish that currents flow generally toward the Canadia shore at three one-hundredths of a mile an hour. At the lake it takes currents six months to a year to make it across. Post cards enclosed in the test bottles were picked up and mailed in, the location and date being noted.

Hospital Kitchen To Cook Regular, Special Foods

The kitchen was the first part of the new hospital to be built, being completed and occupied in September, 1952. It is fully furnished with all modern equipment, including steam-jacketed kettles, Steam Chef, food mixers, choppers and grinders, and adequate oven space. The refrigeration consists of dairy room, vegetable room, meat preparation and meat storage refrigeration, an upright deep freeze, a walk-in quick and deep freeze, and a refrigerated garbage room.

Meals are planned, prepared, and served here for all patients, hospital employees, and visitors. Our new cafeteria is open now, but will not be operating on full schedule until after the formal opening of the hospital.

Food service to the patients in the new building will be via two high-speed dumb waiters, using assembly line and central service. We expect to re-establish the selective menu for the patients, so that the meals will be more pleasing and satisfying. Special or therapeutic diets are supervised by Mrs. Lettie Aswell, the dietitian. There is a fully equipped diet laboratory for preparation of special foods.

The dishwashing room, located conveniently for both the dumbwaiters returning the used dishes, and the cafeteria, features the Colt-Autosan dishwashing machine.

Care Of Sick Has Always Been Great Religious Work

The care of the sick has always been considered a religious work. This is because of the dignity of man and because it affords an opportunity to heal the wounds of the soul while relieving physical pain.

The spiritual nurse loves sick humanity because in caring for God's afflicted men, women and children, she is caring for Christ Himself. In all things she sees Christ looking to her for help, taking the medicine from her hands, resting more comfortably because she has smoothed His pillow, growing strong again under her tender care.

What is it that gives the nurse this deep sense of spiritual values? It is her early religious training.

PHYSICIANS' GUILD

In 1210 a guild of surgeons was instituted at Paris with the members divided into two classes, indicated by the length of their robes.

FIRST PRESCRIPTIONS

Hygiene Aimed At Prevention Of Sickness

The modern term, hygiene, comes from the same Greek root as Hygeia, in Greek mythology the goddess of health and the daughter of Aesculapius, with whom she was worshipped at Athens, Corinth, and elsewhere.

She is represented in art accompanied by her father or sometimes alone, with a snake at her side, the symbol of healing power delegated to her from Apollo. Hygeia at first was an independent goddess, but later was merged with other deities who were identified with the cure of disease.

Hygiene is the branch of medical science that is concerned with the preservation of health. It does not include the practice of medicine or of surgery, but it is considered a part of medical science because it has to do with the prevention of disease.

Personal hygiene takes in such matters as the proper choice of food, beverages, and clothing; physical exercise to keep to body in good condition; obtaining sufficient rest and sleep, and bodily cleanliness.

Domestic hygiene has to do with the preparation of meals, operation of the home, and care of invalids and children.

Public hygiene has made great strides in the past century in preventing disease epidemics.

LOUISIANA'S FIRST

The care of the sick has always been considered a religious work. This is because of the dignity of man and because it affords an opportunity to heal the wounds of the soul while relieving physical pain.

The spiritual nurse loves sick humanity because in caring for God's afflicted men, women and children, she is caring for Christ Himself. In all things she sees Christ looking to her for help, taking the medicine from her hands, resting more comfortably because she has smoothed His pillow, growing strong again under her tender care.

What is it that gives the nurse this deep sense of spiritual values? It is her early religious training.

Hygiene Aimed At Prevention Of Sickness

The modern term, hygiene, comes from the same Greek root as Hygeia, in Greek mythology the goddess of health and the daughter of Aesculapius, with whom she was worshipped at Athens, Corinth, and elsewhere.

She is represented in art accompanied by her father or sometimes alone, with a snake at her side, the symbol of healing power delegated to her from Apollo. Hygeia at first was an independent goddess, but later was merged with other deities who were identified with the cure of disease.

Hygiene is the branch of medical science that is concerned with the preservation of health. It does not include the practice of medicine or of surgery, but it is considered a part of medical science because it has to do with the prevention of disease.

Personal hygiene takes in such matters as the proper choice of food, beverages, and clothing; physical exercise to keep to body in good condition; obtaining sufficient rest and sleep, and bodily cleanliness.

Domestic hygiene has to do with the preparation of meals, operation of the home, and care of invalids and children.

Public hygiene has made great strides in the past century in preventing disease epidemics.

LOUISIANA'S FIRST

The first hospital in the United States to be operated by Sisters was the royal hospital in Louisiana which was turned over to the Ursuline nuns in 1734. It was also the first hospital to be endowed.

Tales from the Great Book

THE UNSELFISH LOVE OF RUTH

by John Lehti

IN A FEW YEARS, ELIMELECH MUST HAVE BECOME PROSPEROUS AS A GROWER OF OLIVES IN HIS NEW HOME-LAND OF MOAB. THEN PERHAPS HIS HEALTH BEGAN TO FAIL UNTIL ONE MORNING, NAOMI—HIS WIFE—GOES TO SEE WHY HE IS SO LATE ARISING...

IT IS LONG PAST THE TIME TO GET UP, ELIMELECH!

MAHLON! CHILION! COME... QUICK!

...BUT IT IS TOO LATE--ELIMELECH HAS PASSED ON! AND ACCORDING TO THE CUSTOM, HE IS BURIED THE SAME DAY...WITH MANY PROFESSIONAL MOURNERS ATTENDING, AS BEFITS A WELL-TO-DO FAMILY.

I THANK THE LORD... HE HAS SEEN FIT TO BLESS ME WITH TWO FINE SONS TO CARE FOR ME AND CARRY ON THEIR FATHER'S NAME!

AS TIME PASSES ON, MAHLON AND CHILION CONTINUE THEIR FATHER'S SUCCESS WITH THE OLIVE VINEYARD, UNTIL ONE DAY...

I AM A MAN OF POSITION...OWNER OF A FINE VINEYARD— I CAN MAKE MY OWN BARGAIN... AND I CAN CHOOSE ACCORDING TO MY OWN WISHES!

MAHLON, MY SON, YOU HAVE REACHED THE AGE WHEN YOU SHOULD HAVE A WIFE...BUT YOUR FATHER IS NOT HERE TO BUY ONE FOR YOU!

YOU HAVE SEEN SOMEONE?...SOMEONE WHO PLEASES YOU?

YES! HER NAME IS RUTH! AND I SHALL SPEAK TO HER FATHER IMMEDIATELY!

MY FATHER HAS GONE, SO I MUST SPEAK FOR MYSELF AND TELL YOU I WISH TO BUY THIS DAUGHTER OF YOURS...TO BE MY WIFE!

HMMM...

JOHN LEHTI

WILL FATHER SELL ME, MOTHER-WILL HE?

HUSH, RUTH! I'M SURE HE WILL— BUT THIS MAHLON IS NOT A MOABITE — HIS WAYS ARE NOT OUR WAYS. I AM AFRAID....

BUT I AM NOT AFRAID, MOTHER! FOR HE IS YOUNG AND WEALTHY AND...OH, SO HANDSOME!

NEXT WEEK--RUTH'S UNHAPPY BLUNDER!

MOON MULLINS

by Frank Willard

DON'T TELL ME THAT IS A PRESENT FOR ME, MOON?

NO, MA'AM FOR ME.

TH' CLERK AT TH' STORE CLAIMS THIS GADGET WILL REDUCE MY SCORE FROM 126 TO A SNAPPY 96 BY TH' TIME TH' GOLF SEASON OPENS.

CRASH!

OH-OH, MAYBE I'D BETTER PRACTICE OUT IN TH' YARD, TILL I GET BACK ON MY GAME.

HECK! A WINDOW'D BREAK HITTIN' IT FROM TH' OUTSIDE JEST AS EASY AS FROM TH' INSIDE.

FOR OUTDOOR PRACTICE, KAYO. YOU CAN HIT THAT BALL AND NOT HAVE TO WALK A MILE TO FIND IT.

MAYBE IT WOULD BE A BETTER IDEA IF YOU DID GO OUTDOORS TO PLAY THIS GAME, AT THAT.

NOW, YOU HOLD ON TO TH' CORD AND I'LL HIT TH' BALL.

ZOK!

$29 FOR THAT GADGET, FIVE BUCKS FOR A NEW WINDOW AND TEN FOR TH' DOCTOR! GEE! IT'D BE CHEAPER IF YOU STUCK TO POOL, MOON.

DAD, YOU SAY YOU'RE GOING URANIUM PROSPECTING BY AIR? GREAT!

IT'LL BE GREAT IF I HIT A BIG STRIKE!

YES - BUT WE'VE BEEN DEBATING··· IS SUCH A LONG SHOT WORTH THE DANGER INVOLVED?

PILOTS FLY WITHIN FIFTY FEET OF CANYON WALLS SO SCINTILLOMETERS CAN DETECT EXPOSED URANIUM ORE.

TH' EXTREME WIND CURRENTS IN TH' TWISTING CANYONS ARE MOST TREACHEROUS!

DAD··· ANOTHER TELEGRAM!

IT'S FROM OL' TUMBLEWEED AND RIMCUT··· "DO YOU ACCEPT OUR OFFER OF $10,000 AND PERCENTAGE?"

WELL, JACK, YOU WON'T BE FIT TO LIVE WITH IF YOU DON'T TRY IT! WIRE 'EM YES!
